Ruby, Emotionless, Hears Death Decree

Appeal Can Go Several Directions

Must Begin In Texas

Dallas (AP) — Just like any other person convicted of a felony in Texas, Jack Ruby must begin the appeal of his conviction at the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

That is the only Texas court with appellate jurisdiction in criminal cases. The Texas Supreme Court passes judgment only on civil matters.

Should the Court of Ciminal Appeals rule against Ruby, sentenced Saturday to death in the electric chair for slaying alleged presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, the appeal route in state courts would be exhausted.

His attorneys then would have to turn to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. From there, they could appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Then Begin Term

If the U.S. Supreme Court also should decide against Ruby, he then would officially begin serving his sentence.

However, further legal action could be sought from a U.S. District Court on the claim that Ruby was being illegally confined in prison.

In that case, he or his lawyers would file a writ of habeas corpus with a federal District judge.

Habeas corpus actions usually involve alleged violations of constitutional rights. These violations can stem from such things as suppression of evidence, illegal search and failure to inform an arrested person of his rights.

Again, if Ruby were turned down at the U.S. District Court level, he could take the habeas corpus matter to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and again to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Asst. Dist. Atty. A. D. Jim Bowie pointed out that Ruby could file a writ of habeas corpus with the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals as well as the U.S. District Court after an adverse ruling by the Supreme Court.

Usually Ruled Against

"But those writs are usually ruled against, because the Criminal Appeals Court would have already decided on the case," Bowie explained.

Chief Defense Counsel Melvin Belli claimed at one point in the trial that many reversible errors already were in the record. If an appellate court ruled that an error was made, the case would be sent back to the original court and a new trial ordered.

Defense lawyers early in the trial asked the Texas Supreme Court to rule that persons who saw Ruby shoot Oswald on television were witnesses to the event and therefore ineligible to serve as jurors. Eleven of the 12 jurors in the case said they saw the television scenes, either live or on rerun video tape.

The State Supreme Court refused to rule one way or the other on the issue.

"Since the State Supreme Court has no jurisdiction in criminal cases, it could make no ruling on the matter," Bowie said. He pointed out, though, that the Supreme Court does issue writs of prohibition, but only in civil matters.

The Court of Criminal Appeals, Bowie said, issues writs of prohibition only on questions wherein it has already passed judgment. The television-witness-juror issue has been neither placed before nor ruled on by the Criminal Appeals court.

Jury Takes Two Hours To Convict

Defense Says Will Appeal

Dallas, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby, no trace of emotion on his pallid face, was condemned to death Saturday by a jury that swiftly convicted him of murder with malice.

It took the panel of four women and eight men only two hours and 19 minutes to exact the maximum penalty on the 52-year-old operator of a Dallas strip tease joint for the Nov. 24 slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

Chief Defense Attorney Melvin Belli, a noted civil courts lawyer but a loser in the biggest criminal case of his career, charged to newsmen that he had information that one juror, whom he did not identify, had boasted to his employer that if he got on the Ruby panel he would vote the death penalty.

"Minds Made Up"

"Unquestionably they had their minds made up," Belli declared.

Belli, a portly, gray San Francisco lawyer, was beside himself with rage in the instant after the verdict was returned at 11:22 a.m. He leaped to his feet. His face grew red. At the top of his voice he shouted, defying Judge Joe B. Brown's attempts to quiet him:

"This is a victory for bigotry. We'll appeal this to a court where we can get due justice and law."

Then as Ruby, still seemingly uncomprehending, was led past him in the custody of a phalanx of burly sheriff's deputies, the defense chief cried:

"Don't worry, Jack! We'll appeal this and take it out of Texas."

The packed courtroom was thrown into wild confusion immediately after the verdict, although Judge Brown had warned against any demonstrations. Network television cameras, admitted to the court for the verdict by a last-minute decision of the court, recorded the scene. It was believed to be the first time in the history of major American criminal trials that such a scene was televised.

Two Years

Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade, 50, a blunt-faced, gray-haired prosecutor who 24 times before has sent a defendant to the chair, said he anticipated it would be at least two years before Ruby can be executed, assuming the verdict stands. He said the appeal process would probably take at least that long.

Meanwhile, Ruby was returned to the Dallas County jail, where he has been held without bond since the day he killed Oswald. Sheriff Bill Decker said he will remain there until his last appeal is exhausted. Then the actual date for execution would be set by Judge Brown.

Ruby, a paunchy, slight man with a few wisps of dark hair across a nearly bald head, stepped from a crowd in the basement of Dallas police headquarters at 11:21 a.m. CST Sunday, Nov. 24. With a single bullet, he cut down the 24-year-old Oswald, a loner, a professed Marxist and the man charged officially with the assassination 48 hours earlier of the 35th president of the United States.

The state called the crime murder with malice. Wade described Ruby as a glory seeker and told the jury he hoped to gain materially as the killer of an accused presidential assassin. State testimony quoted Ruby as saying he killed Oswald "to show the world that Jews do have guts."

The defense pleaded temporary insanity. Their witnesses told of youthful head injuries which they said led to Ruby's suffering psychomotor epilepsy.

Reactions Vary At Ruby Verdict

Dallas (AP) — This was the reaction of the key prosecution and defense attorneys after Jack Ruby was assessed the death penalty for murdering Lee Harvey Oswald:

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade:

"I think the key to your verdict was your officers' testimony — putting the malice into the case.

"I think it's a fair and impartial verdict — the facts warranted it.

"I never did think the encephalograms (brain wave tests) had a damn thing to do with the case.

"The killing of a handcuffed man — innocent until proven guilty — made this an unusual case.

"It was an assassination within itself."

Wade said testimony from Dallas police officers with Ruby at the time or shortly after the shooting of Oswald established "premeditation — that he thought about killing Lee Harvey Oswald two days earlier."

Chief Defense Counsel Melvin Belli:

"This was a kangaroo railroad. I hope the people of Dallas are proud of this jury that was rammed down our throats."

He said he planned to appeal without delay and would stop practicing law if he failed to win a reversal in the case.

"They (jurors) disregarded every bit of the psychiatric testimony.

"Two hours on a case like this! What kind of a city do you think this is? This is a blight on Dallas that will make this place a city of shame forever.

"Jack wondered why the policemen (whose testimony was designed to show malice in the case) lied about him on the stand, when he thought they were his friends.

"The Dallas News told the judge 10 days ago that one of the jurors had said before he was chosen on the jury: "If I get on the jury, I'll hang him (Ruby)."

The two key figures reacted in complete contrast when the verdict was read. Wade smiled faintly and thanked the jurors in a soft voice. Belli leaped from his chair angrily and shouted that the decision was a "victory for bigotry."

Bus Crash Fatal to 33

Pasto, Colombia (AP)—A bus loaded with about 40 school children headed for a three-day outing plunged down a 300-foot cliff into a river, and authorities today listed 33 dead.

Morrison Sets Up Meeting

Seeks Plan For Midwest

Creation of a bipartisan congressional bloc to look out for the over-all well-being of the central states was urged Saturday by Gov. Frank Morrison.

Morrison said he has called a special meeting of the Midwest Governor's Conference to propose the plan.

Morrison said a meeting in Washington Friday has been set to consider the plan. Attending will be governors of 12 states or their representatives.

Morrison indicated such a congressional bloc could help with such vital Midwest matters as obtaining National Aeronautics and Space Administration and other government research facilities. He said the unity of Midwest senators and representatives could also handle successfully the beef import problem.

Morrison, chairman of the conference, said states represented at Washington Friday will include Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, North Dakota, Kansas, Missouri, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan.

Haircut Dispute

100 Ohio College Students Arrested

Yellow Springs, Ohio (UPI) —Police, using a water hose and tear gas, Saturday arrested more than 100 college students during a mass demonstration against a barber who refused to cut Negro hair.

Authorities from seven counties helped round up the students in the largest mass arrest of demonstrators in Ohio since the current civil rights movement began.

Police topk 15 carloads of demonstrators to jails in Xenia eight miles away.

Students piled across busy U.S. 68, which is the main street of this community, preventing officers from taking more persons to jail in Xenia, the county seat. Authorities closed off the eight-mile stretch of highway between here and Xenia for the night.

Yellow Springs is the home of liberal Antioch College whose students have been in a running dispute with Barber Lewis Gegner since 1961 over his refusal to cut Negro hair.

The demonstration began peacefully when the students from Antioch and from Central State College at Wilberforce, 10 miles away, assembled at the barber shop in defiance of an injunction issued Friday limiting pickets to three.

Police Chief James McKee, a Negro, and Green County Sheriff Russell A. Bradley told the students to disperse, saying they didn't want to arrest them.

The sheriff read the injunction. When the students did not disperse the police chief announced all were under arrest.

The students, about half of them white and others Negro, locked arms and sat down. They formed a line stretching about 200 feet from the barbershop.

The barber's attorney, Harry Kyle, stood by smiling.

New Trial For Hoffa Is Denied

Next Step Is Appeal

Chattanooga, Tenn. (AP) — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, convicted on jury tampering charges, lost Saturday a bid for a new trial.

U.S. Dist. Judge Frank Wilson, who sentenced Hoffa to 8 years in prison and fined him $10,000 Thursday, formally overruled motions for a new trial by Hoffa and three others convicted with him.

At the same time, Wilson said he will go to Nashville March 30 for the trial of Lawrence Medlin, Nashville sandwich shop operator. Medlin is charged with having a part in the jury tampering effort for which Hoffa and three others were convicted.

Sentenced to three years each were Thomas E. Parks of Nashville; his nephew, Detroit Teamsters Business Agent Larry Campbell, and Ewing King, former Nashville Teamsters president. Two other defendants were acqitted.

All four defendants were convicted at the end of the seven-week trial here on charges of trying to fix the federal jury in Nashville which heard Hoffa's conspiracy trial in 1962. That case ended in a mistrial when the jury was hopelessly deadlocked.

The defendants, all of whom have said they will appeal, have until March 24 to file notices with the sixth circuit court of appeals in Cincinnati. They are free on bond pending appeal.

Medlin was not tried here with the other defendants because he did not request a change of venue from Nashville to Chattanooga. The appelate court upheld his right to be tried in his home district.

Poverty War Plan Is Ready

Cabinet Fuss Over Tactics

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson will sound the trumpet call to arms in his "war on poverty" Monday with a special message to Congress that has been delayed for weeks by sour notes among his top advisers.

The 2,800-word message will outline the administration's plans for a broad-scale, billion-dollar attack on sub-standard living in a prosperous America.

A hint of the President's proposals came in his State of the Union message on Jan. 8, when he suggested such steps as federal and local aid to schools, new housing, expanded job training and a youth employment program.

Johnson's pricetag was about $1 billion, of which half would be spent on existing educational and employment projects.

Since then, a cabinet-level quarrel has erupted over just how the administration would wage the war. Officials said Saturday the bickering is not as heated as some published reports have suggested. But they conceded that serious policy differences were involved.

One subject of fairly sharp debate is whether the attack on "pockets of poverty" should be conducted by existing agencies.

Sargent Shriver, Peace Corps director whom Johnson appointed to co-ordinate the poverty program, has held out for creation of a new federal agency to deal directly with all aspects of the attack.

This idea is not viewed sympathetically by the departments of Labor, Agriculture or Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), which already are deeply involved in fighting poverty and its causes.

Another ticklish question is whether to propose federal aid grants to strengthen schools. The administration already has heard rumblings about a possible breach in the wall of church-state separation if Catholic schools are included.

A high point of Johnson's plan is sure to be concentration on chronic unemployment. The President told congress in late January that "if we are to wage a successful war against poverty, then we must begin by helping all workers with family responsibilities to find a productive place in the economy."

Turkish Cypriots rush through gunfire to join comrades in houses just ahead.

Finn, Swedish Troops Also to Go to Cyprus

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Finland and Sweden have promised troops for a U. N. peace-keeping force in troubled Cyprus, leaving the force only about 1,000 short of its goal of 7,000 men.

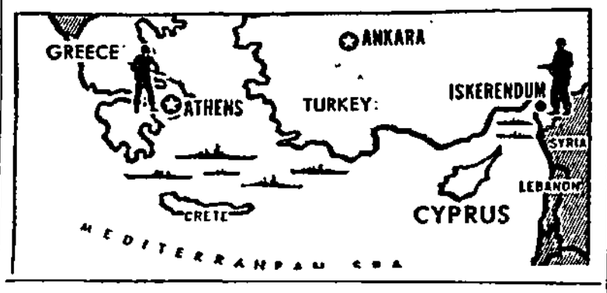
The new battalions were expected to add about 700 men each to the 1,150 Canada had already started sending to Cyprus in what Ottawa called "operation snow goose." That made the total of about 2,250 troops in prospect.

U. N. Secretary-General U Thant aimed to raise 3,500 from six or eight countries to replace half the 7,000 British troops now trying to keep peace between Greek and Turkish Cypriots. Ireland has pledged 500 men.

An advance contingent of 42 Canadian officers and men reached Nicosia by plane Saturday. Finland and Sweden planned to send advance parties of staff officers to Cyprus too, but their battalions seemed likely to take up to four weeks to get there.

Brazilian Maj. Gen. Carlos Flores de Paiva Chaves arrived in Nicosia Saturday to become acting commander of the new force.

Thant was waiting to get definite word on troops from Austria, which lacked a government to make a decision and Brazil, which turned him down once but was asked to reconsider.



LBJ Plans OAS Talk

To Give Push To Alliance

Washington (AP) — President Johnson plans to give a new push to the Alliance for Progress in a major speech Monday to the Organization of American States (OAS).

On the same day, he is to begin a sweeping review of U.S.-Latin American relations and problems in general, with every U.S. ambassador and foreign aid chief from this hemisphere in Washington by his summons to give a first-hand report.

Out of these meetings might emerge not only a tougher policy toward the Fidel Castro Communist dictatorship in Cuba but a tightening up of any slack the President might find about Washington's handling of business with its hemisphere neighbors.

The President's speech is expected to be a strong reaffirmation of his pledge to continue White House support for the alliance. It is to be given at the installation of Carolos Sandz de Santamaria as president of the Inter-American Committee for the Alliance for Progress. Sanz de Santamaria is a 58-year-old successful Colombian businessman and cabinet official.

The committee is a new organization created to give the alliance more of a hemisphere-wide aspect.

Railway Folk Think Bombers Still Around

St. Augustine, Fla. (UPI)—The Florida East Coast Railway indicated it believes some train bombers still are at large.

A special FBI team that President Johnson ordered into action arrested three men Friday in connection with the train bombings that have dogged the strike-plagued road. A fourth suspect is being sought.

Members of 11 non-operating unions have been on strike against the railroad for over a year, but the unions have denied any connection with the violence.

All three of the suspects taken into custody were former members of operating unions.

"There may be some other people involved," said FEC Vice-President W. L. Thornton.

"I think the efforts of the FBI and state authorities are going to have to continue until we're all satisfied that everyone responsible for these acts has been apprehended," he added.

Joseph Leo Vedder, 32, of Miami and Wesley Davis, 28, of Fort Pierce were arrested on charges of attempting to "derail, disable or wreck" a freight train. Both were released on $50,000 bond.

Hugh Winn, 56, was arrested in Miami on a charge of conspiring to violate the U.S. train wreck law.

Curtis: Baker Case End Halted

Says Evidence Bears Him Out

By G. MILTON KELLY

Washington (AP) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., released evidence Saturday which he says proves that the Senate Rules Committee's Democratic chairman was ready to announce Friday a 6-3 vote ending the Bobby Baker probe, but was balked by Republican members.

Earlier in the day Curtis had charged that the chairman, Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., was under orders to stop the politically explosive hearings on the business affairs of Baker, resigned secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority.

"Tough Job"

"Sen. Jordan is a fine man," Curtis' statement said. "He had a tough job to carry out the orders to stop the hearings." Curtis did not say from whom these alleged orders had come.

Reached in Burlington, N.C., his home, Jordan had this comment:

"I have never had orders from anyone even suggesting that I stop the hearings. The charge is absolutely not true. Neither myself nor any member of any staff, as far as I know, has ever been pressured or ordered in any way to stop this hearing."

Curtis and his two GOP colleagues on the committee sprang a surprise at Friday's stormy closed meeting when they introduced an accountant's sworn statement that his name had been forged to some of Baker's income tax returns.

The consequent row, and the GOP demands for the right to call more witnesses, staved off, at least until next Tuesday, a showdown vote between the committee's six Democratic and three Republican members on the future of the inquiry.

The committee Democrats want to bring the inquiry to a close and start writing a final report of findings.

Italian Red Ranks Decline

Naples, Italy (UPI)—Leaders of Italy's Communist party say its "goals, strategy and tactics" must be explained more clearly to stop a skidding decline in the number of card-carrying members.

Fauto Gullo, a Communist member of the Italian parliament, told a conference of 1,000 party leaders that the red-tape involved in "a technical and bureaucratic aproach" to recruiting efforts had resulted in the sagging membership.

The number of card carriers dripped to 1,615,112 in last spring's national elections. Italy, however, has the largest Communist party among the Western allies, and the party received almost 8 million votes in the elections.

Flooded Ohio River Lets Up in Rampaging Attack

Lousville, Ky. (AP) — The muddy, overflowing Ohio River relaxed its assault on four states Saturday, though it might take another week before its flood threat is eased along the lower reaches.

An air of optimism among rivertowns was reflected at Evansville, Ind., where a disaster center was closed. Only one call for evacuation was received. A 54-foot high floodwall protects Evansville, but a creek swamped some lowlands.

The Red Cross said in Cincinnati that the flood damaged or destroyed the homes of 20,433 families in Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia.

All told, 110,000 persons were affected to some degree; 11 perished and damage might run close to $100 million. But U.S. engineers said flood control measures saved at least $290 million in damages and reduced flood crests from 2 to 10.5 feet between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

Uncle Sam stood ready to help flood sufferers along the 981-mile Ohio, a key avenue of transportation for the country's midland.

President Johnson and the governors of five states flew over the flood area Friday. Then the President announced federal help was forthcoming.

Kentucky asked for $4.2 million, the estimate needed to repair public facilities. Gov. Edward T. Breathitt said damage to private property would run three times that high.

Light rain fell Saturday in the middle Ohio valley but, at worst, was expected to do nothing more than delay the fall of the river. Rain totaling one inch or more was expected in some areas before cooler weather moved in.

Glenn Still Improving

San Antonio, Tex. (UPI)—Physicians at the Air Force School of Aerospace Medicine say Astronaut John Glenn is making steady progress in his recovery from an inner ear disturbance.

A medical bulletin said doctors were optimistic that the freckled lieutenant colonel could meet his planned retirement date from the Marine Corps by April 1.

Glenn, whose helmet is in the Ohio Democratic primary ring for the U.S. Senate nomination, fell in the bathroom of his home in Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 26, striking his head on the bathtub.

The Aerospace Medicine School doctors confirmed earlier findings of physicians at Lackland Air Force Base's Wilford Hall Hospital that Glenn's only remaining trouble is a disturbance in the equilibrium center of the inner ear.

Lodge Sits Tight in Wake Of New Hampshire Puzzler

By J. W. Davis

Washington (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge sat tight this week after his spectacular victory in the New Hampshire Republican presidential primary.

Meanwhile, not even taking a rest after what happened in New Hampshire, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona hit the hard campaign trail again, this time in California.

A lot of people were puzzled by the New Hampshire results — some forecasters haven't been so wrong since 1948 — and nobody but Lodge sounded really happy.

Lodge, who stayed at his ambassador's post in South Vietnam while Goldwater and Rockefeller nearly worked their heads off in New Hampshire, had this to say of the voters there:

"They have paid me the highest of compliments and I shall very carefully consider their action and all its meaning."

At least as of now, Lodge said, "I do not plan to go to the United States . .. I do not intend to resign."

A professional politician's view of what the New Hampshire vote meant came from Republican Chairman William E. Miller. He said the race for the party's presidential nomination is still wide open, that Lodge's triumph was something of a regional feat, "but then you can't discount it, either."

In round figures, these were the New Hampshire vote totals:

Lodge (write-ins) 33,500; Goldwater 21,800; Rockefeller, 19,500; former Vice-President Richard M. Nixon (write-ins) 15,700.

Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, who continues to decry talk that he might run for president, received fewer than 100 votes, write-ins. Still, talk of a boom for him persisted, and some claimed Scranton alone had come through untarnished and shimingly available.

U.S., Allies Pour Aid Funds into Italy

Rome (UPI) — The United States and other Western allies injected massive amounts of credit into Italy's shaky economy to fight inflation, recession and social strife.

A joint communique issued simultaneously here and in Washington said the United States and several European banks had granted about $1 billion in mutual credit facilities. Another $225 million was made available by the International Monetary Fund.

The economic shot in the arm came at a time when Premier Aldo Moro's weak coalition government was under mounting pressure from both the right and left wings of Italian politics to do something about the deteriorating financial situation.

In announcing the credit plan, Treasury Secretary Emilio Colombo said it confirmed his long-standing view that "despite present difficulties the Italian situation is perfectly controlled and controllable, provided the support of the nation's active forces is not lacking.

How Do You Drive to Mr. Green Thumb's House in East Lincoln?

Construction is scheduled to begin Monday, March 16, on the widening of East O Street. While construction is in progress, it will be necessary to use local detour routes to get to the East Lincoln Office of Union Loan and Savings at 56th and O.

MR. GREEN THUMB

Here are suggested best routes:

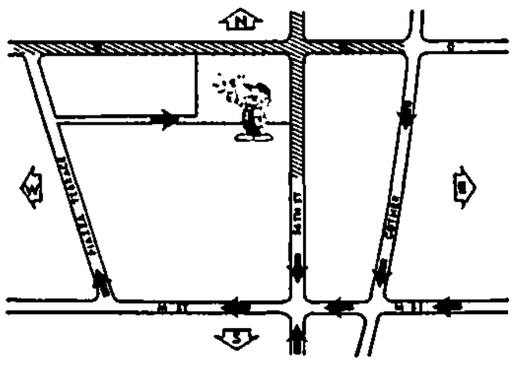
FROM NORTH: Go on 48th or Cotner to M; then to Piazza Terrace; and Piazza Terrace to the paved entrance south of Union Loan's big off-street parking lot at 56th and O.

FROM SOUTH: Go 48th, 56th, or Cotner to M to Union Loan.

FROM EAST: Go on any through street to M and 56th Street; west on M to Piazza Terrace and north to Union Loan.

FROM WEST: Go on any through street to M and Piazza Terrace, then north to Union Loan.

Best Detour Routes to Mr. Green Thumb's House



Construction of new streets and highways causes detours which inconvenience all of us. But by cooperating in a good spirit we can help speed the day when the job will be finished and we all can enjoy a new and wider East O Street. We're glad to cooperate with the city in this project, and we ask your cooperation and indulgence while this important improvement is being made.

Reds Say Output Up

Statistics Claim Gains

Moscow (AP)—A Russian economist says the Soviet Union's gross national product last year was more than 60 per cent of that of the United States, where the output of goods and services totaled $585.1 billion.

Soviet industrial production in 1963 was declared to have been worth the ruble equivalent of $223.66 billion, or about 65 per cent of the American showing in that field.

Vladimir Starovsky issued these statistics in an article in the Communist party newspaper Pravda denouncing a U.S. congressional report of slippage in the Soviet economy's growth rate.

Western economists here said the $223.66 billion claim was the first publication they had seen of a monetary figure from the Russians on Soviet industrial output.

Texas Primary Said 'Trap' For Rockefeller

New York (UPI)—Supporters of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller were urged to ignore the Texas Republican presidential primary. Rockefeller's campaign manager described the GOP primary as a "trap" set by backers of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

John A. Wells said the May 2 primary could not be regarded as a true test between the two presidential aspirants. He pointed to the dual roles of Peter O'Donnell who is Texas Republican state chairman as well as head of the Goldwater movement in the Lone Star State.

Big Event in Venezuela

An event of inestimable importance took place in South America this week: The duly-elected president of Venezuela, Romulo Betancourt, retired from office and his duly-elected successor, Dr. Raul Leoni, took over.

• • •

Sounds routine enough, doesn't it? But it has never happened before in the 133-year history of that richest of all Latin American countries. Always in the past, a change in government has come by force and by a dictator installing himself in office.

• • •

The significance of this changing of the guard in Caracas cannot be underestimated. It demonstrates that it is possible to achieve some stability in a popularly-elected government in the explosive atmosphere south of the border.

For Latin Americans it should be proof of the benefits that can come from government leadership that has the backing of a broad segment of the people and that is moving earnestly to correct the old evils — breaking up the landed aristocracy, raising living standards, providing education.

For the United States it should indicate that the Alliance for Progress is not hopeless. This assistance program has been instituted solidly in Venezuela and the dividends are now being reaped. Here is a show place of democracy and inter-American cooperation that should be an inspiration to all peoples below the border.

The change of leadership in Venezuela certainly should inspire the United States to take whatever steps are necessary to protect that country from the infiltration of Communist-trained revolutionists and to press to the limit the case Venezuela has filed against Castro Cuba in the Organization of American States.

• • •

Disruption of the orderly, accepted government of Venezuela at this point would be a calamity for the entire hemisphere.

Facts and Taxes

Before the Nebraska Tax Research Council's annual 25-city tax barometer fades into the sweet distance, the document needs to be further examined for the truth it contains.

• • •

Truth there is a'plenty; ample and uncontroversible evidence to refute glib cliches mouthed by self-serving Nebraskans.

• • •

It should be understood that the Council is a private, independent tax research group. Council members — men of strong personal beliefs — absolutely shrink from taking a collective position on matters of controversy. Neither they nor their paid staff have ever been seriously accused of being for, or against, a change in Nebraska's tax status quo.

What the council is currently reporting is that property taxes in the state's 25 most populous communities rose 11.1% this year over the 1963 level.

In 1963, the property taxes were 6.94% above those in 1962. In 1962, the 25-city property tax total was 8.6% higher than that in 1961. In 1961—well, you can guess what happened.

In fiscal 1961, total property taxes in Nebraska's 25 largest cities was $71,768,501, the Council said. Three fiscal years later, time only for a kindergartner to pass to third grade, the total has risen to $93,373,915.

• • •

In short, property taxes went up last year. They rose the year before. And the year before that. And they will be higher still next year.

• • •

Newspaper readers unable to see the connection between only one kind of recent story, that of teacher salary increases, and higher taxes in 1965 should pick up a refresher course in sequential logic. Or arithmetic.

The lie that this mass of Council data clearly crushes is the dreary refrain: pass a sales or income tax and your taxes will go up; stick with the property tax and you can hold the line.

• • •

Once again it is clear that the question about Nebraska taxes is not whether a change will bring more spending, but whether the increased spending that is sure to come will be funded by heaping more and more taxes on property owners, with no regard for their ability to pay.

WALTER LIPPMANN'S Views

Conflict in Cyprus

The United Nations has been asked to take on a thankless and difficult task in Cyprus, and almost certainly it will be best to regard the enterprise as providing not a solution to the conflict, but a sedative and stopgap.

Lippmann

The prevailing fact in Cyprus is that 83% of the people are Greeks, and only 17% are Turks. Few of them have any sense of their Cypriot nationality. The crucial problem is whether they can live together again, as they have for many hundreds of years in the past; and if so, on what terms.

The United Nations has no solution for this problem, and what it is really being called on to do is to police the island because the government of Cyprus does not do it. Policing the island to pacify and to stop the killing is, of course, the first condition. But we must consider what might be a workable solution.

• • •

Many observers have come to believe that the trouble requires drastic surgery and that the only hope of achieving peace is by way of an exchange of populations, or of populations and territories, involving Cyprus, Turkey and Greece. In view of the condition of inflamed nationalism which now prevails in both Greece and Turkey, such exchanges do not look very feasible.

• • •

Turkish Migration

Of all the ideas which I have heard, the one that seems the most plausible is that there might be a migration of some considerable part of the Turkish minority from the island onto the Turkish mainland. This idea can be entertained, of course, only if the migration is not forced, only if the Turkish Cypriots who remain are fully secured, only if those who migrate are indemnified for the property they leave behind and only if generous provision is made for re-establishing them on the Turkish mainland.

• • •

The Turks, too, indeed the Turks most of all, have a vital interest in not being at war with Greece, and they have a vital interest in preserving the NATO alliance. They must know that Cyprus can never be a part of Turkey and that Cyprus is in fact predominantly a Greek island.

• • •

If Prime Minister Inonu were to take the initiative in seeking a solution, he would lose nothing that is really vital and substantial to Turkey. On the contrary, he would augment greatly the security and the international prestige of his country.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND Reports

Will Lodge Campaign?

Hong Kong — Henry Cabot Lodge's closest political supporters are using the highly pro-Lodge vote in New Hampshire to get him back to the United States to launch a full-scale personal campaign for the Republican nomination.

Drummond

They are now telling the GOP's 1960 vice-presidential nominee that his chance of winning the top place on the 1964 ticket is so improved by his decisive victory in the first presidential primary that he can't afford to throw away his prospects by remaining long in Saigon.

Even before the New Hampshire vote an emissary of the Draft-Lodge high command in Washington conferred secretly with the ambassador here in Hong Kong in mid-February and told him that a substantial write-in would transform his position overnight from dark horse to leading contender. The argument was this:

—That a good showing in New Hampshire would definitely put the nomination within Lodge's reach if he were willing to make an all-out bid for it well before the San Francisco convention.

• • •

—That it would be essential for Lodge to return to the United States for a nationwide speaking tour and for a series of consultations with political leaders and delegates — if he is to have a good chance of converting a New Hampshire triumph into a convention victory.

• • •

There is no doubt that Lodge was interested, impressed, undoubtedly tempted by this appeal. But he made no commitment. Only a few days ago in Saigon he told this reporter he had no intention of resigning the ambassadorship to campaign for the nomination though he would welcome it.

However, his remarkable triumph in New Hampshire puts Lodge in a real quandary and possibly opens his mind to a future change of political plans.

Unquestionably Lodge feels a duty to remain in Saigon, particularly when the fate of South Vietnam remains so uncertain. Unquestionably Lodge would like the presidential nomination and he feels a duty to his supporters who are advancing his cause so effectively at home.

• • •

Now Lodge's decision is not whether to refuse to campaign for a nomination which few thought he could get anyway, but whether to remain out of a race which he has a greatly improved chance of winning.

Today he is being pulled strongly to get in all the way.

The Power of Faith

By Woodi Ishmael

HAIL, KING OF THE JEWS

Pilot, hearing that Jesus was a Galilean, gladly handed Him over to Herod's jurisdiction. Herod, who had heard much about Jesus but never had seen Him, was delighted to receive the prisoner, hoping to see Him perform some miracles. But when Jesus had answered all his questions, Herod handed Him over to his soldiers to be beaten.

The soldiers wrapped Him in a purple cloak, put a crown of plaited thorns on His head, knelt before Him and cried, "Hail, King of the Jews," then struck Him and spit upon Him.

And from that day, as Luke tells us, Herod and Pilot became friends, "whereas previously they had been at enmity with each other." (Luke XXIII:12)

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL

The idea of student internship in government is not new, but it has passed the experimental stage in North Carolina.

• • •

Interning in Government

The North Carolina Summer Internship Program in State Government was established by Gov. Terry Sanford in June, 1962. After two years' experience, state government administrators are convinced the program is bringing fresh ideas to government and at the same time producing able political and civic leaders.

Ray Ferris tells how the program works in the winter publication, "State Government," of the Council of State Governments.

The interns are limited to 20 in number and have been selected from the various colleges in North Carolina. Nine colleges were represented in the 1963 intern program.

• • •

The interns are paid $75 a week by the governmental agency for which they work, and the cost charged to appropriations for temporary employes. The governor's office has specified that the interns work only on special research projects or as administrative assistants. To allow them to do only menial work would be an obvious waste.

• • •

The interns were housed at North Carolina State or the University of North Carolina at Raleigh, enabling them to share their work experience and evaluate their political views and outlooks.

The heart of the North Carolina Summer Internship Program in State Government is the challenge it offers to the students in the discussion meetings. These begin in the orientation sessions and continue thrice weekly in luncheons and seminars.

• • •

These luncheons and seminars feature as speakers numerous leading state officials and prominent civic leaders. The subjects of talks include North Carolina history, party organization, education, labor relations, public welfare, highway safety, utility regulation and equal rights.

• • •

Ferris cites an impressive list of studies and contributions the interns have made to the State of North Carolina. The greatest benefit to the state is intangible — the development of leadership.

It is strange that in a country where the government is of the people, by the people, and for the people that so little emphasis is put on learning about government. There is an assumption that anyone who can win an election is competent for government office.

• • •

The internship program is one that could well be emulated by state, city and county governments throughout the nation.

Nebraska's Fourth Estate

With its largest Tapeline edition on record (eight sections, 194 pages) the Hastings Daily Tribune answered the built-in question, "How is this possible," with the answer: "It's easy, because the purpose of this Tapeline . . . is to measure the yearly progress of the area which the Tribune serves.

"The advancement that is made each year by the thousands of people who make up South Central Nebraska and North Central Kansas is tremendous. They are workers and they are builders. Because of this the problem of producing a Tapeline is not so great as it would be in an area where little is accomplished from year to year."

• • •

War Paint

Noting Lincolnite Jim Raglin's proposal that a buffalo hunt be one of the events of the 1967 Nebraska Centennial, the Norfolk Daily News suggested, "If this idea catches on, there is no reason not to carry the theme of re-staging the events of long ago a little further. An Indian fight re-enacted by descendants of the original cast is another possibility. What red-blooded Sioux wouldn't like another chance?"

• • •

Luxury of the Pen

"Someone who grew up in the unhurried age of the grand Spencerian flourish or the rounded world of Prof. Palmer recommended at the area Governor's Conference on Education at Norfolk that one of the things modern education needs (besides more money) is a greater emphasis on penmanship," the Falls City Journal noted. It commented:

"No matter how much practice was devoted to penmanship, most people would write no better because they haven't the time to write beautifully . . . Fine handwriting was a luxury of a more slowly-paced culture. We can't wait for it today. If we want it rend by anyone other than ourselves, we dictate it, type it, or photostat it."

• • •

Our Laws

Oral arguments in the Nebraska Supreme Court over the constitutionality of the three retroactive time-sales remedial bills evoked strong words from defense attorneys about the recent Saturday Evening Post article, "The Nebraska Credit Fiasco."

The Scottsbluff Star-Herald declared the article "and nothing else appearing in newspapers or other similar publications has anything to do with the facts of the case . . . Anyone . . . might find fault if they liked with the general bantering tone but so far we haven't heard anyone argue with the facts presented. The truth is that the Legislature, starting in 1959 and subsequent Legislatures, plus the state's credit industry, worked themselves steadily into a corner . . . The Saturday Evening Post certainly didn't pass the legislation in question before the Nebraska Supreme Court."

• • •

Supply & Demand?

Jack Lough in the Albion News finds amusement in the pre-election antics of candidates who try to curry favor by visiting the editor. He comments, "Seems doggone strange to me that an editor's opinion before an election is always sought . . . and advice given to an office holder after an election is ignored."

The Real Plum

Haigler—Your comments on the contest for lieutenant governor (Sunday Journal & Star, Mar. 8) were interesting and timely. Most certainly a candidate who can poll a heavy vote on a state-wide ballot will have a healthy head start for the governor's seat two years from now.

Fred Seaton might have made an excellent governor had he been elected. He never seemed to realize that a high paid administrative job in Washington was not an asset but a handicap in his quest for the governorship.

We were rather disenchanted by the lack-lustre campaign of two years ago.

We are now watching Gov. Morrison making political hay while Republicans in the Statehouse are quietly doing the job. It will take a real pro to unseat him.

This is going to be an interesting primary even in Nebraska. The lieutenant governorship is a real plum. With the field wide open the winner will have to demonstrate an ability to get votes.

'Gator Bowl'

Lincoln—I have read Leo Scherer's splendid letter to Park Superintendent Jim Ager (Sunday Journal and Star Mar. 1) after the death of the old alligator, Gus, at the indoor zoo.

Gus was to have been moved in summertime to the Children's Zoo where he would have a little grass shack, complete with palms, on an island.

"The Gator Bowl" was one of the several gifts to the Children's Zoo by the Abel Foundation.

In place of Gus we are arranging to show a number of small 18-24 inch alligators. They will be much safer and much more active and even more interesting.

And, who knows, the little alligators may be direct descendants of old Gus.

Half Minute Inspiration

Happiness is as important as sunshine. It helps you to keep or regain your health. It accompanies every good work you do, and gives you incentive and energy to do more and greater things. Happiness is God's antidote for discouragement, and a very welcome compensation for many of life's inequalities. Happiness is a by-product of unselfishness. Try to give a little extra happiness to everyone you meet: most people can use more. Jesus said: "Abide in God's love that your joy might become full."

Personal Views Of The News

"There Is No Magic Formula," says the Scottsbluff Star-Herald in the headline over an editorial discussing the tax situation in Nebraska. There is no such formula, it states in the body of its discussion, "by which someone can wave a wand and come up with a great new source of revenue . . ." Just ahead of that, it asked: ". . . how much longer can the property owner (and we're not talking about businesses but about those people who are making payments on homes and farms) continue to bear the unbalanced burden of the state, school, county and municipal revenue needs?"

• • •

And still further ahead in its editorial, the Star-Herald presented some of the tax figures recently compiled by the Nebraska Tax Research Council, Inc. The study bows that state and local taxes in the 25 largest cities of Nebraska rose 11.1 percent this year compared to an increase of 6.94 percent the year before. During the past decade, state and local taxes have risen 35.8 percent.

• • •

There will be those who will use the figures in an effort to prove that we have to stop the increase in government spending. Figures, however, are funny things and where you have one set indicating one thing, you can find another set indicating something else.

In contrast to our tax spending, take the report of the National Education Association (NEA) which shows that Nebraska ranks 32nd in the nation in per capita expenditures for public schools. Only 10 other states in the nation pay their teachers less than the going rate in Nebraska and only one state has more buildings than Nebraska in use today and built prior to 1920.

• • •

There are other figures, too, along this same line which show Nebraska to be about average in per capita income but way, way down the line in per capita tax spending for all purposes. And there are figures, too, that show that taxes today are little, if any, higher than they were years ago in terms of the cost of living and the average annual income of citizens.

• • •

Thus, the reader can pretty well pick the set of "facts" by which he wants to go and proceed from there to advocate the cause that is dear to his heart. One can look at such reports as that issued by the research council and conclude that government spending must be accelerated.

• • •

Is it possible that there is a little truth to both sides? Is it possible that the kind of tax system we have in Nebraska is as hard or more so on our people than the amount of taxes collected? Is it possible that taxes are such a load in Nebraska because the load is not evenly shared by the wealth that is a part of this great state?

• • •

Eventually, the people of this state are going to have to make a decision in this matter and the showdown probably is not too far off. It is likely that in the very near future we will face either an arbitrary lid on spending or a change in the system. We can't have two answers to our problem but before we settle on one or the other, we should recognize the existence of and give consideration to both sides of the problem.

Nebraska Congressmen Vary Attacks on Beef Imports

By CARYL RIVERS

Washington—The Nebraska congressional delegation is lining up on the opposite side of the fence from the Johnson administration as the battle over beef imports begins in earnest on Capitol Hill.

The Nebraskans are using all forms of strategy — from introducing legislation to writing letters — to combat the sharp drop in the cattle market by restricting meat imports.

The administration has made it clear that it opposes legislative curbs on imports because such curbs might harm U.S. foreign trade.

In the Senate, the best chances for the anti-import group seem to ride on an amendment sponsored by Sen. Roman Hruska which would restrict imports to the 1960 level. An amendment proposed by the Senator to the wheat-cotton bill was narrowly defeated earlier by a 46-44 vote on the floor.

The new amendment is tacked onto a relatively innocuous bill regulating imports of wild birds and animals.

"The major objection in the Senate to the original amendment was not the substance of the amendment but to the fact that it was tacked onto the wheat-cotton bill," said a spokesman for Sen. Hruska.

"It was understood that the President would veto the bill if it contained the amendment on imports. A number of senators were sympathetic to our position, but did not want to harm the wheat-cotton legislation."

Mansfield Proposal

Adding to the senator's optimism is the fact that the administration's chief Senate spokesman, majority leader Mike Mansfield, is also pushing an amendment to curb imports. The Mansfield amendment would allow 670.9 million lbs. of beef imports each year, as compared to the 413.8 lbs. set by the Hruska proposal. Recent US. agreements with Australia and New Zealand allow importation of 923.4 lbs. annually.

Beef cattle producers feel that the recent agreements are only a token gesture, since they set imports at the record high level of 1962 and 1963. They also include a growth factor for imports of 3.7%, which cattlemen feel is too high. The Hruska amendment would permit a growth factor equal to population increase, about 1.5%.

Sen. Hruska discussed his proposal at hearings before the Senate Finance Committee on Wednesday. A majority of the committee voted for his prior amendment, and are expected to favor the new one. However, lengthy hearing have been scheduled, and it may be three weeks or more before the bill is reported. The chances for quick passage of the bill may depend on whether the bill can be sent to the floor with the civil rights debate in full swing.

Falling Apart

The senator feels that although imports may not be the only factor in the slump in the cattle market, they are the crucial one. "The cattle business is cyclical," said a spokesman," because it's the one agricultural segment of the economy that is not controlled. The overpopulation of cattle is a problem now. But livestock men might be able to carry this if it wasn't for the added 11% of our beef production coming from imports. The Department of Agriculture has admitted that this is the crucial factor. It's the reason why the market is falling apart."

The senator believes that the farmer is the "pawn" in the international trade game. "Our negotiators never have much success with agricultural trade agreements. This seems to be the stumbling block," said a spokesman. "Agreements are made on machinery and other manufactured products, but the farmer gets left out in the cold."

Sen. Hruska has written letters to the President and to the secretaries of state and agriculture urging that the voluntary agreements with Australia and New Zeland be withdrawn, and has sent a letter to Rep. Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, asking for quick House action on the problem.

Curtis Bills

Sen. Carl Curtis, a member of the finance Committee, is strongly in favor of any corrective legislation on imports. He has presented bills in the last three Congresses that would impose a 25% ad valorem duty on imports that exceed the 1957 base. One of these is still pending. He is also a co-sponsor of the Hruska ammendment.

In the House, the Nebraska congressmen are putting pressure on the Ways and Means Committee to schedule hearings on the imports question soon. Each of the three representatives is also sponsoring a bill on imports.

Rep. Glenn Cunningham is backing a bill that would provide flexible limits on imports, based on the state of the market in the U.S. His bill would put a maximum limit of 168 million pounds per year on beef imports, but would allow imports to rise and fall below that ceiling.

Cunningham feels that the flexible quota approach will draw wide support in the house.

Beermann Bill

Rep. Ralph Beermann is the sponsor of a bill that would slash imports to 50% of the five-year average prior to 1963. He is also co-sponsoring a bill introduced by Florida Democrat A. Sydney Herlong that would set the limit at the average 1959-1963 rate.

Rep. Beermann said he feels that legislation on imports is needed as a "last resort." "The executive has the power to negotiate on this problem, but if it does not negotiate in the best interests of the U.S., then Congress has to act. It's my impression that more than half of the members of the House feel the same way," he said.

Rep. Beermann said cattlemen feel that the administration will accept the Herlong bill, but he disagrees. "The administration wants to go to the GATT (General Agreements on Tariffs and Trade) negotiations with lily-white hands" he said. But he said he believes that the House will support import restrictions despite the opposition of the administration.

Vietnam Reds Have Own Split

Soft, Hard Line Viewed

Tokyo (AP)—North Vietnam's Communists, who supply and inspire guerrillas fighting to extend Red beachheads in southeast Asia, have split among themselves on an ideological issue dividing Moscow and Peking.

The New China News Agency played up the story in a Peking broadcast Saturday. The extensive usage indicated Mao Tze-Tung's Peking regime feels it has the support of a great majortiy of the workers (Communist) party that is the source of political power in North Vietnam.

In brief the question was: Should North Vietnam continue to follow Red China's hard line or turn to the Soviet Union's softer policy, which Peking denounces as modern revisionism?

Arguments about that question evidently have been under way for months in Ho Chi Minh's Red domain. The disclosures came in a report from Le Duan, first secretary of the Worker's party since 1960.

Le Duan was quoted as saying:

"At present a number of comrades within our party have been influenced by modern revisionism when faced with a difficult and complex situation of the new phase of our country's revolution and with the complexities of the international Communist movement.

"Although they are a mere handful of persons, yet this is a bad thing and warrants attention.

Feeder Official Sees Import-Law Progress

Washington (UPI) — The executive secretary-treasurer of the national livestock feeders assn., Don. F. Magdanz of Omaha, said significant progress was made last week toward legislation to restrict imports of beef, veal, lamb and mutton.

The Senate Finance Committee began hearings on Wednesday on import legislation introduced in the Senate and 52 congressmen joined in introducing legislation in the House of Representatives.

Magdanz said the House bill would limit imports of all beef, veal, lamb and mutton to the 1959-63 average, or about 7½ per cent of domestic production in those years.

He said this level is still higher than the 5 per cent sought by the NLFA. However, he said, the bill and companion bills do include cooked, cured and canned meat products and, also, provide the machinery for preventing the dumping of all or a large part of the volume allowed for any calendar quarter on one day of the quarter.

"While our domestic production and price level determined the volume of imports in former years," Magdanz said, "the increased volume of imports is now having a significant influence on domestic prices.

"The members of the National Livestock Feeders Assn. are not isolationists," he said, "but they are determined to protect the domestic market for American producers, American citizens and American taxpayers."

Salesmen, Good Ones, Needed in Large Numbers

By GEORGE LAZARUS
Chicago Daily News Special

Chicago—Many companies are scraping the barrel for new sales talent. A newly released survey indicates that the nation needs at least 250,000 more salesmen this year.

Why is there a scarcity of good salesman? Sales Management magazine recently took an exhaustive look at the picture and noted these factors:

—Selling is different today, and a special type of man—usually of high caliber—is required by more firms.

—Young men are often discouraged from seeking a career in sales because too little has been done to sell selling to them. Surveys of college students reveal they have a low regard for selling as a career.

—Good men are grabbed up quickly. They don't stay in the job market long.

—A large number of salesmen never achieve their potential because they are selling a product or service that is not suited for their talents.

—Due to poor training, an untold number of potentially good salesmen have been lost forever because they got off to a bad start and left the field.

—Cost of recruitment, training and supervision of the individual salesmen can be an expensive proposition.

It now costs an average of $8,700 per salesman, according to the 500 firms who replied to the survey, conducted by the Sales Executives Club of New York.

More than 16,000 new salesmen were hired in 1963 by firms that answered the survey. But only 68.5% of these men were still working at year's end. And even more meaningful, the firms said they expected only 50% of the new men to be with their firms by the end of 1964.

The loss to firms runs into the millions of dollars because of improper selection of new salesmen, said Jack Misselhorn, director of cargo sales planning, United Air Lines, and president of the sales-marketing executives of Chicago.

The survey also revealed that 27% of a firm's sales force, on the average, brought in nearly 53% of total sales. At the other end, one-fifth of the total sales force accounted for only 10% of sales volume—an indication of mediocre selling.

Annual turnover of salesmen ranged from zero to as much as 80% of the firms answering the survey. The average was about 8½%. The major reasons for turnover: Lack of effort on the part of salesmen, poor selection procedures and "greener pastures."

The majority of companies said salary or salary-and-commission was favored by experienced men and sales trainees. Most also offered additional incentives. Fifty per cent said they paid bonuses, 20% offered stock participation.

It Takes Effort

Sales effort is the key to business activity, says Earle M. Burnett Sr. of Lincoln founder of National Salesman's Week, being observed Mar. 15-21.

Plant Investment 10% Over Year Ago

New York (AP) — The business outlook took on a rosier hue last week.

It already was good but new estimates and reports enhanced it.

The stock market took note and advanced to a series of historic highs.

The major developments:

—A prediction that business will increase its investment in new plant and equipment by 10% this year.

—A survey indicated that consumer confidence reached a seven-year peak in the past three months.

—Manufacturers expect a steady rise in sales through June.

—Retail sales in February increased 1% over January and 1% over a year earlier.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said business capital spending was expected to hit $43.2 billion this year, up $4 billion from 1963. This was more than double the increase from 1962 to 1963. It will be the third consecutive year that business investment has risen.

Hodges said the income tax cut was a factor in the plans of businessmen to boost their spending.

An Indicator

Business investment is considered a major indicator of the economy's course because it creates new jobs.

Hodges declined to say that he believed the increase in this type of spending meant a business boom was ahead.

A University of Michigan survey disclosed that consumers are in a mood for spending. Automobiles may be a possible exception.

The University Survey Research Center's index of consumer sentiment rose to 99.0 in January - February compared with 96.9 last November.

The study called the income tax cut "a positive factor."

However, the report said that last January consumers' plans to buy automobiles were lower than a year earlier.

"The new data suggest that the automobile market may receive a smaller share of the consumer dollars in 1964 than it did in 1962 and 1963," the report added.

Optimism

The survey cited these factors in the growing optimism about the business outlook:

"1. There was in January 1964 more awareness of good news than has been characteristic of previous prolonged periods of prosperity.

"2. Uncertainty following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy has now been dispelled. Two-thirds of people at every income level believe that the change in the presidency will have no effect on economic conditions, and some even feel it will have a favorable effect.

"3 Opinions about the latest turn of the cold war to business conditions reflected the easing of international tensions."

The Commerce Department said a survey indicated that sales by manufactures would increase $2.1 billion in the first half of this year.

Durable goods producers expect their sales to rise from $55.3 billion in the last quarter of 1963 to $55.9 billion in the current quarter and to $56.4 billion in the second quarter.

Retail sales in February rose to $18.5 billion. A commerce Department survey indicated that manufacturers and trading businesses expect sales to increase 6% this year.

The automobile business went ahead with high production as if it hadn't heard any indication that softness might develop in sales. It turned out an estimated 164,700 passenger cars last week, up from 161,536 the previous week and 151,140 a year ago.

Assemblies for the year rose to 1,747,185 against 1,621,099 at this time last year.

Ford Motor Co. said it was increasing its March and second quarter car and truck production schedules by 50,000 units.

Steel output ran into a minor setback last week for the first time in 10 weeks. Mills produced 2,312,000 tons of ingots, off about 1% from the previous week.

However, demand for steel remained strong and industry sources expected gains in production and shipments this month and probably through April.

U S Steel Corp. and five other firms were ind[illegible] a U.S. grand jury on charges of rigging bids and alle[illegible] sales of steel and concrete water pipe in 10 western states.

Union Pacific Buying Dozen Super Diesels

The Union Pacific Railroad, which has operated three U50 "super horsepower" diesel-electric freight locomotives since last fall, has ordered 12 more of the 5,000-hp locomotives from General Electric Co. Deliveries are scheduled to begin in June.

Union Pacific has been operating the three U50's in tandem as a single 15,000-hp locomotive to accelerate freight schedules.

The U50 is 83 feet, 6 inches long. It is powered by two V-16 diesel engines and equipped with four 2-axle trucks. Traction motors are geared for a maximum speed of 70 mph.

U25s Ordered By Rock Island

An order for 13 2,500-horsepower diesel locomotives has been placed with General Electric by Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Co.

The U25B locomotives will cost $2,707,000. Delivery is scheduled for May and June.

Dairy Council Plans Meeting

"Nutrition and Youth" will headline the annual meeting of the Dairy Council of Lincoln Tuesday at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, according to Mary Anne Guggenmos, executive director.

A rapidly increasing youth market with an estimated annual allowance and earnings of $10 billion, will be discussed by Dr. Ercel Eppright, assistant dean of home economics at Iowa State University.

Dr. Eppright has done considerable research with the nutrition of Iowa school children in cooperation with the Human Nutrition Branch of the Agricultural Research Service, USDA, and the Agricultural Experiment Stations of Iowa, Ohio and Kansas.

Farm Bureau Youth to Meet

Grand Island — The second Annual Nebraska Farm Bureau Youth Conference will meet Monday and Tuesday at the Yancey Hotel. The theme of the conference is: "Farm Bureau, Freedom and You."

Speakers will include: Charles Marshall, president, Nebraska Farm Bureau; Robert LeFevre, president, Freedom School Inc.; Paul Gill, director of research, Illinois Agricultural Association; and Dr. Michael Kolivosky, academic dean, Hillsdale (Mich.) College.

Cattle Gains Erased

Moderation In Receipts

Omaha (UPI)—The Omaha cattle market started off Monday as though it would maintain the modest gains recorded the previous week.

By the close the session this hope had vanished and on succeeding sessions, Monday's gains and some from the week before were washed out.

Fed steers and heifers were never better than steady after early rounds Monday and declines of 25 or more were noted from there on.

Steers and heifers finished 25-50 lower in spite of moderate receipts and excellent distribution.

Except for sheep, the livestock supply at Omaha and the 11 other major markets was down compared to a week ago; against a year ago hog and sheep numbers were down, cattle slightly higher.

Steer top was 22.40, claimed early for 997 pounders.

Heifer top was 22, paid early for weights from 960-964; others at 20.75-21.75, bulk of the heifers 19.75-20.50.

Average price of slaughter steers figured 20.51 against 20.14 the previous week.

Cows closed 25-50 higher.

Replacement cattle and calves totaled 2,600 head and prices were fully steady to strong.

Butcher hogs and sows ended the week 25-50 lower. Barrows and gilts weighing 190-300 sold from 13.50-15.25; sows weighing 300-625 ranged from 12-13.25.

Fat lambs ended the week 75-1.00 higher.

Old Wheat Recovers

Chicago (UPI) — Old crop wheat contracts posted sharp gains and corn firmed while most other grain futures ended sharply lower on the Chicago Board of Trade last week.

Nearby wheat futures this week recovered 4 of the 25c lost under a tirade of liquidation that began Feb. 20. Sales of 1 million bushels of red wheat to Portugal and sales pending with Spain prompted belief that carryover of red wheat this year will be small.

Sharp Upturn

Trade sources, keeping a wary eye on the farm legislation now before Congress, said passage could mean a sharp upturn in old crop wheat in anticipation of inventory building by millers attempting to avoid the 70c tax which the bill provides.

Longs in new crop wheat were disturbed over the uncertainty of the farm bill and by rain and snow over the grain belt. Prices fell nearly 4c.

Corn firmed on export buying, small receipts at market terminals and light Commodity Credit Corp. selling. Farmers signed up to idle 6 million more feed grain acres than a year ago.

Down on the Farm

Big Herd Supports Machines

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

If you are going to mechanize your dairy farm then you need a herd large enough to make the investment pay.

This was the main point of Dr. C. D. Hoglund's message presented at the Nebraska State Dairy Assn. meeting. Hoglund, a member of the dairy staff at Michigan State University of East Lansing, said dairy farming has changed more during the last 10 years than any previous period in the history of dairying.

While dairymen have doubled output per farm with no increase in labor, they have correspondingly doubled and tripled investments until the total investment on a highly mechanized dairy farm ranges from $600 to $900 per cow, Hoglund said.

Scarcity of reliable farm labor, farm expansion, work simplification and more time for management were reasons given by Hoglund for increased mechanization.

Hoglund warned dairymen that the rush to mechanize also creates problems. "Dairymen need to ask themselves this question," he said, "How much will the labor saved cost per hour and what is it worth in alternative uses?"

Increased costs of mechanization must be paid for out of savings in labor, from improved quality, reduced losses, and increased sale of milk, Hoglund reminded dairymen. He said the size of a dairy operation is the major factor in determing the profitability of investing in increased mechanization.

Among the best paying dairy farm equipment items Hoglund listed hay conditioners (crimpers and crushers) for the farm that harvests 100 or more tons of hay each year. "Investments in forage harvesters and feeding equipment for green chopping usually are not profitable except for herds of more than 30 cows," said Hoglund.

When a herd reaches 40 to 50 cows then Hoglund deems increased investments for harvesting and handling silage as a profitable addition to the farm.

Year around storage feeding accompanied by loose housing milking-parlor systems have proven profitable for herds of 50 to 60 or more cows, he added.

His final reminder was summed up thus;

"Dairymen are faced with the problem of expanding and improving the efficiency of their dairy operations at a time when costs continue to climb and milk prices are relatively low.

"Planning and good records will be needed in making sound decisions. Milk prices will not be favorable enough to pay for overinvestments or to pay at all except under good management and efficient operation."

Cigarets Show Drop In Sales

IRS Reports Slight Decline

Washington (UPI) —A report by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) indicates that the cigaret industry was jolted only slightly in January by the smoking versus cancer scare but possibly enough to revolutionize the public's smoking habits.

The report showed a slight dip in cigaret shipments while the cigar and pipe tobacco business was going up. The most amazing jump was in sales of tiny cigaret-size cigars.

The data were part of an IRS statistical release on tobacco products showing manufacturer shipments during January. The 8-cent-a-pack federal tax on cigarets is paid on these shipments.

The shipments reflect what the manufacturers feel the smoking public will buy, based on experience and present conditions. This was the first such report since the government released a study in January linking cigaret smoking with cancer.

The statistics — compiled from reports of tobacco manufacturers—showed that 40.9 billion cigarets were shipped to stores in January. This was 5.7 per cent less than shipments in January, 1963.

Tobacco industry spokesmen viewed the drop as surprisingly low in view of the widespread publicity given the surgeon general's health-smoking study and reports that state cigaret tax revenues were down throughout the country.

Sen. Byrd Will Run

To Try for Re-election

Washington (UPI) — Sen Harry Flood Byrd, D-Va, scion of one of America's great families and self-styled watchdog of the public purse, announced Saturday he will run for re-election this fall.

Byrd

Byrd, who will be 77 years old June 10, has just completed 31 years in the Senate. He has sometimes been a thorn in the side of the Democratic party. He announced his retirement from politics six years ago but changed his mind after the Virginia legislature, the governor and four former governors urged him to stay on.

He said in a brief statement from his Capitol office Saturday that the decision to [illegible] veteran was a hard one to make.

"I have been influenced by numerous requests from all parts of the state that I run again for the office to which the people of Virginia have so generously elected me on six previous occasions," he said. "I cannot express adequately the depth of my appreciation for the honor they have paid me in my election as state senator, as governor and as United States senator."

Byrd is a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, but he is known chiefly for his position as chairman of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee.

Mexico . . . Awaits De Gaulle

De Gaulle Is Coming

Mexico Trip Not U.S. Poke

Washington (AP) — U.S. officials view French President Charles de Gaulle's visit to Mexico next week as an attempt to boost French prestige in Latin America and expand commercial ties—not to take poke at Uncle Sam

President Johnson's top advisers persist in the belief that De Gaulle is a super patriot rather than anti-United States. But no Johnson-De Gaulle meeting is in sight, although soon after taking office last November Johnson said he would like to confer with the French president.

There is concern here, but it is over the effect De Gaulle's trip will have on the U.S image in Latin America Communists are reported gearing to exploit the four-day visit as anti-United States because of De Gaulle's well-known differences with this country

The French ambassador in Washington, Herve Alphand, sought to give some reassurance on this score in a speech to the national editorial association. He said De Gaulle is traveling "not with the will to rival our friends" but to strengthen French-Latin American economic and cultural links. He said that would benefit the United States too.

The Johnson administration has completed a fresh review of U.S.-French relations and the U.S. ambassador to Paris, Charles E. Bohlen, returns to Paris Sunday after a week of consultations here.

Washington has concluded that nothing much can be done about changing De Gaulle's go-it-alone policy Not wishing to break with Paris, Washington is thus forced to proceed as best it can without French cooperation in some important areas.

Nationwide Rail Strike Threatens

Situation Is 'Pretty Grim'

Washinton (AP)—There is a strong chance of a new nationwide rail strike threat next week, informed sources say.

Sources close to the protracted negotiations between five unions and nearly 200 railroads described the situation as "pretty grim."

The unions are reported ready to consider a strike against the Southern Pacific and the Louisville & Nashville Railroads if the two companies don't respond to offers to bargain separately.

National industry negotiators reportedly would meet a strike against individual roads by posting work rules changes on every major railroad in the country.

That would cause a nationwide strike threat similar to one last August, which Congress halted at the last minute with emergency legislation.

The unions last week announced their efforts to approach individual railroads, starting with the Southern Pacific and the Louisville & Nashville, thus bypassing the stalled national negotiations.

Wednesday Deadline

The unions gave the two railroads until Wednesday to reply. There has been no answer so far.

Both sides are free under the law to act on proposed work rules changes except those which Congress ordered under compulsory arbitation. The unions are appealing to the Supreme Court on arbitration ruling that could eventually eliminate thousands of railroad jobs.

The new strike threat would come on issues which Congress left to joint negotiations between the parties. These include ages, overtime, expenses away from home, night differential pay and other matters.

Refusal Charged

The unions claim the railroads are deliberately refusing to bargain on a national basis in an effort to force the dispute back to Congress and to obtain more legislation or compulsory settlement.

Railroad negotiators are reportedly angry at what they called the union's "pick and choose" strategy of approaching individual railroads.

A union source said the Southern Pacific and the Louisville & Nashville were selected because they appeared most likely to be willing to negotiate separately

"We picked these two as the most likely to be willing to talk to us," a union source said. "They have a great deal of competition, they are very rich, and the impact on the public and the economy would be very small because there are alternate modes of transportation."

The union source said, "we are steering very clear of strike talks, but obviously some additional action will have to be considered if they won't talk."

Social Security Compiles Unusual American History

Nation's Centenarians Reflect on 100 Years of Life

By ADRIAN SYBOR

Baltimore, Md. (AP)—The Social Security Administration has compiled what might be the most unusual American history—a four-volume collection of interviews with 261 persons over 100 years old.

Of the country's 12,000 centenarians, 527 are receiving Social Security benefits, reports the agency's national record-keeping headquarters in suburban Woodlawn.

Virtually all the centenarians have been interviewed by Social Security field representatives, the agency says, and the 261 in the printed collection are the ones who have consented to publicity.

A limited printing of 100 copies of the collection, "America's Centenarians," was published by the agency late in January.

The oldest beneficiary on Social Security's rolls is 121-year-old Charlie Smith of Polk City, Fla., who earned his retirement benefits at the age of 114 by picking fruit on a citrus farm.

Kidnaped at 12

His earliest memory is of being kidnaped in a Liberian port at the age of 12 and being brought to New Orleans where he was kept in slavery.

He now operates a small store where he sells soda and candy.

The interview recorded that Smith eats lightly, drinks several soft drinks daily, "smokes a cigaret occasionally and likes a little bit o 'good gin' from time to time."

Henry Terhune, 104, an accountant, now of East Orange, N.J., recalls seeing the train bearing Abraham Lincoln's body on its way from Washington to Springfield, Ill.

The brother of William Dorn, 106, of Malto, Mont., was one of 276 soldiers under Gen George Custer who were killed by Indian tribes under Chief Sitting Bull at the Little Big Horn in 1876.

Tatzumbie Dupea, 114, now of Los Angeles, recalled that white settlers killed her Indian parents.

Judge at 104

The Spanish-American War stands out as the most vivid historical event in the memory of Judge Albert R. Alexander, 104, of Plattsburg, Mo., now serving his fourth consecutive term as magistrate and probate judge of Clinton County, Mo.

One of the best examples of how an alert person reflects on a century of life is an essay written by Albert P. Davis, of Binghamton, N.Y., who died last year at the age of 104, but whose essay is included in the collection.

"The one who lives to a real old age finds himself in a strange and unique situation," Davis, a photographer, wrote at the age of 100. "With little to strive for, so far as this life is concerned, his problem is how to employ the little time he has left.

"Well, his is a time for introspection, to take inventory of himself, to evaluate the mistakes made and opportunities lost, to recognize and appreciate the many virtues of others that had been overlooked.

"It is also a time for retrospection, and here begins the real second childhood. To many this is a comforting and rewarding period. He now begins to relive his life backward. He is astonished to see so much beauty in nature, and also in people he has by-passed.

"He finds it more difficult to recall quite recent incidents than those which occurred further back, that the further he goes the better his memory becomes until he reaches early childhood when everything becomes bright."

Skindiving Mishap

Youth Drowns, Companion Suffers Bends

Charleston, S.C. (UPI) — A Florida student, in agony from a skindiving accident which killed a companion, was confined to a decompression chamber Saturday undergoing treatment for the bends. bends.

Melvin Ambeuhl, a University of Florida student from Hialeah, Fla., was pronounced out of danger but still in pain. He was expected to remain in the chamber aboard the submarine tender Gilmore until noon.

Jack Spindler, another Florida student from St. Petersburg, drowned while fighting his way out of a natural spring which the two were exploring near Lake City, Fla.

The youths apparently were in a deep cave extending off the side of the spring and stayed too long. A third diver who stayed at the mouth of the cave said the two ran low on air and were exhuasted by the time they reached him.

All three started toward the surface, taking turns using the mouthpiece of the third youth and breathing from the air still in his tank.

The youth who remained at the mouth of the cave managed to work his way to the surface with Ambeuhl, going slowly to avoid the bends, and ran out of air himself. A fourth youth pulled them from the water when they reached the surface and rushed for help.

Travelers Are Inclined Toward 'Name Drop'

By Jim Becker

Athens — Veteran travelers—that's anyone working on his second passport—are inclined to drop things.

They drop names of towns. Restaurants. Islands. And even airports.

In the old days, they were city droppers. Capitals, mostly.

Paris, Rome, Athens—maybe Cairo for the adventurous. They were all good in their day.

Then it became necessary to go farther afield, what with charter flights and inflation.

Denpensar Good

Jerusalem had a vogue. And Colombo. Denpensar was always good. (That's the capital of Bali, if you didn't know).

Hong Kong didn't last long. The Army sent half the population to Tokyo, and messed that up.

Shanghai is still good, but there are very few of us left.

So the switch came to towns.

Preferably these should be so obscure that the residents are guaranteed to speak no known language, and have not seen a foreigner since Genghis Khan.

But the town must have at least two restaurants. This is because if you happen to pick a town where somebody else has ever been, you can drop the name of a restaurant there.

Whichever restaurant the other person has eaten in is the wrong one.

First Liar

At this game, the first liar doesn't have a chance.

In some dropping circles islands are big. However, they must be so far off the traveled track that they can be reached only on dolphin back at midnight.

It also helps to speak of islands in the past tense. The one you have in mind was great until another American came along last year and spoiled it.

There are not very many airport droppers. Acutally, the term is inaccurate.

It's not proper to drop airports — they all look alike, anyway — but to drop rides to cities from airports.

Dull Rides

For example, the ride from the London airport is among the longest and dullest in the world. You should make cracks about whether they serve lunch on board the airport limousine.

Vienna is quite a ride out of town, too. Try jokes like: "Does this airport also serve Belgrade?"

That gets a big laugh in central Europe.

The world champion in boring rides is from the airport to Calcutta. It is over a hot, dusty road jammed with people, ox-carts and sacred cows.

It's even worse than Bangkok.

Now it's your turn to drop something.

Consumer Goods Spin Out of Space Research

Chicago Daily News Special

Chicago—In Vacaville, Calif., medics fed volunteers a new synthetic diet designed for space flight over a 150-day period. Not only were the men healthfully sustained, but it was found that ulcers became inactivated, cholesterol levels were lowered and other medical conditions benefited.

In Boston, the National Research Corp., which aluminized the polyester film used to make Echo I, the first communication satellite, has found that this ulthrathin plastic is a great insulator in packaging materials. When deliberately crinkled in the wrapping process, thousands of tiny cells are created to prevent heat loss.

A company that provided solar cells for many of our satellites has created an emergency call box for freeways. The motorist in trouble pushed a button. The exact location of the box is flashed over citizens band radio frequencies to patrol headquarters.

The space effort is now producing something more than high-flying hardware, gee-whiz showmanship and derring-do. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) always has insisted consumer spin-off would come, but the time lag has made the promise difficult to prove to those who have considered space a stunt.

Now the examples are coming in and Homer E. Newell, who heads up space science and applications for NASA, has been quick to add them up.

New insulation techniques will be used to insulate homes, refrigerators and clothing.

The method of processing sheet beryllium in the orbiting astronomical observatory program will make this metal available to consumers for use in extremely light, rigid structures.

Paints have been developed that change color with temperature. They will be used on roof tops to help in the heating and cooling of buildings by reflecting or absorbing the heat.

Miniature tape recorders for space will be entering factories and home entertainment centers.

This is just the beginning. Benefits will accrue for decades to come in unpredictable ways.

House Of The Week — Old English Flavor Blends for Quiet Comfort

By Associated Press

All that's needed to complete the atmosphere of rugged warmth which surrounds this charming cottage is a wooded lot in a quiet neighborhood.

Probably the best word to describe the house is "comfortable"—and this house is all the more comfortable because its Old English flavor is imposed upon an up-to-date floor plan which boasts all the efficiency and convenience of modern living.

Its massive stone chimney with chimney pots, bay window which has the suggestion of a lower turret, timber posts at the entry, leaded glass sidelights flanking the door, shuttered windows surrounded by hand split shakes, and rough cut siding above the porch, all combine to give the home its distinctive personality.

The theme is carried through on the inside. A 10' by 12' foyer features a flagstone floor and a slanted beam ceiling which soars up to a sunken balcony at the head of the stair.

Architect Rudolph A. Matern designed the house as H-20 in the House of the Week series.

It contains three bedrooms and two full baths in a basic area of 1,669 square feet. However, there is expansion room upstairs for two more large bedrooms and a glamorous third bath

The best thing about this sort of expansion is that it is built in: that is, adding an extra room (or, in this case, two extra rooms, as needed) doesn't require any structural changes. As a matter of fact, many husbands probably could do the finish work themselves.

The front stone chimney wall extends slightly beyond the side of the house and shields a private covered porch which could be screened if desired. Matern added a nice touch to the porch with a circular window in front which can be left open or perhaps fitted with leaded panes.

A nice thing about this style of decor is that it is attractive as well as easy to keep up. The flagstone foyer, for example, is plainly practical and also in keeping with the rugged flavor of the home. Similarly, wood paneling and wainscoting is designated for certain walls, especially those which get the most wear.

The housekeeping area is a model of 20th century efficiency in its Old English setting.

A bay window with a planter inside faces the kitchen sink, offering excellent supervision of the backyard besides its obvious esthetic benefit. Another up-to-the-minute feature of the kitchen is a built-in breakfast seat.

Logic Helps Kitchen

The success and efficiency of your kitchen plan depends on the logical sequence and use of each major work area.

Here are some of the most popular kitchen plans

1. U-Shape—The traffic pattern in the U-shaped kitchen consists of a series of diagonal passages running from the two sides to the center where the preparation area should be located.

2. Corridor—The two sides of a corridor plan should be divided as equally as possible to limit the amount of criss-crossing that is inherent in this layout.

3. One-Wall—The one-wall kitchen should be set up this manner—refrigerator, counter, sink, counter, range-oven and counter. Often counter and storage space is limited in this type of kitchen.

4. L-Shape—The most common layout is the L-shape, which has some of the merits of the U, but placement of utilities may be dictated by windows and doors on the two walls.

5. U with Island —Many modern houses have a version of the U in which one "leg" is free standing as an island. Sometimes the island will double as snack-breakfast bar.

Huff points out that local lumber dealers are a good idea source for families planning a kitchen improvement.

Tell the Maker

During a recent consumer program at the National Housing Center, homemakers were advised that each appliance carries a manufacturer's label. When you have an idea, write to the manufacturer's home economics department. It is the professional home economist's job to interpret the need of homemakers to company executives.

Utilities Put Nature In Proper Perspective

As you drive through some of Lincoln's newer subdivisions, you will note the absence of wires, telephone and utility poles. None of the homes have TV antennas because this service is supplied by a center tower.

From a landscaping standpoint, the effect is dramatic. The skyline is open. The lots seem larger. Nature is somehow closer.

The advantages to the homeowner are many. First, he does not have the expense of a TV antenna plus the worry of it falling in every big windstorm. He is assured of more constant power and telephone service. He need not worry about trees growing into overhead wires.

All of this has been possible through the invention of relatively inexpensive direct burial wire that does not need conduit pipe. This wire is armored to give protection from ground rodents and tree roots.

Rural areas are also getting underground installations. In fact, all rural telephone service near Shickley is now underground.

Obviously, underground wires are safer than overhead wires, but this does not mean that the homeowner can completely forget safety.

Several weeks ago a landscape man observed children digging holes on a vacant lot where wires had been burried. Parents should caution their offsprings about this problem as, in the past, they have warned about fallen wires and utility poles.

On another occasion this same landscape man was at a home where shade trees were needed. The man of the house pointed to the location where he wanted a tree. The spot was directly over buried wire.

In this case, since the electric wire was deep in the ground, the tree could have been planted without creating problems. But if electrical service had failed, it might have become necessary to dig up the tree.

Before digging deeper than a tile spade's depth (14"), the homeowner with underground wiring on his property should know where the electrical easements are and the precise location of the wires that run from the main cable to his home.

Designer Hails Revolution for Better Taste

New York (AP) — Under the Picasso in Raymond F. Loewy's Park Avenue office is a diagram depicting why Loewy thinks the doors of American automobiles are too fat.

"They look like they could have been thrown together by a boilermaker," he says sourly, with a trace of French accent.

The squat, bulbous silhouette of a fire hydrant, if he happens to spot one on his way to work, upsets Loewy.

A glance at a fancy light pole on the street or at a piece of cheap, overstuffed furniture in a store window can ruin his day.

Criticizing 40 Years

Loewy, one of the world's renowned industrial designers, has been criticizing the shape of things for almost 40 years. Despite this, and everyday examples of what he considers bad taste, Loewy says there is less to criticize today than there ever was.

America, he thinks, is undergoing a revolution of good taste. Loewy would like to think that his own ideas of simple, modern design—coming out in the form of things like toothpaste tubes, beer cans, automobiles, milk cartons, department stores, airplane and ocean-liner interiors, gasoline pumps, eyeglasses and railroad locomotives—have had something to do with it.

Good taste to Loewy starts with simplicity, no frills. He says this is evident today even in everyday consumer goods like bathroom equipment, appliances, pots and pans and cheap costume jewelry.

"If you want a cross-section of good taste," he says, "just flip through a mail-order catalogue from a good department store. Even the wallpaper looks good enough to frame."

Loewy is generally acknowledged as a pioneer in industrial design, basically the art of giving a product a pleasant but practical shape. Some of his designs have been shown in art galleries.

Loewy's name is a byword on New York's Madison Avenue, capital of the advertising world. His own philosophy about the business of beautifying what the eye sees in a product is probably best described by a book he once wrote.

Its title: "Never Leave Well Enough Alone."

Intriguing Life

His own life has been as intriguing as some of the designs he has created. As a boy of 14, the Paris-born Loewy won a model airplane contest and set up a business to market the model throughout France.

He came to the United States in 1919 with his blue French army uniform, a pocketful of World War I decorations and $45. Today he has four homes, two in France, and owns art masterpieces, sports cars and a speedboat capable of 48 knots. Although a gourmet, one of the few luxuries he doesn't allow himself is lunch on a working day.

At 70, Loewy, with grey, wavy hair and trimmed mustache, looks like an immaculately tailored businessman of 55. He and his partner, Brooklyn-born William T. Snaith, run what they claim is the nation's largest industrial design firm.

Use Tested Herbicide, Apply Properly

By EMERY W. NELSON
County Extension Agent

If you're confused about the pre-emergent chemical to apply for crabgrass control, rest assured you are not alone. The names for these chemical compounds are certainly unfamiliar words and difficult to pronounce. Then, once the home owner masters these names, the manufacturer is likely to hide them on the container or substitute the chemical formula.

In tests conducted the last two summers under most stringent conditions, several chemicals proved excellent for pre-emergent applications. Each of these compounds gave somewhat different results.

For instance, the kind of weeds controlled varied among the chemicals, the length of time each remained effective was different, as was the damage to the bluegrass and soil.

Also observed in the tests was the need to use the chemicals properly. Particularly important are the time, uniformity and rate of application. It is also important to water immediately after the herbicide is applied.

These herbicides must be applied prior to the time weed seed starts to grow. In the case of knotweed, this is early in the spring or late fall. The annual grasses such as crabgrass start growth in early May and herbicide applications in April are good.

The chemicals need to be applied evenly over the lawn. It's easy to leave strips when spreading in one direction. Best results are obtained from applying half the herbicide traveling in one direction with the spreader and the other half in the opposite direction.

Care is needed to apply the chemical at the proper rate. Too little chemical will not control weeds and too much is expensive and may damage the grass. The manufacturer's suggested settings for spreaders are approximate but useful as guides. However, the first 1,000 square feet should be measured to permit careful calibration of the applicator.

Watering the lawn after application gets the chemical down where it will do the most good. Many of the compounds are lost if exposed to air or sun over an extended period of time.

The chemicals which gave better than 90% control of crabgrass and foxtail on these tests were Zytron, Dacthal, Treflan-Dipan, and arsenicals. Zytron, Treflan-Dipan, and the arsenicals gave good control of knotweed and prostrate spurge.

Bison Auctioned

Pilot Point, Tex. (AP) — An old-time buffalo hunter would have done a double take had he attended a recent auction at the Pilot Point Livestock Exchange. Chances are he'd have exclaimed "Now I've Seen Everything" when a buffalo was put up for auction. The animal changed owners on a high bid of $40.

New Fund Budgeting Would Give Cash Source, Expense

Where's the money coming from and where's it going?

A common question, this, in about every American family.

It is a question all departments and agencies in Nebraska state government should be able to answer more easily in years to come—once a new system of program budgeting is fully adopted.

Tax Commissioner Forrest A. Johnson announced new 1965-67 budget request forms going to state agencies this summer will require breakdowns in two uniform fields:

—Sources of revenue.

—Objects of expenditure.

In concert with the management firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Associates, and the legislative fiscal analyst's office, Johnson has formulated some new classifications.

Eight Sources

Eight possible sources of revenue have been charted, as well as eight objects of expenditure.

One such object, for example, is travel.

Agencies will be required to list all expenditures directly attributable to official travel, not only mileage, but replacement of state-owned motor vehicles.

This composition, it's felt, will demonstrate for the first time true state government travel costs and permit valid inter-departmental comparisons.

Johnson said he is sure the new classifications should substantially assist in budget preparation and control.

Income Matched

Agencies and commissions engaged in regulatory work, as another example, will be able to match income against expenditures.

In these cases, it may be demonstrated some license and permit fees charged citizens are higher than need be in providing necessary revenue.

The new revenue source classification:

1. Taxes.
2. Licenses, permits, inspections and fees.
3. Fines, forfeits and penalties.
4. Use of money and property.
5. Revenue from others, including private sources and the federal government.
6. Sales and charges for current services.
7. Non-revene receipts.
8. Collections for distribution.

Utah, Nebraska Vie In Smoke Sale Dip

Nebraska's cigaret sales decline during the last seven months ending in January was exceeded only by the dip in Utah, the Tobacco Tax Council, a national organization headquartered in Richmond, Va., reports.

In the seven-month period, the Council said Nebraska sales went down 7.6%, from 99,098,000 to 91,593,000 packages. Utah's sales fell 11.6%, although its volume was less than half that of Nebraska's.

In all, the Council said, seven-month sales were off in 18 states, up in 30 others. The overall national picture reflected a sales gain of .8%.

During only January, however, sales were down in 37 states as the impact of the Public Health Service's report on smoking began to be felt.

Attendance Slight at City Development Meet

By LEO SCHERER

More persons might have attended the outline of the Barton-Aschmann plan for downtown Lincoln if the meeting had been handled differently.

The informational meeting was an invitation session and even one key city official reportedly didn't get a bid.

Representatives from some civic groups throughout Lincoln that have more than passing interest in downtown Lincoln also weren't present.

There was nothing in the consultant's presentation that wasn't available to the general public and some interesting slides on downtown development were presented to the limited audience.

'Disagrees a Lot'

Councilman John Comstock continually disagrees with other Council members on giving an ordinance three readings at one time.

The practice doesn't allow the public a chance to speak and is a method used to rush a measure through Council.

Council members recently gave an ordinance three reading at one time even though Comstock noted somebody might want to speak on it.

Around City Hall

It isn't uncommon to give an ordinance two readings at one time and then wait one week in order that persons can appear if they wish.

Coordination

One of Mayor Dean Petersen's biggest tasks is trying to get city departments to work together.

This has been a serious problem under past administrations and the mayor is now well aware of areas that need improvement.

The Council repeatedly has asked the mayor to get departments together on subjects before coming to the Council.

Lack of interdepartment cooperation reportedly has hindered the city many times in past years.

No Surprise

The liberalization of the city's containment policy on beer and liquor licenses didn't come as much of a surprise to many.

A policy change only needs four favorable votes and a special 3-member Council committee earlier had indicated favorism to a liberalization plan.

A Council poll several weeks before showed a 5-2 vote then in favor and the final vote turned out 4-3.

The liberalization is being met with mixed emotions and there is talk that an initiative petition might be started to put the policy change to a vote of the people.

Bomb Wing Accident-Free

Members of the 307th Bomb Wing stationed at Lincoln Air Force Base were congratulated by their commander, Col. W. E. Riggs, for an accident-free year.

"Accident - free operation has its basis in the professional attitude of all air crews, maintenance and staff personnel," Col. Riggs said in a letter to members of his wing.

During the year the 307th flew 3,359 sorties for a total of 26,526 flying hours.

Man Charged With Burglary

Milton P. Elliott, 37, of 2200 S was charged in County Court Saturday with burglary in connection with a breakin earlier in the day.

Police said they arrested Elliott inside the Hill and Neiden Co., 525 N, about 3 a.m., and an attempt had been made to enter a safe.

Elliott waived preliminary hearing, making no plea.

Judge Ralph Slocum bound Elliott over to Lancaster County District Court on $3,500 bond. Elliott was held in jail in lieu of bond Saturday.

6 Panhandle Towns 'Compete'

Sidney (AP) — Some schools in the southern Nebraska Panhandle have boosted teacher salaries to meet competition from school systems in other parts of the state, particularly those in the larger urban areas.

A $5,000 base salary for teachers with bachelor's degrees has been adopted by Dix, Bushnell, Gurley and Dalton. Harrisburg has set a base of $4,800 and Lodgepole one of $4,700. Sidney's is $4,620.

Rate Authority Need Is Claimed

New Power Board Head Says Major Municipalities Lagging

By DON WALTON

The new chairman of the Nebraska Power Review Board sees "a need at some future date for an agency with rate-making authority" over the state's public power agencies.

Norton . . . sees need

Outspoken young attorney William H. Norton of Osceola, who will be 38 this month, would not suggest what agency or what date.

"That," he noted, "would be a legislative matter."

The Power Board has only advisory authority in rate disputes between power agencies. Its jurisdiction over other power matters is regulatory, subject to appeal to the courts.

A Tiger

Bill Norton is — in the parlance of modern slang — a tiger. As a charter member of Nebraska's 10-month-old Power Board, Norton has stood out as a leader, an inquisitive activist whose questioning has been both direct and incisive.

Those are some of the qualities which he brings to the chairmanship.

Norton said he is satisfied with the development to date of retail service area agreements between power agencies — except for major municipal utilities.

"I am concerned that we have had none from any of the major municipalities," he pointed out. "I am afraid we might have to negotiate them ourselves."

LB220, the 1963 act which established the Power Board, provides that electric suppliers enter into voluntary service area agreements by July. If they fail to do so, the board is empowered to step in and do it for them.

Authority Needed

Asked if he believes the board should be handed even more authority by the Legislature, Norton replied:

"The board's authority is almost unlimited, with the exception of rates. If it were given regulatory authority over rates, then it would become a commission. And some people are diametrically opposed to that."

The immediate problems facing the board, Norton said, involve two hearings.

One will determine whether the 23-rural member Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative, Inc., will be authorized to construct a new 230-kilovolt transmission line from Fort Randall to Grand Island. That's a $5 million question.

Double Question

The other hearing actually involves two questions — whether Consumers Public Power District may build one mile of line to serve the City of Wilber, and whether Norris Public Power District may construct 230 miles of transmission line in five southeastern counties, including service to Wilber.

Norton plans to schedule in the coming weeks a series of evening background briefings with officials of the various power districts to provide the board's two new members with information which they will need to perform their new assignment.

One member, Sheldon Bernstein of Omaha, attended his first meeting last week. Governor Morrison has not yet named a member to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Clair Callan of Odell.

An executive meeting with directors of the Loup River Public Power District slated for last week will also be rescheduled, Norton said.

'Best Interests'

The board will continue to act "in the best interests of the people of the state," the new chairman pledged.

A 1951 graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Law, Norton practices law in Osceola and Polk. He is Polk county attorney and was a prime prospect for U.S. attorney in 1961 before he withdrew his name from consideration.

Norton is a grandson of the late Congressman John N. Norton (1927-29 and 1931-33) and a nephew of Mrs. Evelyn Norton Lincoln, personal secretary to the late President Kennedy.

He is married and has two children.

No. 70th Hospital Proposed

St. Elizabeth Site Will Get Further Study

Northeast Lincoln business and community leaders will meet this week with St. Elizabeth Hospital board members to discuss possibilities of relocation further north than 70th and O.

It is understood a number of northeast Lincoln leaders believe a site using some of the University of Nebraska agronomy farm acreage on No. 70th between Adams and Fremont would "be an ideal location."

"That's my personal opinion and it is shared by others," said John Stahn, president of the University Place Businessmen's Assn. He is arranging the session with St. Elizabeth representatives.

Not Known

He added that he did not know whether the University land would be available.

Stahn has invited executive boards of the Havelock Businessmen's Assn. and the Bethany's. Businessmen's Assn. to participate in the meeting with the hospital representatives.

Stahn said St. Elizabeth's decision to replace its hospital and to do this in a northeast location was "most welcome news."

He said "some months before the recent Community Hospital Council survey report by Dr. Anthony Rourke recommending a northeast location for St. Elizabeth. I had told my group we should begin to think about getting a hospital established in this fast developing area of metropolitan Lincoln."

Other Sites

The St. Elizabeth board, in announcing its option on 20 acres of land on 70th St. across from Veterans Hospital last weekend, said this action did not rule out other "preferred" sites that might be available.

'Early Nebraska Towns Sought Federal Aid'

Omaha (AP) —A historian recalled Saturday that Frontier Nebraskans eagerly sought federal aid.

He said they became more self-reliant after the frontier passed.

Robert Manley, University of Nebraska historian, made the observation before the Missouri Valley Conference of Collegiate Teachers of History.

More than 100 historians are attending the two-day meeting at the University of Omaha. Dr. Manley said the West was "the child of federal subsidy." Federal agencies financed early Nebraska expeditions, set the Indian and land policies and furnished help in such crises as the grasshopper plague of the 1870s, he said.

Rare, for Lincoln, Surgery Gives Lad Full Lifespan

By BESS JENKINS

Twelve-year-old Warren Stults will wear a hidden patch the rest of his life.

Because of it, that life can span the usual number of years awaiting a normal boy of 12 today.

Without it, the Elliott School youngster and son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stults of 679 Capitol, would have been lucky to reach the 30s.

A routine physical to find out why Warren wasn't feeling like any red-blooded youngster should led to the discovery of a coaractation or narrowing in the aorta. The aorta is a great trunk-like artery that distributes blood to the main branch arteries throughout the body.

Teamwork

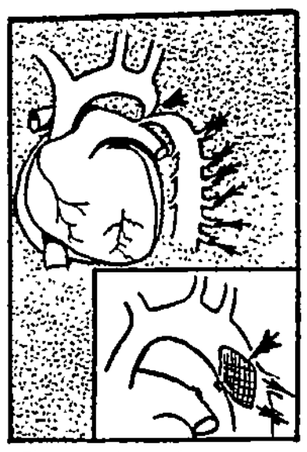
The decision to use a surgical procedure never done in Lincoln previously came after consultations between a pediatrician, internist and chest surgeon.

All were called in after the pediatrician found "an unusual heart murmur."

A fourth member of the team, once Warren was admitted to Lincoln General Hospital for the rare procedure, was the anesthesiologist.

Warren's coarctation or narrowing had this effect on his daily living:

His blood pressure was too high above the aorta abnormality. Below the defect, the opposite was true.



Closeup shows how patch and surgery repaired Warren's aortic defect in larger drawing

His blood could hardly travel through the narrowing. So smaller arteries adjacent to the aorta were doing more than their job in feeding blood back into the big trunk aorta — just the reverse of normal pattern.

Eventual death from this set of circumstances could have come to Warren in at least four ways: heart attack or failure, hemorrhage or stroke.

Double Operation

The surgical procedure included what is considered an operation in itself: shutting off the ductus arteriosus. This normally closes when a child is born.

It hadn't for Warren. And next to this abnormal opening was the abnormal narrowing of the great trunk artery.

The surgeon made an incision in the aorta to prepare the way for the triangular teflon (a plastic material) patch—about five-eighths of an inch across at its widest point.

Anxious Moments

There were anxious minutes in the four-hour operating room date with the young boy.

Two of the most dangerous times could have come when a clamp was placed across the aorta before the incision and again after its release following the patch work.

"In the former instance, his blood pressure could have gone sky high; in the latter, it could have fallen too low. We were ready for both eventualities," said a team member.

"We had to imagine we were working with an elderly heart patient all the time and handle him this way."

Warren woke up minutes after leaving surgery.

A day or two later he was busy again selling Warren Stults-made potholders to the nursing service staff from his bedside.

Now he's home.

He's lost a year of school but gained a life.

State Treasurer Swanson Praised For Better Job of Investing Funds

State Treasurer Clarence Swanson was praised Saturday for "doing a lot better job" of investing state monies.

The compliment came from Don Rager. He heads the Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Associates team working on the $250,000 state government accounting study.

Rager said since the spring of last year, Swanson has been placing a heavier share of state funds into short-term investments, mainly 90-day U.S. Treasury Bills.

The consultant noted Swanson's change in investment policy came about the same time the Legislature's Budget Committee started pressing the accounting study.

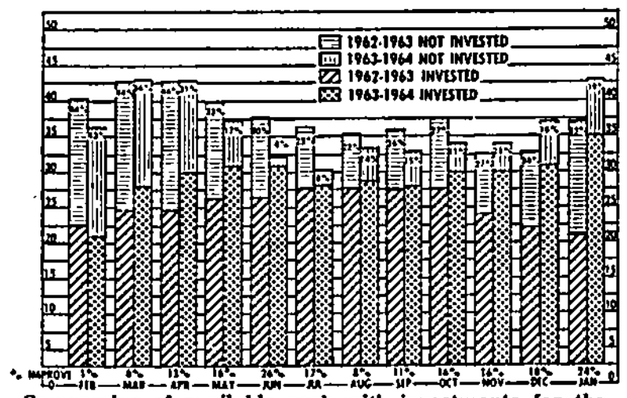
Better Policies

One of the study's aims is better state investment policies, leading to greater interest payments. These, of course, offset need for tax dollars.

Last week the consultants informed senators they cannot expect the optimum in state money management until the new accounting system, with mechanized warrant writing, is operative.

This system would permit daily investment judgments, it is claimed. Documenting the change in treasurer's policy was a 24-month chart, starting with February, 1962, and ending in January, 1964.

It demonstrated, for example, where Swanson had invested only 57% of available cash in January, 1963, the January, 1964, investment total was 81% of available funds.



Comparsion of available cash with investments for the two-year period from February, 1962 to February, 1964.

During June and July last year, the consultants suggested Swanson may even have been over-invested.

In Rager's opinion, a "cushion" of $3 million should be sufficient for the treasurer, if he has maximum information on cash flow and expenditure requirements.

The greater investment total is showing up where you'd expect it—in larger earnings. During the last fiscal year, Nebraska's investments put $783,086 into the general fund.

For the first eight months of the current fiscal year, $740,356 already has been realized. The total may exceed $1 million.

And that means a state property tax levy about one-third of a mill lower than it might be, if state funds were not out earning money.

City-County Building Site May Go on Ballot

Two Locations Considered

Location of the proposed new City-County Building may be decided by the voter on the May 12 ballot, according to William Grossman, County Board Chairman.

At an informal meeting Saturday of the City Council and the County Board it was decided to try to put two proposed locations, 10th & O, and 15th & J, on the ballot and let the voters determine the location they prefer, Grossman said.

The decision was made after it was apparent the members of the two groups were deadlocked in their choice of locations and management procedures for the new building.

Grossman said the location issue would be given to the city and county legal departments to determine the method in placing it on the May 12 ballot.

When contacted later, City Atty. Ralph Nelson, not at the meeting, said he did not think the question could be put on the ballot under existing laws.

However, one of the City Council members said he felt the city could vote on the location question and would pursue the legality of the matter further Monday with the city legal department.

Grossman said about one week remains in which to get the question placed on the ballot.

Earlier, Council Vice Chairman John Comstock had said the location should be left to the selection of a building authority.

"I don't think a majority of the voters care where it goes, only that it gets built," he said.

He made the statement at an earlier meeting at which time it was decided to leave the bond issue for the building off the May ballot.

The Council and Board agreed at that time that a bond proposal could not be readied before the Mar. 28 deadline for notice of election.

The bond issue will come before the voter at a later date.

Opposed to a Building Authority of appointed representatives, Grossman said a committee of elected representatives, composed of Board and Council members, would probably be formed to handle methods of financing.

4 Primary Battles Brewing

Lt. Governor Spot Hottest

By DEL SNODGRASS

At least four May 12 primary election contests promise to provide spirited battles in the next two months.

But several other races may prompt little fire with the big guns being saved for the Nov. 3 general election encounter.

In line with its advance billing, the lieutenant governor's race gave all indications of being the major brawl in the primary scramble.

No less than fifteen candidates, eight Democrats and seven Republicans, are lieutenant governor hopefuls.

The unusual number of filings was prompted by incumbent Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney's decision to run for governor this year and a belief the next lieutenant governor will be in an excellent position to run for governor in 1966.

Democrats in the race are Lincolnite Edward A. Dosek, the wife of State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, former State Sen. and Board of Control member William H. Diers of Gresham, Robert A. Dixon of Omaha, George E. Cornwell of Arapahoe, former State Treas. Richard R. Larsen of Omaha, Lincoln attorney Philip C. Sorensen and Lincoln businessman L. Clark McCabe.

The GOP entries are Lincolnites Herman J. Dinges, Dr. Wesley C. Becker, Del Lienemann and Charles Thone, State Sen. Don Thompson of McCook, former State Sen. Willard Waldo of De Witt and John E. Everroad of Omaha.

Democratic sources are anticipating a major four-way scrap among Dosek, Mrs. Carpenter, Diers and Sorensen. Republicans expect the most flurry on their front will involve Thone, Waldo, Lienemann and Thompson.

Former State Sen. Jack Romans, a last-minute GOP filing for governor, promises a spirited battle between Romans and Burney on the tax broadening issue. Burney favors a sales or income tax, while Romans promised to wage war against the adoption of either.

Gov. Frank Morrison, seeking his third term, is expected to have little difficulty defeating Lincolnite Charles A. Bates and Omahan Tony Mangiamelli for the Democratic nomination.

Other GOP entries are Leo Bartunek of Lincoln, Albert L. Hahn of Grand Island and Roland Ehlers of Omaha.

State Railway Commission jobs prompted a large number of filings since the commissioners will be elected from districts rather than statewide as in the past.

Incumbent Commissioners Joe Brown and Larson could provide the major fireworks for the GOP nomination from the First Dist.

Lincolnite Edward J. Lebsack also is entered in that GOP race, while the only Democratic candidate is Lincolnite John L. Sutton.

The outcome of the Third and Fifth Dist. races could be anybody's guess, partly because of the number of popular Scandanavian names which will be on the ballot.

Third Dist. GOP hopefuls are Fred Peterson of Columbus, Ted Larson of Dakota City, John G. Donner of Elgin, Rex Marsh of Norfolk and Harold J. Olson of Wayne. The Democratic entries are Francis H. Hanson of Decatur, Fred Sorensen Jr. of Omaha and Jess F. Tepner of Creighton.

In the Fifth Dist., Democratic candidates are Ralph H. Cole of Holdrege, Frank P. Sands of Gering and Harold Simmons of Scottsbluff.

Two Die On Roads Saturday

Lincoln, Sidney Increase Toll

Traffic Fatalities	1964	1963

Two Nebraskans were killed in separate traffic accidents Saturday in Lincoln and Sidney.

A nine-year-old Lincoln girl was killed in a car-bike accident on West A, one and three-quarter miles west of the city limits. The victim:

Melinda Reisel, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Egon Reisel of Route 6, Lincoln.

She and a friend were riding on separate bicycles when she turned into the path of a west-bound car, according to Ronald Lahners, deputy Lancaster County attorney.

Melinda was rushed to a local hospital but died shortly after arriving.

Harold D. Ruhter, 39, of Sidney was killed when his pickup truck was struck by a passenger-freight train. The accident occurred on a country road one mile east of Sidney, Union Pacific officials said.

Emil Weil, 67, of North Platte, the engineer, said the train was going about 55 m.p.h. Ruhter's body was hurled 112 feet.

CPPD Pact 'Gets Good Response'

50 May Sign Next Week

Columbus (AP)—General Manager R. L. Schact of Consumers Public Power Dist. (CPPD) said Saturday night that the new power agreements being offered to cities and villages which CPPD serves at retail is "meeting with enthusiastic acceptance."

He said he expects 50 Nebraska municipalities to have signed the agreement by early in the week.

The agreement tied down CPPD's obligation to transfer its electric distribution systems within its retail towns to the towns in 1972 if the municipalities desire.

But it offers 7% of gross electric revenue to the municipalities if they choose to let CPPD continue to own and operate the systems. On signing the agreement, the municipalities are given 2% of the revenue.

CPPD Board President F. W. Wagener of Lincoln said the proposed contract "does nothing to prevent a vote of the people and I personally feel there should be a vote. We would abide gladly by the people's decision."

Wagener said all CCPD retail cities are being presented the same proposal, including Lincoln.

The meeting had originally been scheduled for Tuesday.

Support Now Less Certain For State's 3 High Schools

By DICK HERMAN

Times change. New developments exert fresh, painful pressures. And the future of three high schools maintained by the State of Nebraska seems less certain.

Those schools: University High in Lincoln, Peru Prep and Curtis School of Agriculture. The latter two are the only high schools in their communities.

University High is maintained as an arm of the University of Nebraska's Teachers College.

Handling grades seven through 12 and some 275 students, it is a laboratory in which future instructors can practice teach before critical supervisors.

The same situation obtains at Peru Prep, lone survivor of four state college campus high schools.

NU executives have confirmed discussions on the possibility at some distant time of converting University High's modern building at 14th and Vine Sts. into a collegiate use facility.

Heightened pressure for classroom space—pressure rising with ever-larger enrolments—tends to make University High a more vulnerable target.

Another pressure: Money.

Vice Chancellor Joseph Soshnik reported about $90,000 is required this year from University funds, over and above student tuition, to keep University High going.

Enrolment is on a selective basis. However students residing in districts which have high schools—like Lincoln or Malcolm—may attend for as little as $6 a semester.

Curtis represents another high school demanding state subsidy.

Although NU authorities have periodically suggested severing the state link with the 51-year-old school and a 1962 Legislative Council study committee recommended practically the same thing, the 223-student institution counts powerful friends.

The 1963 Legislature appropriated $455,816 for Curtis. The school, created as strictly an agricultural center, today is little different than any other standard Nebraska high school, its officials have advised.

Yet senatorial supporters like the idea Curtis students can raise livestock and that has a demonstrated emotional appeal.

At Peru, College President Neal Goman says the campus high school is self-supporting.

He said non-resident tuition from 121 students this year should provide $67,423, with expenses only $59,667.

In the elementary campus school, however, receipts fall $36,000 short of expenditures, Goman reported. State funds take up the slack.

The Auburn Board of Education would like to know Normal Board plans about Peru's campus school system. With that in mind, the two boards will convene at Peru March 23.

There's been scattered criticism Peru Prep and University High, by acting as "safety valve" institutions, are hampering regional school district reorganization efforts.

Auburn is sympathetic to a Nemaha County reorganization study, which would directly affect Peru State's schools.

And the existence of University High, some claim, permits unhappy Walton district parents to educate their children at low cost outside of Walton High.

This spring Wayne, Kearney, and Chadron State Colleges are closing their elementary campus schools. The burden will fall on the town public school systems.

Their Doctor Insists

Quintuplets Normal; So Is Aberdeen, Now

By MIKE BAXTER

Dr. James Berbos, a husky M. D. in Ivy League dress, dropped wearily onto a sofa in the Nebraska Center lobby.

"The quints are normal," he began smiling, anticipating the first question.

Dr. Berbos . . . quints normal

The routine was obviously an old one for young Dr. Berbos, who delivered the famous Fischer quintuplets in Aberdeen, S.D.

Running through it again, Dr. Berbos, here to attend the Great Plains Conference on the Population Dilemma, said —or repeated:

The quints, as he had said, are normal. They recently had colds, as all children do, but have recovered.

And the city of Aberdeen is normal — Andrew Fischer is back at work, Mrs. Fischer shops in the town supermarket, the army of newsmen has departed.

With their departure, the pressure is off Dr. Berbos and his practice has returned to the births, deaths, colds and measles of Aberdeen citizens —normalcy.

Dr. Berbos described Aberdeen as an ideal Midwestern community for the five new Fischers to grow up in.

"There's very little attention paid to it now," he said. "The Fischers are leading a normal life."

Another ideal Midwestern community is Lincoln, he said —"It's a very nice college town. This is a wonderful center they have here."

Dr. Berbos will stay in Lincoln with Mrs. Berbos through the Sunday luncheon ending the four-day conference.

Basel (left) Patzloff and Chief Peterson rescuing Fancy.

Dog's Great Will to Live Pulls Her Through Ordeal

By NANCY RAY
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Wahoo—Fancy's championship blood lines and show ribbons did not help her much during her long ordeal, but her tremendous will to live and just plain "guts" did.

Willow Ridge's Fancy, a female Boxer, disappeared Jan. 25, three weeks before she was found at the bottom of a cistern, starved from her imprisonment and bleeding from her efforts to free herself from her deep and narow prison beneath the Saunders County Fairgrounds grandstand.

Fancy's ordeal in the hidden cistern lasted 10 days, with no food and with only seepage water, according to Otto Basel who tried to find her for more than a week before he was successful.

Then, with the help of Ernest Patzloff, a Boxer owner, and Wahoo Police Chief Ralph Peterson, Basel discovered the emaciated Boxer. She weighed only 28 pounds, less than half her weight when her former owner, Mrs. Garwood Anderson, had given her to an area youth last September.

The veterinarian commented that the dog would not have lasted another day in her underground grave, and added that any dog with less will to live would have succumbed days before.

Intravenous feeding, cortisone shots for shock and a wecklong fight against gangrene followed before Fancy was taken off the critical list.

Mrs. Anderson recalls her first look at Fancy after her rescue: "I could hardly believe she was a boxer. Only the markings and her eyes made me know it was Fancy. And she was shaking like a leaf from fear, hunger and fatigue."

Fancy . . . shortly after being rescued.

About a month later Fancy came home from the animal hospital, looking far from fancy but on the recovery road. She is now up to 45 pounds, and eating eight times her normal daily ration.

Mrs. Anderson admits that, "Fancy was my favorite even as a pup." Even though the dog has outgrown her usefulness as a mother, and will never be a show dog again, she is assured of a home "on the house" at the Andersons.

"I think she earned a good home for the rest of her life," explains Mrs. Anderson. "And her ordeal may not have been in vain.

"After all, that cistern hidden under the grandstand might have claimed a child's life some time, or at least have remained undiscovered as a hazard to animals and children if Fancy hadn't fallen into it. Now it is known, and it will be made safe. I think we have Fancy to thank for that."

James Nissen Will Head Community Chest Unit

James Nissen

James F. Nissen, a National Bank of Commerce vice president, will head the Lincoln Community Chest's 1965 budget committee.

Chest President Harry Seward announced Nissen's appointment. Seward said six new members will join holdovers to form the committee of 22 who set up the budgets of the Chest-supported agencies for the 1965 operating year.

The budget committee will begin its work in April with visitations to the Chest's 26 member agencies.

Weeks of review of agency budget requests will follow before a goal, representing combined needs, can be recommended. The 1965 United Appeal goal then is studied and approved by the Community Chest board of directors.

The new budget chairman, who succeeds Wendell Groth, has served on the budget committee two years. Nissen has also served as treasurer of the Chest.

He is a Lincoln Council of Camp Fire Girls board member, a past member of the Southeast YMCA board and a member of the YMCA membership committee, all Community Chest agencies.

Rep. Beermann Replies to Callan

Rep. Ralph Beermann of Dakota City, Republican congressman from the First District, has replied to criticism from Clair Callan of Odell, seeking the Democratic nomination for Beermann's seat.

Callan had urged that Congress act separately on proposed pay increases for its own members and raises for other federal employes.

Beermann replied that he opposed the bill in its entirety and asked Callan if he approved such increases as from $18,346 to $24,500 a year for the House postmaster and from $20,000 to $29,500 for the public printer.

The House voted on the bill without separating the congressmen from other federal employes and the raises were defeated.

Rotarians Will Meet in Omaha

Omaha — Several hundred Rotarians representing 36 clubs in western Iowa and eastern Nebraska are expected to attend a Rotary district conference here Friday and Saturday.

The committee will assist county historical societies. It is also proposed that this committee work with librarians as a sub committee group in historical research for various centennial projects.

Wood announced that his committee for the centennial would include the executive board of the State Historical Society and the society's ex-officio members:

Charles C. Osborne, Hastings; James C. Olson, Lincoln; A. R. Owens, Loup City; Marvin F. Kivett, Lincoln; Arthur Carmody, Trenton; Willard D. Hosford, Jr., Omaha; Frank Latenser, Omaha; Charles W. Water Provided Shelter Centers

A two-man crew from the City Public Works Department have commenced filling the 17½ gallon water cans furnished by the Federal government with the shelter supplies in various Lincoln Buildings.

Effective July 1963 supplies and water for 37,288 had been provided. Since that time additional supplies for a total of 65,504 have been received. Of the additional water container filling procedures at the State Capitol and other buildings have provided water for 4,055 additional shelterees.

Indiana Grads To Have Dinner

Nebraska alumni of Indiana University will have a Founders' Day dinner meeting March 31 at 6 p.m. at Kiewit Plaza in Omaha. Lee Norvelle, professor emeritus of speech and theatre at Indiana University, will speak. Robert Wilson of Omaha is area alumni president.

Civilian Help In Conference Held at LAFB

What is believed to have been a "first" for the Air Force was held at Lincoln Air Force Base.

Base Commander Col. William Seith held a commander's call for civilian personnel — similar to an officers' call where the commander discusses subjects with his officers.

About 325 civilian employes of the base attended.

Colonel Seith discussed such topics as the role of employes in maintaining continuity of operations between assignments of military personnel and responsibilities of civilian employes in training young airmen.

Included was the need for continued civilian support in accomplishing the mission of Lincoln base and Strategic Air Command.

Service pins and awards were presented to 24 civilians.

Teachers Plan Summer Meet

A summer workshop in economic education for secondary school teachers of economics, social studies and business education will be held at the University of Nebraska June 14 to July 3.

The workshop will be the first major undertaking of the Nebraska Council on Economic Education.

Hospitals Fill 73 Of 111 Internships

Omaha Institutions Get 61; Lincoln General Draws Blank

Lincoln and Omaha hospitals will have 73 of their 111 approved internships filled July 1 through the 1964 National Intern Matching Program.

Omaha hospitals get 61 and Lincoln institutions get 12. Those coming to Lincoln are divided this way:

Bryan Memorial Hospital, seven of eight approved internships; St. Elizabeth, five of eight spots, and Lincoln General, none of six posts.

Interns are stationed through a national program, where both seniors and hospitals indicate preferences.

The six Omaha hospitals have 89 approved internships.

Lincoln gained two more interns than last year.

Omaha hospitals raised their gain from 1963's 47 to 61 this time.

Bryan's new interns reporting July 1 are Donald A. Andre, a June graduate of Ohio State University; Lee D. Taylor, University of Michigan; William B. Elfeldt, William H. Hoewing, Thomas R. Laird, Louis Ludington and Dormond Metclaf, all NU College of Medicine seniors.

St. Elizabeth's new interns are Thomas C. Bush, George E. Gammel, Thomas H. Largen, William E. Lundak, Keith W. Shuey, all seniors at NU.

Lincoln General drew none in the nationally set up program for the second consecutive year.

"This happened despite the fact we put ten times the effort into recruiting as in previous years," said a Lincoln General spokesman.

Nearly twice as many interns could be placed today as are available in medical school graduating classes.

There were 12,601 internships open this year, with only 7,130 graduating medical students, according to national matching program officials.

November Battles Looming

GOP entries are Joe P. Rhoads of North Platte, Donald W. Pierce of Alliance, John W. Swanson of Eustis, and Dale E. Harris and Ted Johnson, both of Scottsbluff.

Republican voters will witness a five-way battle for the GOP nomination for state treasurer featuring Leo N. Swanson and Eugene G. Richarson of Omaha, Bryon Dunn of Lincoln, Rollin F. Clark of Lexington and Herman C. Christensen of Fremont.

The incumbent treasurer, Republican C. L. E. Swanson, is barred by law from seeking a third term. Democrat Fred Sorensen of Omaha is unopposed in his Democratic bid.

Republican State Auditor Ray C. Johnson is unopposed for the GOP nomination. But the winner of the Democratic race—Donald J. Jensen of Omaha, Russell J. Swanson of North Platte or Rudolph Andersen of Lincoln—could give Johnson a race in November.

On the congressional front, Omaha Atty. Richard Swenson is expected to wage a spirited campaign against his only Democratic opponent for the Second Dist. seat, Omahan A. J. Baker.

Rep. Gelnn Cunningham's GOP opponent is Omahan Raymond J. Croisant.

Showdowns for the First and Third Dist. seats will not come until November. Rep. Ralph Beermann is unopposed for the GOP nomination while Clair Callan of Odell is a loner on the Democratic ticket.

William E. Colwell of Hay Springs is the only Democrat on the Third Dist. ticket while Republican Rep. Dave Martin has no opponent from his party.

Republican U.S. Sen. Roman Hruska is without opposition for nomination, while the only Democratic contender is Raymond W. Arndt of Columbus.

Sen. Barry Galdwater of Arizona is the only candidate on the Republican presidential preference ballot, but write-ins for other GOP contenders can be expected.

Dworak: Conspiracy

Omaha (UPI) — Mayor James Dworak charged Saturday night that the Omaha World-Herald newspaper is waging a "definite pattern of political conspiracy to discredit this administration and the City Council so a replacement slate can be elected."

Dworak, in a radio and TV interview, said he and the Council were summoned to a closed meeting by millionaire contractor Peter Kiewit whose Peter Kiewit Sons Co. owns the paper, and told to support urban renewal here or face the political consequences.

Kiewit, interviewed by the stations also, said there was "absolutely no basis for the accusations of a conspiracy or a campaign on the part of me or the World-Herald" against the mayor.

Dworak Recall Sought in Ad

Omaha (UPI) — A petition calling for a recall election to oust Mayor James Dworak appeared in the Sunday World-Herald newspaper as a paid political advertisement.

The ad was purchased by a committee for recall headed by Anthony A. Schneider of Omaha.

STATEHOUSE LETTER

Some Nebraska Republicans are wondering if the timing of Hastings publisher Fred Seaton's announcement he would not run for governor again this year may indicate Seaton has hopes of returning to Washington. Seaton's announcement came after Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge's successful write-in campaign in the New Hampshire primary.

Seaton, Secretary of the Interior under the Eisenhower administration, is identified with the "middle of the road" Republican party wing containing such individuals as Eisenhower, Lodge and former Vice President Richard Nixon.

Seaton, some Republicans believe, may have been encouraged by the New Hampshire upset of conservative Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Time Sales 'Dig'

A Rural Public Power Dist. spokesman casually mentioned a national publication, the Saturday Evening Post, during a recent meeting of the Legislature's Interim Power Study committee.

"Members of the Legislature don't read the Post," quipped Sen. Don Thompson of McCook, committee chairman. The comment was an obvious reference to a recent Post article which gave the Legislature a black eye on the time sales and interest rate controversy.

Political Warm-up

If the weatherman were making a political forecast, he might say something like this:

"With less than two months remaining before the May 12 primary, Nebraskans can look forward to a full-scale political barrage right up to the day of the primary. Some relief can be expected during the summer months, however, since the general election will not be held until Nov. 3.

Most candidates ease up after the primary and resume their campaigns in earnest in the late summer and fall. The county and state political conventions will keep the political front warm in late May and early June."

A Lay Understanding

The American Bar Assn. will hold a regional meeting in Omaha May 7 with part of the meeting devoted to a "law-laymen's conference" on traffic courts and traffic safety. Purpose of the conference is to delveop respect for courts which handle traffic cases.

Capitol Floor Sealed

Workmen spent part of last week sealing cracks which have developed in the elaborate marble floor on the main floor of the capitol. Some of the pieces of marble are so small — less than an inch square — that they were in danger of working loose.

Committee on Children Will Hold Annual Meet

Although the Nebraska Committee for Children and Youth is already engaged in study topics for possible 1965 legislation, members will take time out Monday for their annual meeting.

The all-day session is scheduled at the Nebraska Center.

President Mrs. Clifford Jorgensen of Lincoln said representatives of organizations from all over the state have been invited.

With election of officers and other business out of the way by noon, the afternoon will be devoted to workshops on seven subjects: health, educational, recreation, economic opportunities, juvenile problems, welfare and spiritual development.

A panel presentation on new and current programs by the Nebraska Council of Youth will highlight the luncheon.

Mrs. Jorgensen said another session, this one of the legislative steering committee, is set for March 24 at 1:30 p.m. to consider what additional topics of some 20 may be undertaken for legislative study.

"We already have two study groups underway, one on termination of parental rights, adoption laws and the mistreated child," she said.

The other concerns licensing of child care centers.

Convention Posts Proving Popular

Primary Ballots Lengthened By 136 Would-Be Delegates

Thanks to a large number of Republicans and Democrats who want to go to the national political conventions this summer, the May 12 primary election ballots will be long ones.

A total of 136 people filed as congressional district delegates and alternate delegates to go to the conventions to help nominate the next president and vice president.

One oddity in the filings was the sole candidate—C. A. Story of Sidney—for alternate delegate to the GOP convention from the Third District.

All other races have a considerable number of candidates.

Despite the large number of filings, however, few of the candidates will be able to go to the conventions.

Republicans will elect only six delegates (and the same number of alternates) — two from each congressional district.

Delegates who will take Nebraska's remaining 10 GOP votes to the convention, for a total of 16, will represent the entire state and will be elected by delegates to the June 1 state convention.

Nebraska Democrats, in deciding how to apportion their total of 19 votes, gave the voters an opportunity to elect more delegates than did the Republicans.

Democrats will elect 15 delegates, with five coming from each congressional district, while the Democratic national committeeman and committeewoman automatically will have one vote each.

The remaining two votes will be given to four at-large delegates elected at the state convention, with each statewide representative having a half-vote each.

Nebraska Sanitarians Registering

A ceremony scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the State Health Dept. got its start last year when the Nebraska Legislature passed a law establishing a board of registration for sanitarians.

It marks addition of Nebraska to a list of 28 states which have such a board to establish and raise sanitarian standards.

While most sanitarians are found in public services such as state, county and city health departments, many are employed in private business such as hotels and restaurants.

After next Jan. 1, all registered sanitarians must take examinations to be certified. They also must be college graduates with scientific, physical and biological requirements and a minimum of two years' experience.

South African Lecturer at Union College

Dr. Ben J. Marais, South African minister, author and lecturer will be at Union College Mar. 22 and 23 as a Danforth Visiting lecturer.

A public lecture on "Which Road South Africa?" will be presented next Sunday evening at 6:40.

He will also attend meetings with students and faculty members.

Monday evening a discussion on "The Christian Church in Africa — its History, Problems and Prospects" will be presented at the College View Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Dr. Marais is a minister of the Dutch Reformed Church and a professor at the University of Pretoria, South Africa.

He favors a moderate attitude in South African race relations and is an important spokesman in his church in opposing apartheid, the government's policy of segregating white and Bantu peoples.

The Danforth Visiting Lectures project, in its seventh year, is sponsored by the Danforth Foundation and the Assn. of American Colleges.

Senior Citizens Prime Targets For Physical Fitness Conference

The day when a senior Nebraska citizen can hardly be found at home because he's out hiking, camping, dancing or over at the community center doing half knee bends, will be a happy one for Ted Dappen.

This would represent substantial results forthcoming from the Apr. 30-May 1 Governor's Conference on Physical Fitness for all ages, in his opinion.

Dappen, as state health department education division director, is head over heels in plans with Medical Coordinator Dr. Sam Fuenning, for the two-day Nebraska Center sessions.

While ideas and guidelines for community-centered programs will cover pre-school to senior citizen, the conference will lean heavily toward the latter groups.

"Somehow the youngster can be stimulated, but too many my age or older get the idea that an active life is for others—not them," Dappen said.

As far as he's concerned, a person is only as old as he feels. "It's up to the individual in the long run, then, how old he really is."

The group needing the most rousing to get off their seats is an age grouping in which Dappen would fall: "The men between the ages of 40 and 60 are the hardest to get going; to get up from those well-worn chairs," he said.

Because mental and physical well being go together like salt and pepper, this phase of fitness will figure in the two-day exchange of ideas and planning for programs on community levels.

There will be a liberal sprinkling of physicians among those being invited from community organizations all over the state. "They'll be there to learn, too," said the two Lincoln men.

Both emphasized the role physicians will play in fitness for all ages. "No one should begin a program without a physical checkup to determine if he has any limitations," Dappen said.

Nebraska State Medical Assn. members, meeting in Lincoln Apr. 28-30 for annual scientific sessions, are underwriting extra appearances by many out-of-state speakers at the physical fitness conference.

These speakers have wide experience in varied fields. They include: Dr. Hans Selye of Montreal's Institute for Experimental Medicine and Surgery, an international authority on stress; Dr. James Roman, U.S. Space Flight medical director at Camp Edwards, Calif.; the Rev. Paul McCleave, American Medical Assn.'s medicine and religion director; and Dr. Ralph Gerard, Ann Arbor research expert on the nervous system and behavior.

Stan Musial, consultant to President Johnson on physical fitness, will be after-dinner speaker at the April 30 banquet.

Cancer Unit Picks Knight

Appointment of John Knight Lincoln insurance man, as chairman of the 1964 crusade for the Lincoln-Lancaster County Unit of the American Cancer Society has been announced by President Harold Read.

Knight

Knight said the 1964 theme, "Tell Your Neighbor" symbolizes the aim of this year's campaign: "We intend to inform the public so that the less than one out of five cancer victims saved record in 1930, can be further reduced to one out of two through early diagnosis and proper treatment."

Knight said the three-day weekend residential campaign is scheduled April 18-20.

Candidates Please Democrats

James Exon of Lincoln, chairman of the state Democratic party's candidates committee, said his group is "tremendously pleased with the overall quality of the primary candidates on the Democratic ticket."

Exon's committee was appointed last fall by the Democratic State Central Committee with the goal of making certain well qualified Democrats filed for every state and national office.

The Lincolnite said his group feels the Democratic candidates on the primary ticket "exemplify, better than anything else, the re-awakening and pride of the Democratic party of Nebraska led by Gov. (Frank) Morrison.

"Never previously have we had such an effort on a statewide basis to assure the voters in the primary and general election of outstanding candidates for all national and state offices," he declared.

Exon said he feels the increased filing fee was helpful to both parties "in that it tended to eliminate many who are not seriously interested in serving their government."

Democrats from all over the state served on Exon's candidates committee.

Dr. Hook heads the department of philosophy at New York University. He has taught at Columbia and Harvard universities.

High Speed Chase of Fleeing Teenagers Ends in Injury Accident

A high-speed auto chase between Lincoln police and two teen-agers in a car which had been reported stolen ended Saturday in an injury accident

Miss Louise Combstock, 50, of 1626 F was thrown from her car against a curb at 26th and A when the car struck her vehicle. She was treated and released from a Lincoln Hospital Saturday night.

While Miss Combstock lay on the curb, two youths ran from the car. Later two Lincoln boys, 15 and 16 were questioned about the incident.

After questioning, the 15-year-old was sent to the county detention home. The other was lodged in jail on an open charge.

The incident began when motorcycle officer Gus Dittmann noticed a car that had been reported stolen. He pursued the vehicle from 27th and Washington, west to 26th, and then north, according to Police Lt. Robert Myers.

The car was traveling approximately 60 m.p.h., police said, when it ran a stop sign at 26th and A and struck the Combstock vehicle.

Officer Dittmann leaped from his motorcycle to aid Miss Combstock rather than chasing the escaping boys.

Minutes later police apprehended the pair.

The youths were treated for minor injuries at Lincoln General Hospital.

School District Consolidations 'Encouraging'—Better Education Programs Cited

In the matter of school district consolidations, Hubert Wolfe sees what he believes are new and encouraging trends.

Wolfe is the State Education Dept.'s school district reorganization chief, a man oft-blistered by opponents of redistricting.

Since last Oct. 1, an additional 54 Nebraska school districts have been dissolved or have completed all legal processes for achieving the same end.

The warming development, to Wolfe, is the fact that 42 of the 54 districts are being attached to presently accredited districts. None of the 42 were accredited.

The 42-district figure exactly equals — in five months time — the total number of dissolved districts during all of the 1962-63 measuring period which joined accredited districts.

'Better Quality'

That, Wolfe says, means more children are being placed in environments of better quality education.

With the end of 54 more school districts, Nebraska's total is reduced to "a record low" of 2,852 — still believed the highest state figure in the nation.

Wolfe reports another 60 districts are certain to be dissolved before Oct. 1, too.

The law makes mandatory dissolution of 52 districts now in their fifth year of contracting, along with eight more which have neither held school or contracted in the past year.

Legal Steps

Beyond these 60 districts, legal steps leading to the merger of 40 more are pending, according to Wolfe.

And prospects are mildly-favorable yet, another 50 districts may be reorganized before autumn.

At its March 23 meeting, the State Committee for Reorganization of School Districts will review plans for dissolution of 25 districts.

The prospects, then, are by Oct. 1, 1964, Nebraska's school districts could be slimmed down to striking distance of 2,600.

Fire Kills Five

Cleveland, Ohio—Four children and their father were killed in a multi-alarm fire at their apartment. Lone survivor of the family was the mother, Judy Hajas, 25, who was treated at St. Alexis Hospital for a hand injury.

Of Schools and Scholars

School Merger Dream In Touch With Reality

By DICK HERMAN

Talk persists the East Saunders County school consolidation plan is far from moribund.

What has been dreamed, over the years, is merger of about 40 districts in the eastern half of the county. The new arrangement has a potential of some 1,900 students, kindergarten through 12th grade, and a $27 million property valuation base.

Those kind of statistics would vault an East Saunders district among Nebraska's top 20 in enrolment, among the top dozen in total valuation.

Besides Wahoo, towns involved include Cedar Bluffs, Yutan and Mead, all three presently sponsoring small high schools.

Interestingly, it was worry in this area about lack of regional representation on the new school board which propelled Rising City Sen. Harold Stryker to spark a legal change.

The last Legislature ordained initial school boards in newly formed consolidated districts must have maximum geographical representation. But the new law didn't prompt any quicker Saunders County reorganization.

TV-ers Celebrate

The Nebraska Educational Television Commission formally celebrated the birthday of its chairman last week, Steve Watkins' natal day coinciding with the Commission's March meeting.

A small, pink-frosted cupcake, impaled by a skinny pink candle, was set before Watkins, Lincoln superintendent of schools.

Observed Commissioner Freeman Decker: It was all the idea of J. Arthur Danielson, also a Lincoln Board of Education member.

"But it was my 12c" Decker noted meticulously.

Law Weighed

With the Nebraska Supreme Court presently weighing a law under which the State Board of Education has disapproved small high school districts, a look eastward reveals the Iowa Supreme Court last week struck down a similar statute.

The Iowa bench declared unconstitutional a law used by the Iowa Public Instruction Dept. to fix standards and approve schools.

Said the court: The statute gave "arbitrary and discriminatory power" to the state superintendent. Moreover, the court found the Iowa department had been less than neutral in administering the code.

"A statute which gives an administrator the right to enforce or waive penalty at his discretion confers upon him an arbitrary power. Such a statute and the acts of the administrator under it are each unconstitutional."

In One Paragraph

In One Paragraph:

—A story making the rounds concerns a man in a rural school district where consolidation was a hot, hot item. The tale suggests the Nebraskan lived in a chicken coop in the district, just so he could be a legal resident for petition-signature counting purposes.

—The teacher shortage isn't rough all over. Alliance Supt. Marven Rosen reported he had 50 applications for nine faculty vacancies.

—Know what kids do at recess time? They ululate!

—Lexington Supt. John Cox told school board members in his vicinity that unless the Lexington district shows a sizeable valuation increase, it is faced with very considerable financial problems.

—Attractive student-executed art work can always be found on the second floor of the Lincoln Public Schools Administration building.

—Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter says he's dead serious about eliminating tuition at Nebraska's University and state colleges. He fears an "educational caste system" is developing in the United States.

Anti-Bias Stand Gaining Support

Churches Okay Resolution Against Discrimination

By MIKE BAXTER

In less than a month, the roll of churches singing a resolution against discrimination in housing and employment will be released.

A spot check indicated that most of Lincoln's 100-plus churches will be listed.

And the record will show that approval in most cases has been unanimous or nearly so.

The declaration, drafted by the Mayor's Council on Human Relations, is drawing support from every shade of religious thought represented in Lincoln.

The liberals were among the first to ratify the declaration.

The moderates are rapidly adding their weight to the movement as the April 12 deadline for signing nears.

The evangelicals have at least a dozen signatures now, with more expected in the next four weeks.

Total signatures are said to be around 40—a statement supported by talks with Lincoln ministers. The exact figure will not be known until after the ratification deadline.

Two-Sided Feel

Sentiment on the declaration has two sides. One contested point has been the wording of a definition of open occupancy.

The key word is "right"—whether this is used as a legal or moral term.

To more clearly indicate this is used to denote a moral right, a council member and attorney, Julian (Herb) Hopkins of Banker's Life Nebraska, has been assigned to draft a definition of the word as used in the declaration.

Clergymen contacted agreed it was difficult to articulate these large concepts while pleasing everyone.

"It's impossible to get a complete statement everybody would agree with," one said, "but I thought it was a good statement."

Hopkin's definition of "right" will be presented at a council meeting Wednesday night.

Rights

"Right," Hopkins said, "gets to be an abused word. Everybody has rights. Somehow we have to get these so-called rights to interact.

"We're trying to narrow the gap between what people say and what they do," Hopkins said.

Carroll Thompson, council head, termed the declaration an attempt "to get as many churches as possible to speak with one voice" on housing and employment.

This goal, apparently, is within reach.

And even should efforts in this direction fall short, the declaration "has been a very good thing for the community," Thompson said.

"It has caused a great deal of discussion — serious and thoughtful discussion of these two subjects."

The declaration:

"This church declares itself to be in favor of the practice of open occupancy in housing in Lincoln and encourages its members not to condone racial discrimination in housing; and to act individually or collectively to end such discrimination in selling, buying or renting of homes or dwellings.

"This church also declares itself to be in favor of eliminating racial discrimination in employment, and encourages its members not to condone such discrimination; and to act individually or collectively to end such discrimination.

"Open occupancy, in this statement, is understood to mean that any Lincoln citizen has the right to rent or purchase a dwelling or home wherever he chooses.

"Elimination of racial discrimination in employment is understood to mean that no person in Lincoln shall be denied a job or position, or shall be denied advancement in rank or remuneration, because of color or creed."

Ministers Urged In Rights Issue

Lincoln pastors have been urged to join the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's nation-wide "mail-in demonstration" supporting civil rights.

The demonstration is scheduled for today, according to Mrs. Leola Bullock, president of the NAACP's Lincoln chapter.

Mrs. Bullock, in a recent letter to Lincoln clergymen, requested that they urge their congregations to write personal letters to Nebraska Senators Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis.

In the letter, dated March 5, Mrs. Bullock said:

"The votes of the senators from Nebraska are crucial.

"As of this date, (Nebraska Senators) are not committed to support the bill nor do we have their support to support cloture to shut off debate in the Senate.

"It would do us little good to condemn them. We must instead seek to win their approval in the coming Senate fight."

Bible School Course Offered

The Lincoln-based 20th Century Bible Correspondence School is mass-mailing offers of a free Bible course to Lincoln area residents.

The school is sponsored by the Nebraska Conference of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Its chairman is C. R. French, an Adventist elder in Lincoln.

The link between the school's course and the Adventist denomination is not mentioned on the offer of a free course.

Elder French said the course represents "a Scriptural viewpoint rather than a denominational viewpoint."

Masons to Meet

The Grand Lodge of Masons in Nebraska has scheduled area meetings on Masonic education at Wayne, Friday and Fremont, Saturday.

The Rev. Levi B. Williams, Grand Chaplain, will speak at Wayne. Dr. Roy W. Deal of Lincoln will speak at Fremont. Grand Master Ralph M. Carhart of Wayne will speak at both meetings.

Bishop Epp Coming to EUB Rally

At Calvary Next Sunday

Bishop George E. Epp of Riverside, Ill., will speak at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, 11th and Garfield, next Sunday.

The Calvary congregation will observe its semi-annual rally day.

The rally day offering will help underwrite support of the Merwyn Davidson family of Culbertson, now serving as missionaries to Japan.

UCCs Will Hear Social Actionist

A United Church of Christ social action leader will speak at two Lincoln conferences Monday.

The Rev. John R. Washington of Cleveland, a member of the denominational council for Christian social action, will speak at the annual meeting of the UCC's Lincoln Association.

Washington

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. at Ebenezer Church, 801 B.

At 3 p.m., the conference camp committee will present plans for development of a conference center near Burwell.

The Rev. Mr. Washington will speak at 7 p.m. Monday in the final Lenten seminar at First-Plymouth Congregational Church, 20th and D.

Both sessions will be open to the public.

As a San Francisco pastor, the Rev. Mr. Washington was president of the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance and a member of the NAACP's executive board. He holds bachelor and master degrees from Andover Newton Theological School at Newton Center, Mass.

Mueller Will Visit Overseas

The president of the National Council of Churches will leave Friday for Spain for the traditional Holy Week visits with U.S. servicemen stationed abroad.

Until 1958, the annual visit by the council president was made during the Christmas season. Since then, the Holy Week has been chosen.

Bishop Mueller, senior bishop of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, will be accompanied by Dr. Fred Buschmeyer of New York, secretary to the United Church of Christ.

Methodist Women Meet in Omaha; Will Hear Guests From Overseas

About 1,500 members of the Nebraska Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service will hold their annual convention Tuesday through Thursday in Omaha.

There will be guest delegates from Taiwan, Argentina and Philippines. These guests and Bishop Kenneth W. Copeland will be speakers.

Mrs. Regueira is an elementary schoolteacher and author of a course on religious education now in use in Latin American kindergartens.

She is one of 10 women Methodist leaders from nine countries now visiting the U.S.

Other speakers are Mrs. Katherine Boeye Ward of Taiwan, Miss Elizabeth Johannaber of Manila, Philippines, and Mrs. E. T. Pittard of Ansen, Tex.

Mrs. Pittard is secretary of foreign work of the eight-state South Central Jurisdiction, which inclues Nebraska.

The Nebraska WSCS has a membership of about 30,000 women. Mrs. Ira W. Frederick of Omaha is president.

Minister Gives Help In India

Rev. Mr. Wood Aids Refugees

Half-way around the world in Tura, Assam, India, the Rev. James Wood ministers to a religious minority of several thousand left homeless in border-fighting between Indian Moslems and Pakistani Hindus.

As area secretary for the American Baptist Convention missionary activities, the Rev. Mr. Wood is concerned with the care of some 15,000 Baptist converts. An estimated 20,000 Catholic converts have also become refugees of the Garo Hills area, site of border disputes between Moslem and Hindu, India and Pakistan.

With the Rev. Mr. Wood in India are his wife, a registered nurse and daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Puckett of Rt. 8, Lincoln, and their four children. Karen, 15, and Paul, 11, attend school at a Christian mission school in south India some 1500 miles from their parents mission assignment. The younger children, Billy, 8, and Linda, 6, are tutored at home by their mother through a correspondence program.

Not in Danger

Mrs. Puckett reports letters received weekly indicate the family is in no immediate danger, though Indian Army units patrol the area.

The Garo Hills refugees have been housed in temporary camps some 40 miles from the mission headquarters. The Indian government claims they are providing food, shelter and medical care to the refugees. A doctor and nurse staff each campsite.

Mrs. Wood described the camp facilities as grossly inadequate. Though rice was furnished the refugees, she stated it was of poor quality.

On trips with the mission staff, she said while Indian officials would permit them to tour the campsites, they were restricting their activities. Particularly of concern to Mrs. Wood was the refusal of her nursing services. With poor sanitation and inadequate medical staff, there is great likelihood of widespread illness and disease. Indian government officials claim that they are conducting mass innoculation programs to halt epidemics.

Served 12 Years

The Woods have been serving as missionaries in India 12 years. The Rev. Mr. Wood, son of a Baptist minister, attended seminary in Kansas City, Mo.

He and his wife served charges in Colorado and Missouri before volunteering for foreign missionary work.

Two years ago, border uprising caused the U.S. consul to evacuate the missionary groups in Assam to southern India. When fighting had abated, the mission was reoccupied and the Rev. Mr. Wood, his wife and younger children returned to the Garo Hills outpost.

Henry Lang Closing Out

Whale Meat Going Off Market in Beatrice

Beatrice (AP)—Henry Lang has decided to start closing out his stock Monday, bringing to an end one of Nebraska's most unusual businesses.

Lang's old store at 6th and Ella Streets has specialized in rare foods imported from all parts of the world.

It has operated at the same location for narly three-quarters of a century. Lang never changed its look and strangers entering it for the first time felt they were walking into another century.

The Lang store was a port of call for epicures from a wide area. John Ostrander, retired grocer who has been helping out recently, said he has visited so-called "fancy grocery stores" in many parts of the country, and the nearest to an equal stock of exotic foods was in Pennsyvlania.

Lang, 81, has been kept at home with a broken hip for nearly a year. He said he would have stayed in business had it not been for the accident which sidelined him.

Langs have been in the grocery business in Beatrice for 91 years. Henry's father, Emil, was a partner in a grocery opened in 1873 near the old Pacific House where stage coaches stopped. Lang books, still in the shop, record sales to the state coach company.

Emil Lang moved his store to the 6th and Ella location in 1893. Henry and his brother, Joe, took over on their father's death about 1914. Joe died in 1919.

It was after Henry took full charge he began adding gourmet items-whale meat, pickled rattlesnake, fried grasshoppers; imported sweets from Holland, France and England; jellies from Ireland.

The three postulants who will become novices are Catherine Watts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joan Watts of Norwalk, Ia.; Nancy Roach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Roach of Beatrice; and Diane Watton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Watton of Shubert.

Diane has a first cousin, Sister Clare, who is also a member of the religious community.

The five novices who will pronounce their vows are Sisters Annette Meyer of Douglas, Regina Coday of Fremont, Monica Radek of Geneva, Thomas Stevenson of Brooklyn, N.Y. and Lorette Happe of Carroll, Ia.

Sr. Radek's sister, Bernadette, is also a member of the Marian Sisters Community.

Commitments by Senators Sought

A Grant attorney and other United Church of Christ (UCC) leaders will try this week to win support for the civil rights bill among uncommitted senators.

Hastings

George B. Hastings of Grant will represent Nebraska at the Monday-through Wednesday conference in Washington. Hastings presided from 1956-58 over the former Congregational Christian denomination, now merged into the UCC. He is a member of two national UCC committees.

The conference is sponsored by the UCC's social action and race committees.

Targets are senators—including Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska of Nebraska—whose position on the bill is considered flexible, and whose support has been termed vital.

On Monday, delegates will be briefed on the status of the House-passed bill.

On Tuesday, they will confer with home-state senators, urging them to support the bill without change in order to avoid sending it to conference on Senate chanegs, the UCC said.

On Wednesday, the UCC said, delegates will outline plans to carry the fight to their home states in a "continuing campaign."

For Hastings, this will probably involve personal contacts through "his church and individuals," according to Dr. Fred Register, state UCC minister.

Other delegates will represent Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont and Wyoming.

WCTU to Meet

The Lancaster County Womens Christian Temperance Union Convention will have a meeting at 10 a.m. Friday at the YWCA with Mrs. Lyle Tyner presiding. After a noon luncheon Mrs. David Bize will give a talk and show pictures on Palestine.

Our service is one of thoughtful consideration for the family's wishes.

Rural Schoolteacher Is All Things to Her Pupils

By CAROL HONEY

In most schools a fire drill is a once in a sometime thing.

Not so at Dist. 149 School in Davey.

Recently a confused fire alarm system roused teacher and students from the day's lessons and sent them scurrying outdoors.

This spontaneous fire drill happened not once but four times that day.

Children Delighted

With the possibility that each alarm might mean fire, a march to the outdoors was necessitated. Such interruptions and resultant breaks in the day's routine delighted the children.

Such goings-on in most schools are the responsibility of a janitor or building engineer.

However, in the 38 Lancaster County schools, such as Davey School, these maintenance responsibilities belong to the teacher during the day.

Mrs. James L. Bone of Lincoln is one of the two teachers in the Davey School

She has 24 pupils in grades five through eight Walking into her classroom, one finds her busy with one grade group while her other students are occupied with their own projects.

Pupils Appreciative

Mrs. Bone feels that children who attend country schools "seem to mind better. They appreciate things a little more"

Davey School is an older building, but certain new books and equipment are purchased each year, depending upon the budget.

The encyclopedias in the back of the room and the books lining the shelves along the walls testify that a country school need not be slighted due to its rural location.

Mrs. Bone feels that an advantage of teaching in such a school lies in the freedom that is afforded the individual teacher.

Each teacher is responsible for her own music and physical education programs.

Ties Are Close

Activities and trips outside the school are more easily planned than in a larger school system where the greater number of children make some educational trips impossible.

Family ties and close feeling to the school are another advantage, Mrs. Bone points out.

There are occasional family night programs during the year. Seasons such as Christmas afford an opportunity for a party. Parents, students and teacher alike enjoy fun nights

A first for the Lancaster County school system is the completion of a complete Red Cross course at Davey.

Commuting between Lincoln and Davey has caused no tribulation this winter for Mrs. Bone.

But in bad weather when roads are impassable, the county school teacher is sometimes called upon to make the decision to cancel school for the day.

Over Broadway's Skyline

The Dennis Star Hangs High

Two very proud Lincolnites are keeping up with the news from Broadway.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dennis, parents of Miss Sandy Dennis, who has skyrocketed to stardom in the New York production of "Any Wednesday."

Drama critics in the big city wrote rave reviews of the comedy when it opened last month, with most of their praise going to the lead, Miss Dennis —"Let me tell you about Sandy Dennis. There should be one in every house . . ." were the opening sentences of Walter Kerr's review in the New York Herald Tribune.

—"Normally the Internal Revenue Service would frown on a tax deduction for an executive suite used as a romantic hideaway.

"But if it got to know Sandy Dennis as the adorable 30-year-old nymph who calls such an apartment her home in "Any Wednesday," even an austere government agency might be charmed into leniency.

"For Miss Dennis makes an attractive excuse for a tax deduction as any titan of industry could imagine . . ." wrote Howard Taubman in The New York Times.

—"Any Wednesday" actually is a small comedy (not that plays are to be measured by weights and mass) which starts slowly, sometimes hesitates, and only occasionally produces uncontrolled hilarity.

"Nevertheless, the charm doesn't falter, its comedy is deliciously satisfying, and it keeps the audience happily involved all the way. The charm is largely in the fluttering hands of Sandy Dennis, as Ellen . . ." is an excerpt from Norman Nadel's review in the New York World Telegram and Sun.

Cookies Important

Not only did the rave reviews appear following opening night, but Miss Dennis since has been the subject of several feature stories and interviews in national magazines.

In an interview in the Mar. 1 New York Times, Miss Dennis is quoted:

"I'm going to be twenty-seven on Apr. 27. I guess I should be thinking about getting married, but if I got married I feel I'd have to give up acting, and I don't want to give it up just now.

"Does that sound harsh? It's just that I couldn't tear myself in two, divide myself the way some women can. At home in Nebraska, we had such a happy home—cookies on the table and all that sort of thing, and that's what I'd want for my own children."

The actress's home in Nebraska is presided over by Mrs. Dennis, who laughs a bit at Sandy's memories of cookies.

"I've always baked cookies, and ever since Sandy has been in New York I have been sending them to her . . . often large enough batches that the whole cast of a play in which Sandy had a role could have a homemade treat.

"Then when we go to New York each year, I bake up a large batch and take them to Sandy," said Mrs. Dennis.

Reared in Lincoln

Mrs. Dennis, who is employed in the records room at St. Elizabeth Hospital, is very modest about the ingredients needed in the home life of a Broadway star-to-be. Mr. Dennis is a supervisor at the Lincoln Post Office.

Sandy and her brother, Frank, grew up in Lincoln, though Sandy was born in Hastings. The family moved to the Capital City when Sandy was 7.

She went to Everett School and was graduated from Lincoln High School, then flirted with higher education, studying one

'Mother' to Lions Speaks in Lincoln

A breath of fresh African air flew into town to speak at Union College Saturday night.

She is Joy Adamson of Isiolo, Kenya, author of "Elsa," "Born Free," "Living Free," and "Forever Free," books about the lions Mrs. Adamson "mothered" at her home overlooking the vast plains and mountains of the Northern Frontier.

Best sellers? Who can argue with sales of three million copies or translations into 18 languages, including Braille and taped editions? In England, only the Bible outsells Mrs. Adamson.

Joy Adamson

The reason is not difficult to spot. She is a writer in love with her subject . . . the wildlife of Africa . . . and consecrated to its preservation in its native habitat.

It's not for herself, not for Kenya, but for the world that Mrs. Adamson is concerned about the threat of extinction hanging over animals that could in two generations disappear from the earth.

Only adequate game preserves and complete protection from poachers for the species now roaming the world's last frontier will insure survival.

The responsbility for saving this natural heritage rests with all men, she notes.

Born in Austria, the author studied music, art and medicine before visiting a friend in Kenya 28 years ago. So entranced was she with the land that she stayed on to marry game warden George Adamson.

Mrs. Adamson's feeling for Africa transcends the animal kingdom. Six hundred of her wildflower paintings and 700 works depicting traditional African customs now hang in the Coryndon Museum in Nairobi. In conjunction with the latter endeavor, Mrs. Adamson is currently at work on a book recording the fast-disappearing way of life of the natives.

Lincolnites Slated For DAR Offices

Norfolk — Two Lincoln women, Mrs. B. C. McLean and Miss Martha Weaver, are slated for positions as state officers of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR).

Election will be held on Friday, the final day of the two day 64th state conference of the DAR.

Mrs. McLean is slated for the position of vice regent and Miss Weaver for the position as treasurer.

Miss Weaver Mrs. McLean

Dr. Galen Saylor, chairman of the department of secondary education at the University of Nebraska, will speak at the Thursday evening session.

State Sen. Marvin Stromer of Lincoln will speak at the Friday evening banquet, and the newly-elected officers will be installed.

The remainder of the slate of officers includes Mmes. J. Carl Evans of Omaha, regent; Curtis O. Lyda of Gering, vice regent Mary Ross of Gordon, chaplain; M. J. Hewitt of Omaha, recording secretary; Elmer Lund of Genoa, corresponding secretary; William A. Johnson of Hastings, registrar; Charles T. Milligan of McCook, historian, and Miss Nina Nation of Alliance, librarian.

From Childhood on, Sandy Was Stagestruck

semester at Nebraska Wesleyan University and another at the University of Nebraska, according to Mrs. Dennis.

"I suppose," she said when asked for the formula for raising such a successful daughter, "it was because we didn't interfere with Sandy's plans and decisions. We left her alone to make them when she was at home."

Miss Dennis was stagestruck from the time she was a child, and contrary to many children's changes of mind to "What do you want to be when you grow up?" Miss Dennis stuck to the idea of a career on the stage.

Strewn With Roses

Not a prophet without honor in her own country, Miss Dennis had parts in two Lincoln Community Playhouse productions, "The Crucible" and "Rainmaker." Her role in the latter earned her the award for best actress of the season.

"Sandy also had a part in 'Our Town' when she was at Wesleyan," Mrs. Dennis said. "It's her favorite play, I think."

From Lincoln to stardom on Broadway seemed to be a path strewn with roses for Miss Dennis.

She first appeared in an off-Broadway play, "Lady from the Sea," and after several roles proved she was made of the stuff needed for real troupers.

In the opening scene on opening night of the Broadway production of "The Complaisant Lover," Miss Dennis came onstage in a pale yellow chiffon dress. The slip under the gown began to slide downward to her ankles when a hook came undone

The actress didn't realize the situation she was in until she stepped behind a sofa (a moved called for in the script).

She felt the slip slithering down so she just stepped out of it hoping the audience wouldn't know. That it did was shown by wild applause and plaudits to her great presence of mind.

Sandy's mother and father refuse to take any credit for her fantastic career from unemployed actress to stardom in seven years. The Dennises refused to be photographed, because "This is Sandy's show and we don't wish to take anything from her."

You can bet that when Sandy next visits in Lincoln there will be "cookies on the table," and in October when Mr. and Mrs. Dennis go to New York to visit there will be cookies for Sandy.

NEUROSIS AND PSYCHOSIS WHAT DO THEY MEAN?

Neurosis is defined as a mild emotional disorder in which you might experience feelings of anxiety, make compulsive acts and usually have physical complaints without specific evidence of disease. Psychosis is any major, severe form of mental illness.

Most everybody has a neurosis occasionally and sometimes a mild tranquilizer is prescribed to help ease the stress. With a psychosis, treatment calls for strong medication in many cases. There are hundreds of drugs available for mild or severe mental problems. We carry them all in our prescription stocks.

Light Colored Ceiling Gives Play Area Spacious Look

By MARGERY McELHENY

Chicago (UPI)—A seldom-used basement area can be changed into a recreation area the whole family will enjoy.

Use a light color ceiling paint so the room will seem more spacious and bright.

To hide overhead pipes and ductwork, go whimsical with a length of inexpensive fish netting tinted the same shade as the ceiling, draped across it and attached at each end of the room.

Use a dark tone of heavy duty paint for the floor and wood grain plastic laminate panels for the walls.

When choosing colors in furnishings anywhere in the house, think of areas that often are neglected as part of a color scheme.

In the bedroom, try adding bright colors to drawer fronts or doors. If you have decorative woodwork, highlight it with color that harmonizes attractively with the walls.

A year-round work and play area for children can be as simple as a drop-leaf shelf under a playroom window.

For rainy day projects indoors, the window will give natural light, and an adjustable pole lamp beside the shelf serves for homework and study periods in the evening.

In the kitchen, here's a quick trick to consider for more storage space. Install a metal sliding door track across the top of the wall cabinets and parallel it with another track across the ceiling.

Insert panels covered with bright-colored laminate alternately in the top and bottom of the track. What was formerly waste space above cabinets becomes a handy catch-all for seldom used items that are often difficult to store.

"Fashion is a Fair Lady" will be the theme of the Lincoln Symphony Guild's annual luncheon and style show Mar. 23 and 24 at Cornhusker Hotel.

Twenty members of the Guild will model spring fashions, which emphasize the soft, feminine look. With Easter on the following Sunday, feminine members of the audience who have not purchased their spring bonnets will be especially interested in the scene "I've Grown Accustomed to Your Face," for spring hats will be featured

Since its organization in 1957 when 42 women chose Mrs J. Edmonds Miller as the first president, the Symphony Guild has been actively assisting Lincoln Symphony Orchestra. Mrs. Paul Kern is present head of the Guild, which has a membership of 315.

The Symphony has benefited from such activities as the Bridge Marathon, the Headdress Ball and the style show, for the Guild has added $11,700 to Symphony coffers during the past five years.

Mrs. O. R. Mallat is chairman of this year's style show and luncheon, which begins at 1 p.m. each day.

Male Modes

If You Yearn to Be Caught This Leap Year, Here's How

Well, here it is—good old Leap Year! And the chase is on—or should be. The editorial advice at this stage is usually directed to the pursuers—on how to get their men.

But this being a column of male interest, it just might be wise to talk to the gentlemen along the lines of—how to be one of those to be caught:

Now do not be smug about this, fellows—especially if you're the shy type. Just as this is the big every-fourth-year opportunity for the gals—as it also is for presidential candidates—it's your chance too!

Every gal wants a man who's neat, orderly, tasteful, attentive to details, immaculate—right? Now, read those adjectives over again and see if they are not synonymous, each of them with Good Grooming.

So, if you want to get caught—if you want to get a girl—be well-dressed!

Fashion Highlight: Several years ago, a wool jersy sport jacket was introduced and it sold well, along with wool jersy slacks, in some of the finer specialty shops. According to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, wider distribution, and should be highly successful—for it has a high degree of stretch and is extremely comfortable.

Tips for the short men: Select jackets with squared shoulders. Avoid stubby or high-rolled lapels. See that the coat isn't so short that it makes you look "cut in half" or so long, it forshortens your legs.

Pick hats with a tall crown and medium to narrow brim to give the effect of height. Avoid fancy or heavy shoe styles. Wear the narrow ties in vogue today . . . and see that trousers are well-tapered and trim.

Dress Tips: If you wash your drip-dry shirt under a shower, as many men are doing, buy one of those self-adhering hooks that will stick to tile. It will let you hang shirts after rinsing and keep them from wrinkling—'til you can get them on hangers—A pair of eyebrow tweezers is the best tool to use to untangle badly-knotted shoelaces.

Trends: Formalwear is growing less uniform. The tuxedo getting most attention these days is a type with fancy-but-subtle decoration on lapels and cuffs. Some are moire, others use braid . . . Men's jewelry has the look of elegance and luxury—with even the popular-priced numbers using stones that look like the real thing.

Care of Clothes: Shoes need more shining in damp weather, not alone for appearance sake but because the leather needs the lubrication of polish . . . Blood stains on shirt collars, from shaving, will come out easily if ammonia is applied to spots before washing.

From the Mail: Q. "Must all tuxedos match at a semi-formal evening wedding?" A. Yes, they should all be the same color—and, these days, all single-breasted.

Forecast: We foresee a return-to-favor of smart white suits. We now predict that they'll be in the stores, and on men's backs by the summer of '65.

Fact: Did you know that Adolf Hitler dictated style? The Reich's fashion headquarters controlled all ready-to-wear clothing manufacturing.

Best Hat-Wearers: Among men in the public eye, Frank Sinatra, Mel Allen and Andy Williams.

Style Sense

Among the few new phenomena in fabric is the use of heavy White Cotton Lace. It is found in any fashion category. For instance, a yellow sheath linen dress is worn with a full-length, lined white cotton lace coat with long cuffed sleeves.

The coat may also be worn over summer dresses that might already be in one's wardrobe. For a more formal appearance, there is an after-five look in short sleeveless dresses with ruffles at top and hemline.

Cotton lace is even used in bathing suits trimmed with leather and in cotton pique pants with matching tops distinguished by the long cuffed white cotton lace sleeve. These are not in the more expensive class range and are a perfect addition for the summer or resort wardrobe.

Year of Color

In Lingerie, color springs up in everything. Vari-colored flowers on white called, of all things, "Flower Happy," can be purchased in bras, half-slips, pettipants, brief panties, and panty girdles.

"Forever Orchid" is another color in undergarments. There are still, of course, the more conservative whites, beiges, and blacks along with the light blues and pinks.

In the heavier foundation garments one finds these colors and even cerise or beige with contrasting black lace and red with black lace. It is truly a year of color from the inside out!

White Coats

Spring Coats are shown in lightweight wools, pure silks and water-repellent materials. White predominates and the white raincape with black buttons is especially stunning when combined with black patent shoes and a black plastic patent "genderme" hat (a cloche type with a bill) and one of the new plastic umbrellas with black and white leaves scattered over it. Coats are available in any color with a loose, but straight-cut look—not hugging the body too closely.

Suits Are Sweet

"Sweet, feminine, and pretty" is the word for suits this spring and summer. They can be found in knits (often combined with suede and leather), lightweight wools, cottons, linens, and the most beautiful combinations of colors in tweeds. Many of them have blouses with bows at the neck or jackets with several pockets, often braid-trimmed to complete the feminine look. Jackets are all lengths, from waistline to three-quarter. Some have cape-like jackets. Any color is available so individual tastes can be indulged, though white predominates in everything.

Fashion Plunge

The Plunge is another new in fashion. Where it started no one knows. Perhaps from "My Fair Lady" or "Tom Jones," a movie displaying the very low and feminine deep front and back. You can find this in the after-five or more formal dress, in the simple shirtwaist style and even, yet, in bathing suits. Warning: special bras are sometimes needed with this especially low-cut look.

Patents, Please

Patent Shoes for spring and summer in any shade desired—red, pink, beige, navy, light blue, champagne, brown, black, or white and in high or mid-heels. More open heels, more fabric and color combinations are seen in fabric shoes.

Go Where the Boys Are If It's Males You'd Meet

By HELEN G. BROWN

Dear Mrs. Brown: You recently wrote that a woman of 50 who likes men and is attractive can have all the dates she wants. If you don't mind my saying so, that is pure hogwash. Why do you print things that can't possibly be backed up with facts?"

Perhaps it would be an exaggeration to say she could meet the man she wanted to marry right off by liking men, but men to go out with I think are hers for the charming.

Let me give you an example: A very dear friend of mine writes from Phoenix: "I recently purchased a government surplus .45 automatic pistol and a Springfield rifle with the idea of teaching Dorothy (his wife) to use these weapons in case of emergency or catastrophe. The idea occurred to me about the time of the Cuban crisis.

"Well, last Sunday Dorothy and I went out to the rifle range for the first lesson and decided to take Madge (his 53-year-old widowed sister) along. Madge, as you know, is female to the core but always interested in football, baseball or anything men do. George (her late husband) was a sports fan.

"We got to the rifle range about noon and I started giving both the girls some coaching in shooting real man-killing weapons. Dorothy (his wife) did extremely well with both guns.

"While Dorothy and I were shooting, Madge walked around and struck up a conversation with the range officer. How? By being ignorant, of course, and more important by being interested. We could see her asking questions and listening very seriously while he answered. As a result, when he left, both Madge and Dorothy were offered cards to fill out indicating their interest in joining a new class in shooting that is being formed.

"We went back to the house. Madge went on to her home and half an hour later she called us in hysterics. It seems no sooner had she got in the door than her phone rang. It was the chief range officer wanting to arrange a dinner, perhaps a little private instructions and, of course, seriously urging her to join the shooting class. She promised to have cocktails with him the following day—to discuss the shooting class, of course.

"I know you're interested in helping mature women meet men and I just thought I'd point out that all Madge had to do to get the invitation was to go to a place where men are and be 'ignorantly interested' in what they do."

Good point. Instead of a rifle range, the arena might be an archery range, political meetings, street exhibition of paintings, fish hatchery, game preserve—you name it. The men are probably there. Don't fake the interest, but pick a field about which you can genuinely care, and then pounce.

Sculpture, New Paintings On View at Sheldon Gallery

"Cello Player" by Ossip Zadkine.

Four new paintings and one sculpture on display at the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery represent gifts or loans to the University of Nebraska art collection.

Gifts include "Polymer No. 9," an oil by Raymond Jonson provided by Arthur H. Johnson of Portland, Ore., in memory of his wife, May VanDyke, and "Landscape Organicism," an oil by Sandra Gierke, donated by Peter Hill of Omaha. A bronze entitled "Cello Player" by Ossip Zadkine was provided by Dr. and Mrs. Frank Stanton of New York.

Mrs. A. B. Sheldon of Lexington has loaned the 'Medition," a stone by Masayuki Nagore. The "Bride and Owl" by Grace Hartigan was loaned anonymously.

A native of New Jersey, Grace Hartigan studied and painted in Mexico in 1949. Twelve special exhibitions of her work have been held since 1951 and her paintings have been included in the Museum of Modern Art in New York City, the Brussels Worlds Fair, the Washington Gallery of Modern Art and the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Raymond Jonson has painted more than 1,500 works during his 40 years in New Mexico. He operates his own gallery in Albuquerque. An intuitive painter, he narrows the gap between pure design and a highly refined purist aesthetic.

He transmits experience into precisely refined relationships of color and shape without reference to economic, social or political problems.

A cubist sculptor, Zadkine set aside the well-nigh abstract forms to develop in wood, stone or bronze a lyrical style of his own. His influence extends throughout the world.

Zadkine's works spur the spectator and show relation to reality retaining only the moments of grace and exaltation. His imagination is both plastic and lyrical which gives it a very exceptional place in the art of our time.

Sandra Gierke, who painted "Landscape Organicism," formerly taught art at the University of Omaha.

For 54 Years, Camp Fire Has Helped Girls Explore Life

Camp Fire Girls are celebrating their 54th birthday this week.

The organization was founded by Dr. and Mrs. Luther Halsey Gulick in Maine and has developed into a year-around program all across the nation.

Today, in Lincoln alone, there are over 3,000 members in 200 organized groups.

Blue Birds are the youngest members of the organization, with a program suited for active second and third grade girls.

The Camp Fire level is for the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades. At this time girls explore seven crafts in areas which will be important to them when they become adults.

Seventh and eighth graders make up the Junior Hi level. They work in 25 fields, ranging from aerospace to horsemanship. Indian lore plays a major part in the total program, because the American Indians provided our native culture.

Horizon Club is for girls in the ninth through 12th grades. At this level members explore career possibilities and do community service. Horizon Club members find volunteer service challenging to them as well as useful for the community.

A week of special events is planned to honor the birthday of Camp Fire Girls.

Today, members attend their churches in costume, and on Monday, they will present a program, "To Serve and To Tell" on KUON-TV at 6:30 p.m.

Wednesday is costume day at school, and on Thursday, leaders will attend a tea and fashion show at 1:30 p.m. in the Gateway Manor auditorium.

Contract Bridge

Honor-Discards Far-Sighted Move

By HOWARD SCHENKEN AND RICHARD L. FREY

One of the most difficult plays in bridge is the defense against a threatened squeeze. In this unusual hand from the World Par Championship, East had to save himself by a far-sighted series of dramatic honor-discards.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 N.T.	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♡	Pass	4♡	All Pass

Opening lead: Club king

The bidding in the diagram is that suggested by the par-makers, and illustrates two modern trends. One is to open one no trump with a range of 15-17 points instead of the standard 16-18. Another is to make the bid without regard to the possible weakness represented by a small doubleton.

Using standard American bidding, it would be somewhat harder to reach game. The opening bid would be one heart, or in some circles, one diamond. Over one heart, North might make a slight underbid of two hearts, in which case game would be missed. The alternative treatment of bidding a minor suit followed by positive heart support, would be a slight overbid.

North-South were awarded maximum points for reaching either four hearts or three no trump. Both contracts have good chances. The directed contract was four hearts.

West led the club king and continued clubs so that East could ruff the third round. (If the club queen is permitted to remain in dummy, declarer would have no trouble making 10 tricks).

Declarer overruffed the third round of clubs and led three rounds of trumps, forcing East to discard three spades in order to hold diamonds. Dummy was entered with a diamond, and the heart jack forced East to discard a fourth spade. Declarer simply had to play ace and another spade, conceding a trick to East and establishing a surprising spade trick for himself.

The successful defense was for East to keep his two small spades and throw all his spade honors. Declarer could then not establish a spade trick for himself without permitting West to gain the lead with the spade nine.

How could East tell? He simply had to assume that his partner had the spade nine, for otherwise there was no hope for the defense.

LINCOLN DIARY

Sunday: Lincolnites decided the Weather Man had his signals crossed today, when the near blizzard hit. For it was a bit early for the usual State Basketball Tournament snowstorm.

Monday: Watch those fillings!

It was bedtime, the baby asleep in his crib, and mamma and papa about to retire. Playfully he threw a decorator pillow at her. She threw it back with a trifle too much gusto.

The pillow hit spouse on the head — and EXPLOSION! A wide area was covered with tiny bits of shredded foam rubber, the pillow's stuffing.

"It looked as though someone had blown up a large cheesecake," he said.

And it took some diligent picking to recover most of the pieces — but a thorough cleaning next day was needed to get all of the bits up.

Tuesday: We hear that Mrs. Michael Edwards will be one of the five speakers on "The Art of Flower Arranging" to be presented by the Women's Assn. of the Joslyn Art Museum in Omaha.

Mrs. Edwards, first vice president of the Federated Garden Clubs of Nebraska and president of the Garden Club of Lincoln, will speak on "Using Flowers With Art." The lectures are scheduled at 10:30 a.m. Wednesdays in April. However, the last lecture, which includes a flower arranging competition, will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. on Apr. 29.

Wednesday: Nebraska Art Association board members have big plans for the annual Spring Show — and are including several innovations. One is an English "high tea" planned for Art Assn. members at the preview of the show.

Burket Graf reported at the board meeting today that his spouse served tea upstairs, in order to give him a sample of high tea.

Preview of the show will be from 5 to 8 p.m. on Sunday, Apr. 5, and then the show opens to the public on Tuesday, Apr. 7, at Sheldon Art Gallery.

Thursday: Mrs. Henry Bomgardner of Scottsbluff, formerly Mrs. Dwight Griswold, is in Greece today and is expected to attend the funeral of King Paul.

Mrs. Bomgardner and the late Gov. Griswold, chief of the American Mission to Greece in 1947, had been entertained at the palace by King Paul.

Friday: The young father from out of town was here on business when his wife called to report that their nearly one-year-old son had taken his first step.

"Tell him to do it again," cried the frustrated father as he pressed the phone closer to his ear.

Dropout Panel Open to Public

"Mental Health in Relation to School Dropouts" is the topic of a panel discussion planned by Hawthorne Elementary School PTA on Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

Creighton Prep's Dave Burnett (22) begins work on taking down net as Wally Anderzunas is boosted up to lend assistance.

Bellevue's Burst Falls Short, 64-53

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Creighton Prep, stopped one game short of the state Class A basketball championship in 1961 and again last stopped Bellevue, 64-53, in the title match at the Nebraska Coliseum Saturday night.

Coach Tom Brosnihan's tourney-tested team weathered a short Bellevue burst at the outset of the game and a longer assault in the third quarter as it earned its first title since 1945.

The Chieftains, seeking revenge for a 52-49 setback in the regular season, raced to a 6-0 lead in the first 70 seconds of play.

Then Wally Anderzunas took over and pumped in 10 of the first 11 Prep points to knot the count at 11-11. Dave Burnett warmed up from the outside and the Junior Jays led 19-16 at the end of the quarter.

Anderzunas and Burnett continued to sparkle for the red-hot Prep quintet in the second quarter as the winners moved in front 37-28, at halftime. Wally had 18 of his 24 points and Burnett had 14 of his 23 points at the intermission.

The seemingly comfortable nine-point margin wilted under the Chieftains' charge led by Dick Agnew in the third quarter.

The 6-5 forward, held to two field goals and eight points in the first half, worked the offensive board to perfection as he poured in 15 of Bellevue's 18 points as they closed the gap to 48-46 after three periods.

The Chieftains were in front only once in the last half, at 44-43. But Burnett stepped to the line to drop in a one and one free throw and another on a technical foul to put the winners ahead to stay at 46-44.

Anderzunas hit a jumper at the outset of the final quarter and the Junior Jays were off and running again as the Chieftain comeback was stalled in the last period.

The losers fell to a seven point production in the last quarter.

The Creighton Prep lapse in the third quarter came about when Anderzunas and Burnett each drew a blank from the field.

John Padden was the only Junior Jay to hit in the 11-point period, getting both of the Prep fielders.

Agnew got good scoring help from guard Steve Shefte, who had 15 points, but the rest of the usually balanced Bellevue attack fell off in the title game.

The Chieftains ended their campaign with an 18-3 mark.

Creighton Prep, which easily disposed of Grand Island and Norfolk in quarterfinal and semifinal games, closed with a 21-3 record.

Eberspacher's Late Score Gives Beavers D Crown

By CURT MOSHER

Steve Eberspacher, a six-foot lefthander, had the right touch at the right time Saturday night, popping in an eight footer with five seconds left to give Beaver Crossing a 51-50 victory over Herman and the State Class D basketball championship.

A standing room only crowd at the Coliseum was left limp from the final hectic minute which saw the Beavers come roaring back from a five-point deficit.

Down, 50-45, with 1:04 to play, the Beavers of coach Larry Buhl refused to quit.

Using the pressing defense to its harassing best. Beaver Crossing suddenly got a great chance when Mike Heser goaled with 51 seconds to play.

Then Herman's Robbie Andrew, a first half standout, missed a free shot with 35 seconds left and Beaver Crossing capitalized with a medium-range jump shot by Bob White, the Beavers' hero of the semifinal victory over Maywood. That came with 24 seconds left.

Then when Herman's Tom Green was bringing the ball up court he collided with Eberspacher and a double-foul was called. The Beavers got the tip with 16 seconds left and Eberspacher did the rest.

Ironically, Eberspacher, normally the No. 4 scorer of the Beaver Crossing's ironman quintet, was low man on the pole Saturday night, scoring only four points.

Mike Heser led the way with 18, White had an even dozen and Larry Stutzman 10. Gary Bluhm had seven and that was it.

Herman, which hadn't known defeat this season in winning 24 games, was in command of this one from midway in the second half on. Herman broke out of a 28-28 deadlock with two minutes left in the third period on a three-point play by Andrew and bolted to a 45-37 lead, the eight points representing the largest spread all night.

But Heser and White short-circuited the runaway midway in the final stanza to allow for the final minute pandemonium.

Andrew led Herman with 14 points while Steve Lane had 12 and Green 11. Green had a terrible first half, missing all eight of his attempts from the field.

Green, however, wasn't alone in the miserable first half shooting as neither club could accomplish much in this department.

In fact neither club finished with anything like a good night shooting, Beaver Crossing hitting 36% and Herman 38

Beaver Crossing will pack a 26-1 record along with the trophy. The Beavers lost only to Hordville, 60-55.

K-State Bounces Wichita

Wichita, Kan. (AP) —Wondrous Willie Murrell and his Big Eight champion teammates from Kansas State ripped into Wichita's proud defense for a 94-86 triumph Saturday night and the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball championship.

The Wildcats' victory, their 13th straight, earned them a spot in the NCAA championship semifinals in Kansas City next Friday against the winner of the Western Regional.

Murrell, a multiple talented 6-foot-6 corner man, scored 28 points, stole the ball at least four times and generally wrecked havoc on the nationally fifth-ranked Shockers.

Balance Boosts Stanton to C Title

Class C Standouts

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Gibbon's Kurt Lauer (35) and Stanton's Terry Hinnrichs (42).

Over-all Play Wins Despite Lauer's 33

By JACK ANDERSEN

The Stanton basketball team added emphasis to one of the game's oldest theories Saturday in the Class C championship game of the Nebraska High school tournament.

A well-balanced team is better than a single star, no matter how great he may be.

And with that going for them, the Mustangs ripped Gibbon, 77-63 despite a 33-point effort by the losers' Kurt Lauer.

And winning coach Fred Letheby wasn't convinced Lauer was the best player in the game. While dripping wet from an impromptu shower, Letheby observed, "I thought Terry (Hinnrichs) outplayed Lauer with his over-all game."

Letheby had reference to the rebounding and defensive work by Hinnrichs in addition to his 21 points.

Losing coach Ed Bills looked at it differently. "Kurt would have scored 50 points easily if he hadn't gotten in that foul trouble. Remember that makes a boy play a lot differently."

But the fact remains, Hinnrichs got a lot of help and Lauer got very little.

Howard Hansen also got 21 points for Stanton, Terry Denney and Leon Renun nine each and Wally Kettler contributed eight.

The fouls possibly prevented Lauer from staging the tournament's greatest scoring exhibition. He had 27 points at intermission, but he also had four personals.

He got six more points before fouling out with seconds remaining in the third period. This gave him 100 for the 3-game tourney stint, five short of his record set a year ago.

Rich Robinson came to the Gibbon rescue in the second half to keep the game in reasonable balance. He got 15 of his 18 points in the third and fourth quarters.

Gibbon also lost Robinson and Don Vacha via the foul route.

Stanton employed a full-court press and a sagging 1-3-1 zone defense that made its path to stardom a smooth one.

The victory was particularly sweet for Stanton. Last year Gibbon ousted Stanton by two points and in that one Lauer set the Class C scoring record of 46 points in a single game.

Gibbon did get one consolation this time, scoring 209 points in the tournament to eclipse the team record of 193 it set last year.

Ralston Takes 'B' Crown With Sizzling Second Half

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Ralston, never a champion in the first 53 years of the state basketball tourney, stepped into the spotlight Saturday as it stopped Holy Name, 58-52, in the Class B championship contest.

The Rams put on the best shooting exhibition of the tournament as they rallied from a 29-23 halftime deficit with a sizzling second half performance.

After hitting only 10 of 39 field goal attempts in the first half Bob Mackie's club came back with a torrid 14 for 17 attack after the intermission.

The outcome was in doubt until the final seconds. Rick Koch gave Ralston a 55-52 edge with 14 seconds left as he dropped in the first of a one and one free throw attempt.

Second half hero Steve Neal was fouled as he grabbed the rebound on Koch's errant second toss. He canned the first of his free throws and missed the second, but came up with the rebound and put the ball through the hoop to boost the winning margin to 58-52 with nine seconds left.

Neal, who came off the bench when starter Doug Cottingham picked up three first half fouls, led the Rams with 20 points — 11 coming in the pressure-packed final quarter.

from the outside it became

Operating out of the pivot area, he was six for six from the field in the second half.

Cottingham had kept the Rams in contention in the first quarter, getting nine of Ralston's first 12 points.

The precision second half shooting wasn't the only item that turned the tide for the winners.

Holy Name had taken control early in the contest as center John Moylan ripped the Ralston defense with 19 points in the first half.

But the Rams clogged up the middle in the second half and when Holy Name couldn't mount an attack only a matter of time before Ralston took command.

Randy Williams, who drew a blank in seven attempts from the field in the first half, ripped the nets from the side three times early in third period to help the Rams gain a 33-33 tie.

Holy Name was still on top, 43-42, at the end of the third quarter, but the winners grabbed a 51-46 advantage with 3:25 left.

A four-point play on a basket by Steve Hegarty and a pair of charity tosses by Moylan cut the gap to 51-50, but Neal gave the Rams the eventual winning margin on a tally with 2:36 to play.

Moylan topped all scorers with 25 points, cracking the old Class B individual tournament scoring record with a three-game total of 85 points. He easily eclipsed the old mark of 73 set by another Holy Name standout, Chuck Sladovnik, in 1960.

Don Roddy's Holy Name quintet closed out its campaign with a 22-2 record.

Mackie's Ralston crew finished at 23-2, the only losses during the season coming at the hands of University High and Syracuse.

Beaver Sparkler 'Scared'

By LARRY DENNIS

"I was scared to shoot, but when it went in I was happy," said Steve Eberspacher after his eight-foot jump shot with five seconds left turned the Class D basketball finals topsy-turvy at Nebraska's Coliseum Saturday.

The Beaver Crossing senior, a 10-point scorer during the season whom coach Larry Buhl claims "won't shoot," made just two goals Saturday and a total of only 12 points in the tournament. But his last basket was the tournament's biggest, giving the Beavers a 51-50 victory over hard-luck Herman in the championship clash.

Eberspacher launched the winning shot off a pass from Mike Heser, the Beaver's top scorer, who said, "The coach told me to shoot it, and I was going to until I saw Steve wide open. I just flipped it to him and he made it."

"We were going to spread them out and hit the big kid," Buhl said, "but they just collapsed on him and left Steve wide open.

"When he shot it, I wasn't thinking a thing," Buhl grinned. "I had my eyes shut and I was praying."

"You never want to say these guys can't do anything, because they'll make believers out of you," sighed Buhl, whose crew was down by as many as eight points in the fourth period and trailed by five with just a minute left. Despite these odds, Buhl insisted he never gave up.

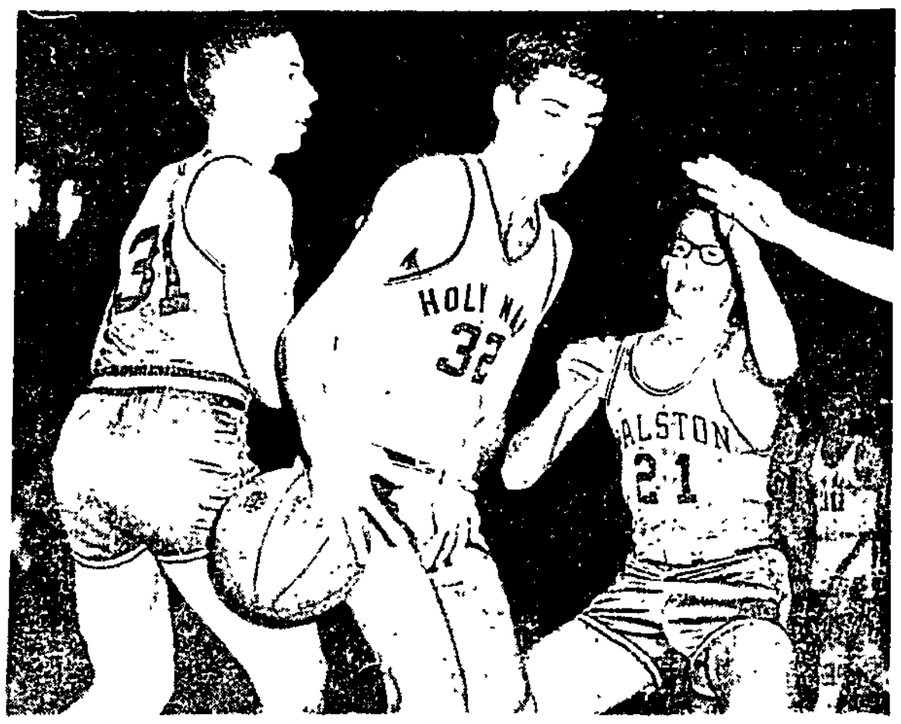
"Not with this bunch," he declared, shaking his head. "They just won't quit."

The Beaver boss figured the game's chief turning point came with just less than five minutes to play when the new champs, trailing by eight points, capitalized on a series of Herman mistakes and got six of the deficit back before the Cardinals could get the ball down the floor again.

"We had to have them," he said.

The other end of the dressing room was quiet. Herman coach Glen Blakeman could only mutter, "Two years in a row.

"We did the same thing last year against DeWitt in the finals," he pointed out. "We had them seven points with three minutes to go and we dropped that one."



Omaha Holy Name's John Moylan (32) seems angry with himself as he bobbles basketball during the Class B finale. Two foes, Ralston's Bill Haas (31) and Rick Koch (21), appear to be out of position to take advantage of the miscue.

Prep's Brosnihan Finally Sheds 'Bridesmaid' Mantle

By CURT MOSHER

"I was beginning to feel like William Jennings Bryan," Creighton Prep coach Tom Brosnihan sighed after his Bluejays finally cleared the seemingly insurmountable hurdle of the State Class A finals.

The pleasant, rotund coach who had brought his club to Lincoln for four straight years and engineered them into the finals three of them, got the big one at last when Wally Anderzunas and Dave Burnett, the inside-outside combo, whacked Bellevue, 64-53.

So unlike Bryan, who never made his goal of the White House, Brosnihan at least got a state title.

He got it primarily because Burnett, a 6-2 gunner, takes a 17-mile ride very morning to school, and because Anderzunas lived up to his billing.

The latter was hard to do, too. For Wally will be remembered as one of the all-time Cornhusker state prep stars.

"This was the way we should have played all year," the 6-8 Wally enthused in the dressing room. "I just knew we would start clicking in the state."

Wally, who had said earlier that his decision on college would come after the state tournament, said "I'm going to think about it tonight."

Anderzunas confirmed that he was "taking it easy" on defense in the second half after picking up his third foul. That's when Bellevue came storming back from a 37-28 halftime deficit to forge a 44-43 lead.

Brosnihan quipped that Wally had been taking it easy on defense for three years.

The unusual thing about Burnett's 17-mile ride each morning is that it starts in Bellevue where the young man lives.

Burnett, who scored 23, most of them on cross-country shots in the first half, went to school in the grade system at Bellevue, moving to Creighton Prep, a private school, as a ninth grader.

Burnett's father and brother also went to Prep.

This was a sweet victory for Burnett for another reason. Last year he suffered a punctured lung in the district tournament and had to miss the state meet.

Tom Brosnihan

In addition to Anderzunas' fould problem there was the Bellevue press which was a factor in cutting down the Prep lead.

"We didn't do anything different," Brosnihan said in reference to breaking it. "We just calmed them down. We'd worked on it before and didn't know whethe to play a man-for-man or a zone against it, so we just did some screening off . . ."

Brosnihan was obviously deeply moved by the performance of his club, which he labeled the best of the season.

"I guess we've been down here so long that we played better than we have in the past," he said. "I thought we did. I thought this was our best game of the season.

"And I'm really glad it's over!"

Losing coach Jack Wood took it hard.

"I thought we could get 'em," he said.

Referring to the suddent halt to the Bellevue resurgence at the start of the fourth period, he said: "Nothing went in the basket, you saw that."

Wood felt that the reason Creighton Prep was able beat the press was the foul trouble which beset his star Dick Agnew.

Jumping Coaches Confer

By HAL BROWN

Neal Mosser, Omaha Techs' jumping-jack coach, was among the first people to get to Bob Mackie, after Mackie's Ralston team had just won the Nebraska High School Class B Basketball Tournament.

"How'd I do?" Mackie asked. "Did I get out of line?"

It was a meeting of two of Nebraska's more active coaches when a game is in progess. During Saturday afternoon's title contest with Omaha Holy Name, Mackie did more walking in front of the Rams' bench than a foot patrolman would do in a day.

And when he was questioning Mosser on his conduct, he was speaking to the master of up-and-down tactics.

After being assured by the Omaha Tech coach that he had not gotten out of line, Mackie was ready to discuss his team's success over the Holy Name quintet.

"We didn't make any major changes at halftime," he explained. "The ball just started going in.

"Our boys just weren't loose at first, but in the second half, the shots just started falling and . . ."

That was the end of the interview as the Ralston cagers rushed their coach-off for a shower, fully clothed.

And just as Mosser had done a year ago after Tech's win over Creighton Prep, Mackie made the trip home wearing a sweatshirt and sweat pants borrowed from the University of Nebraska Athletic Department.

A mayor's reception and victory banquet awaited the winning cagers when they arrived in Ralston early Saturday evening.

Class A Meet Shifts To Omaha Next Year

It's on to Omaha next year for the state's Class A tournament contenders as the scene of the big show shifts from the Nebraska Coliseum to the Omaha City Auditorium.

The big school tourney again drew the most customers to the Coliseum, with over 43,000 in attendance at the Class A contests in this year's meet.

Next year's tourney program calls for the B, C and D meets to be held in Lincoln.

The Class A meet produced one record breaking performance. Bellevue's Dick Agnew poured in 38 points in the Chieftains' opening round decision over Pius X T.he rangy red-head fell short of Fred Hare's 1963 three-game total by seven points as he closed with 81. Prep's Wally Anderzunas was next at 78 in Class A.

Holy Name's John Moylan used a record-breaking 40-point opening game performance to eclipse the Class B tourney record of 73 established in 1960 by Chuck Sladovnik of Holy Name. Moylan finished with a three-game total of 85.

Only Class C marks to fall were team records. Gibbon posted a new single game mark of 90 and a tourney total of 209 in a repeat second-place finish.

Berra Loses in Debut

By Associated Press

The 1964 exhibition baseball season began for the New York Yankees Saturday on the same frustrating note as last year's World Series for the deposed champs.

Three Baltimore pitchers limited New York to six hits at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., as the Orioles victimized Whitey Ford 3-1 and spoiled Yogi Berra's managerial debut.

Spring hitting flurries highlighted four other Forida tilts. The St. Louis Cardinals exploded for nine hits and all their runs in the fifth inning and whipped the New York Mets 5-1 at St. Petersburg. The Pittsburgh Pirates slugged the Kansas City Athletics 14-1 on a 17-hit three-home run attack at Bradenton.

Four home runs powered the Houston Colts to a 10-9 verdict over the Philadelphia Phillies at Clearwater. Ed Brinkman rapped a grand slam homer at Pompano Beach as the Washington Senators blanked the Milwaukee Braves 8-0.

Rookie Bill Roman's two-run ninth-inning double gave the Detroit Tigers a 3-2 nod over the Minnesota Twins at Lakeland and Gordie Coleman's four hits led the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox at Sarasota.

In the West, Willie Mays' second exhibition homer helped the San Francisco Giants edge the Boston Red Sox 4-3 at El Paso, Tex. and a "split" Cleveland Indians squad dropped a pair of games. The A team lost to the Los Angeles Angels 4-3 in 10 innings at Palm Springs, Calif., and the B team bowed 9-8 to the Chicago Cubs at Mesa, Ariz.

The Yankees' Ford, beaten by the Dodgers in the finale of last October's four-game Los Angeles Series sweep, was clipped for a two-run Luis Aparicio homer in the third inning. New York's only run was unearned. Mickey Mantle went hitless in two trips but appeared to have no trouble with his much-injured legs.

Carl Bouldin, Claude Osteen and Jim Hannan combined for a one-hitter as the Senators shut out the Braves. Denis Menke's sixth frame single off Bouldin was the only Milwaukee safety. Brinkman's grand slam capped a five-run first inning for the Nats.

Michigan Dumps Ohio U

Minneapolis (AP) — Second-ranked Michigan led by Cazzie Russell's 25 points, shook off stubborn Ohio University, 69-57, Saturday night to gain a semifinal berth against Duke in the NCAA basketball tourney.

Co-champion Michigan of the Big Ten had its hands full until the final five minutes against champion Ohio University of the Mid-American Conference in the title game of the NCAA Mideast regional.

Ohio University, fresh from a 85-69 upset of fourth-ranked Kentucky Friday night, lagged most of the time by only five points in the contest of brulsing rebounding and close defensive play.

Michigan, making its first NCAA appearance since 1948, had more trouble controlling the boards against the Bobcats than they did in Friday night's 84-80 ousting of NCAA defening champion Chicago Loyola.

Russell, named on the Associated Press second All-America team, was the only Wolverine Ohio U was unable to shackle effectively.

Michigan's 250-pound 6-8 Bill Buntin met his match in Ohio's 225-pound 6-4 Don Hilt, in a man-to-man duel. Hilt outscored his taller opponet 18 to 15, but Buntin was hampered with four fouls midway in the second half.

Michigan, in running up its 22nd triumph against four defeats, led only 32-27 at halftime. It was not until little more than seven minutes remained that Russell finally nudged the Wolverines into their most comfortable lead at nine points, 54-45.

DePaul Bumped, In NIT

New York (AP) — NYU, always full of surprises, staged a dramatic second-half comeback Saturday night for a 79-66 victory over top-seeded DePaul and advanced with Bradley to the semifinals of the National Invitation basketball tournament.

NYU, which lost to such teams as Wagner and Rider during the regular season, will play the winner of Tuesday's Drake-New Mexico quarter-final game.

Second-seeded Bradley nipped a determined St. Joseph's, Pa., team 83-81 in the opener of the evening doubleheader and will play the winner of Tuesday's other quarter-final game between Army and Duquesne.

Drake advanced with an 87-82 triumph over stubborn Pittsburgh behind the fantastic foul shooting of Gene West, and Army edged St. Bonaventure 64-62 on Joe Kosciusko's rebound shot at the buzzer in the afternoon doubleheader.

Nebraska's Dennis Albers, who won the all-around event Friday, picked up three more victories Saturday. He won the sidehorse, tumbling and floor exercise events. Teammate Francis Allen won the parallel bars.

Colorado won three events the long horse, Richard Jones on the high bar and Tom Menkins on still rings.

Iowa State's Jim Selby won the trampoline event.

Duke Rips Huskies, 101-54

Raleigh, N. C. (AP) — Duke demolished Connecticut with a 62 point first half Saturday night and went on to bury the Huskies under a 101-54 avalanche to retain its NCAA Eastern Regional basketball championship.

Duke will play the Mideast Regional champion in the national semifinals at Kansas City next Friday night.

Jeff Mullins hit 11 of 15 first half shots and scored 30 points before leaving the game with 6:30 to play, the last of the Duke starters to be pulled by Coach Vic Bubas.

'Choke' Gesture Is Costly

Wichita, Kan. (AP) —Texas Western's Jim Barnes dropped in a tie-breaking technical foul shot and pointed the Miners to a 63-52 victory over Creighton and third place in the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball championship Saturday night.

Big Eight champion Kansas State played fifth-ranked Wichita for the title in the second game.

Barnes' conversion of the key technical gave Texas Western a 48-47 lead late in the last half. It was the first time the Texans had led since the opening moments and climaxed a comeback from a 12-point deficit.

Referee Rudy Marich called the technical on Creighton Coach Red McManus after he had made repeated "choke" gestures toward the officials.

Little Bob Dibler dropped in a long jump shot for the Miners moments later and the Texans weren't headed again, outscoring Creighton 20-5 over the last 6½ minutes.

Dibler got a bloody nose early in the first half when struck in the face by Creighton's Charles Brown. Brown was taken out of the game and did not return.

Paul Silas of Creighton, the nation's leading rebounder, fouled out at 11:09 and Barnes left with 5:52 remaining.

I May Be Wrong

By Curt Mosher
Sunday Sports Columnist

Is there a difference in officiating a regular season game and calling one under the taunt emotional feelings of the state high school tournaments? Does an official call a game differently? Is he nervous?

The answers, of course, would depend on what official you checked with. But if you checked with Leon Lehr the answer on all counts would be yes. But all would be only slightly yes.

Lehr, an eight-year veteran of officiating called his first state tournament games on Thursday.

If you checked with Buford Grosscup the answers are part yes and part no. Grosscup has been blowing his whistle for 18 years and this tournament was his seventh.

A Little More Juiced

"I think it's natural for any official to be a little nervous his first time," Lehr said. "But it's not really a matter of more pressure.

"There are a few more people here so things are a little tighter. The coaches are a little more nervous and the fans get a lot more excited. But it all depends on the coach. Some are a little more temperamental than others."

"Certainly," Grosscup says of the tourney game being somewhat different to call. "I get a little more juiced up. It's just like a team getting ready to play."

Grosscup, baseball coach at Lincoln High, says it's just like it is when he coaches. I don't get all fired up for the practices but I do for a game."

Grosscup does say, however, that he hopes he doesn't call a game any differently than he would in the regular season.

Calls 'Em Closer

Lehr a 31-year-old insurance salesman from Lincoln, says he calls the game a little differently. "I try to do a good job all of the time. But I sometimes call a game a little closer in the tournament because the teams are supposed to be a little better."

It is interesting to note, also, that officials must alter their ways somewhat when they switch from colleges to high schools. Lehr works both as do many officials. Lehr says the primary difference is allowing the players to be more aggressive.

Lehr occasionally gets forced into some difficult situations. One he had this year was calling the Northeast-Bellevue game with Ray Westover, the Nebraska Wesleyan football coach.

Lehr played for Ed Johnson, the Northeast coach, on the same team with Jack Wood, the Bellevue coach. That 1950 state championship team also included Stubby Seng, Northeast assistant; Paul Fredstrom, former Lexington coach and Dale Lemon, the Dana coach.

Coaches Can Settle Fans

Lehr said he didn't take any more abuse, but the jobs always included his first name.

As a former player and coach — he was at Hartford, Iowa, for awhile — Lehr feels that the coaches are the ones who can calm down the fans. "When they see a coach up hollering at the officials the fans get all excited, too," Lehr said.

There is evidence every day that something needs to be done. The officials have their break with the police officials at the half.

But the problems that go with the striped shirt aren't so great to keep men like Lehr from liking it. And it's not just for the money either. The typical fee for officiating a regular season is $15 and for a tourney game is $17.50.

"I don't think anyone could afford to do it just for the money," he says. "I like sports and I want to stay close to them."

Player Heads Field

Augusta, Ga. (AP) — South Africa's Gary Player, winner of the Masters golf tournament in 1961, heads a foreign list of 23 professionals and three amateurs for this year's Masters April 9-12.

Player, a regular visitor to the United States professional tour, won the U.S. PGA championship and was runner-up in the Masters in 1962. He also has won the British, Australian and South African Opens.

There is an unusually strong entry from Britain, where a conflict in dates with the British PGA championship previously has cut down on Masters participation. The British PGA will be played late this year.

Among those who have accepted invitations are Peter Butler, the British PGA champion; Geoffrey Hunt and Dave Thomas, members of the British Ryder Cup team, and Retief Waltman, 1963 South African Open champion who now plays out of Surrey, England.

Two other British Open winners are on the list, Bob Charles, the left-handed New Zealander who won last year, and Australia's Kel Nagle, the 1960 winner.

Other foreign pros entered are Bruce Crampton and Bruce Devlin of Australia; Stan Leonard and Al Balding of Canada; Roberto de Vincenzo of Argentina; Mario Gonzalez of Brazil; Miguel Sala of Colombia; Jean Garlaide of France; Gerry de Wit of Holland; Alfonso Angelini of Italy; Japan's Tomoo Ishii; Chen Ching-po, a Nationalist Chinese now living in Tokyo; Antonio Cerda of Mexico; Juan Chi Chi Rodriguez of Puerto Rico; Ramon Sota of Spain and Harold Henning of South Africa.

The amateurs are Nick Weslock, 1963 Canadian amateur champion; Gary Cowan of Canada and Juan Antonio Estrada of Mexico.

Scottsbluff Bows In JC Tourney

Scottsbluff (AP) — Trinidad Junior College held off two Scottsbluff rallies in the second half Saturday night to take third place 82-79, in the region 9 Junior College Basketball Tournament.

At the half, Trinidad led 40-27.

But Scottsbluff closed to 40-37 with 18 minutes left, then watched the Colorado team pull ahead 49-39. With 5:48 left Scottsbluff came within two points 67-65.

Trinidad's Jerome Chambers had 38 and Rich Pate 23. Scottsbluff's Cal Graham had 22 for the losers.

Coyote Hunter Goes Off Limit

Bored members of coyote hunts should not take pot shots at just any creature that happens to come into gun range. There might be a conservation officer watching.

Dale L. Herbolsheimer of Pierce was convicted of attempting to take a protected bird while on a coyote hunt and cost him $10 and costs. Conservation Officer Robert Downing, just happened to be nearby and saw him down a flicker. The arrest was included in the latest list from Game Commission conservation officers.

Illegal possession of deer: Gary R. Younglund, 20, Oshkosh, $100 fine, costs, and $300 liquidating damages.

Accessory to illegal possession of deer: Jack R. Karton, Chappell, $100 and costs.

Loaded shotgun in motor vehicle: Harry Smith, Verdigre, $10 and costs.

Littering: James E. Meridetch, St. Edward, $25 and costs.

Fishing without a permit: Robert V. Dolph, Wakefield, and Duane K. Dolph, Wakefield, each $10 and costs.

Mira's 'Target' Signs Contract

Boston (AP) — Nick Spinelli, who was George Mira's favorite passing target at Miami of Florida for three seasons, has signed with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League, it was announced Saturday.

Spinelli, from Coraopolis, Pa., ranked seventh nationally in pass receptions last fall. He is a flanker back.

Looking Ahead

Before kissing off basketball until next season it might be interesting to take a sneak preview of the 1964-65 prospects for Lincoln teams. The outlook for next year isn't what you could call hopeless in any of the five city cage camps.

The best place to start in the preview is University High, where coach Dale Snook gave his 1964-65 club a year of seasoning in the campaign just completed.

Starter Mike Ernst and reserves Ron Canfield and Mike Stoehr were the only seniors in the Uni High cast.

Last year's experience and a summer's growth should combine to make the Tutors a solid Class B contender next year. Top scorer Ron Schroeder returns and pivot performer David Butler will be bigger and better. Shook is also looking for vast improvement in the rest of his sophomores and juniors from the 1963-64 club.

Good Nucleus

Pius X mentor Lane Birkel has almost as strong a nucleus returning. He'll greet starters Mick Johnson, Dayle Churchill and Mike Bohaty when drills open next fall.

The supporting cast will be wiped out by graduation, but Birkel won't need to add much to field a strong contender for a return trip to the state tournament.

Lincoln High coach Alden Johnson will build around two solid members of his team which finished 10-6. They are center Frank Brill and guard Joe Weyand.

Although the Links won't have any giants they'll be bigger next year and should show marked improvement in rebounding.

Northeast coach Ed Johnson has several capable hands returning. If rangy Bob Hahn adds some weight he could develop as a top performer. Other frontliners returning are Ron Goldenstein, Tom Ochsner and Gary Thompson.

Southeast coach Bob Lohrberg has only one starter, Doug Dworak, returning. Front line wiped out, but Bruce Bowers, Ron Burgess, Jim Kohl and Tom Kay may be ready next year.

Early Action Finds Few Major Shifts

Early firing in the final round of the Women's State Bowling Tournament recorded few changes among the leaders Saturday.

Christiansen's of Superior bolted to the runner-up spot in the Class A teams and Bit Of Sweden of Stromsburg climbed to second in the Class B teams in the most notable shifts. The Stromsburg keglers lack seven pins from a first-place reading.

Mercedes Scholz produced the highest single game of the day, coming up with a 236 in the doubles class. Highest series of the Saturday get-together is owned by Louetta Findley of Hastings. She rolled a 576 without the help of a 200 game.

In other changes, Al Johnson's of Valley took over the 10th rung on the Class A team ladder at 2651, and Grafton and Schroeder Agency of Lexington grabbed eighth in the Class B teams at 2381.

Filly Shocks Favorite

New Orleans (AP) — Grecian Princess, a filly and a 28-1 shot, caught favorite Whit's Pride at the wire and won the $47,300 Louisiana Derby by a neck Saturday.

The 39th running of the Derby signalled the end of the Fair Grounds racing meet.

Grecian Princess, a chestnut filly owned by Theodore B. Buhl, Detroit, returned a whopping $60 to $2 win bettors. She paid $12.40 to place and $5.80 to show.

Jockey Kelly Broussard guided the Hestor-Princess Lisa miss over the 1⅛ mile in 1:50 4-5.

Whit's Pride, ridden by Ismael Valenzueal who flew in especially to ride Mrs. Goldie Finkelstein's colt, and Susan's Gent, the second choice of the 15,109 bettors, dueled for the lead until the half-mile post when Susan's Gent broke down.

Grecian Princess moved up to second at the three-quarter pole and then caught Whit's Pride at the finish. I Owe was third.

Grecian Princess, picking up $33,300 for her victory, became the second filly to win Louisiana's "Run for the Orchids."

Caroline A won the Fair Grounds' top offering for 3-year-olds in 1947.

Grecian Princess had won only one other race this year. She took a 6-furlong allowance event at the New Orleans oval Feb. 1.

No Round Footballs

An Oklahoma spring football practice brochure quotes new football coach Gomer Jones, "I think we'll have a good team barring injuries. Of course, a football isn't round. You can't tell how it'll bounce."

It didn't take Gomer long to fit into the pattern of head football coaches with the qualifying statement. But then he prepped under a master in Bud Wilkinson.

The qualifying statement on the shape of a football, however, could set an entire new trend among sports personalities.

A few other quotes that might rank with Gomer's bouncing football:

The .220 hitter explaining why he hits .220 — "What do you expect? They give me a round bat and the pitcher throws a round ball, then the manager tells me I'm supposed to hit the ball square."

The basketball coach of a weak team — "We can't expect to pull any upsets since our ball is round and doesn't take funny bounces like Gomer's football."

The golfer who has just taken a 12 on the 7th hole after being trapped in the trees — "Even a round ball takes funny bounces when it hits those pine trees."

A tennis player who has just lost straight sets — "That other fellow was serving so hard that the ball was no longer round when it got to me and even Gomer knows a flat ball won't bounce at all."

The hockey forward who has just missed a shot at the winning goal — "Someone forgot to freeze the puck and everyone knows a soft puck takes funny bounces."

The gymnast who lost in the trampoline competition when he missed the trampoline — "I was going great until I tried to add that gimmick, but found that even an acrobat can't bounce off a wooden floor."

The swimming coach—"We should win most of our meets, but one never knows since all diving boards don't bounce the same."

Santa Anita Graduates Hope to Spice Derby

Arcadia, Calif. (AP) — California - raced 3-year-olds, headed by Hill Rise, will not be lacking in numbers in the parade to the post for the Kentucky Derby May 2.

It appears that perhaps six or seven colts will be in the fabled run for the roses, including the Santa Anita Derby winner, Hill Risee.

The owner of Hill Rise, George Pope Jr., of San Francisco, watched his previous star, Decidedly, win the 1962 classic at Churchill Downs.

Other likely eligibles and graduates of Santa Anita's winter season include Nearco Blue, Wil Rad, Real Good Deal, The Scoundrel, Blue Norther and Knightly Manner.

Fun in the Wonderful Outdoors

Can't Stop Progress

Nature Carries Stigma

You can't stop progress! That slogan, spoken with bovine smugness, has become one of the symbols of our country.

You can't stop progress, so pollution and land abuses are rationalized, and understandably the self-centered conservation issues beyond the back fence, to say nothing of outrages 2,000 miles away.

Happy Builders

A case in point is the proposal of the Army Engineers to build a dam on the Yukon River in Alaska.

The dam would flood 10,500 square miles of the Yukon Flats, an area twice the size of Lake Erie.

At present, an estimated 1½ million ducks and 12,500 geese are reared on the area, and which seasonally wing south to feed the flyways.

This destruction of duck habitat in Alaska would be a body blow to sportsmen.

Last Retreat

More waterfowl are produced on the Yukon River Flats than on all the National Wildlife Refuges combined.

In addition, the nation's last great salmon run would vanish.

It would be the Columbia River disaster all over again; high dams and fewer and fewer salmon.

The region is also one of the last wilderness retreats in the U.S. for thousands of moose, rare and valuable fur bearers and the fast-disappearing grizzly.

Operation Outdoors

by Pete Czura

Man Mars It

But Alaska is not the only conservation battlefield.

In fact, conservation battlefields have gotten to be dime a dozen, from the neighboring creek to the nation's most outstanding natural wonders.

There is now a proposal to flood the Grand Canyon National Monument and National Park by building two dams on the Colorado River.

Theodore Roosevelt once said of the Grand Canyon: "Leave it as it is. You cannot improve it. The ages have been at work, and man can only mar it."

Inconsistent

We eulogize Teddy Roosevelt, Aldo Leopold, and John Muir for their imaginative philosophies, and then proceed with thoughtless, reckless, desructive, vicious programs.

This is the lowest form of cynical double talk, but it is also often placed on a respectable plane and called progress.

Few people realize that, often, bureaucratic ambitions and empire-building do not dovetail with long-range public interests.

It would seem that enough small taxpayer voices, raised in collective volume, could stop such ruthless autonomy.

But you can't stop progress, and progress is something that has a thousand definitions to selfish interests.

The above words were spoken by Ernie Swift, an old friends of ours, in a piece entitled "Straight Talk." It appeared in the recent issue of National Wildlife magazine.

And why do we print it? Because we agree with every swinging word Swift has uttered.

Wildlife Week Begins

By PETE CZURA

The need to expand outdoor recreation facilities will be highlighted during National Wildlife Week, March 15-21.

Ralph Hubbard of Omaha, Nebraska Wildlife Week chairman, points out that nine out of 10 Americans now participate in some kind of outdoor activity and spend over $20 billion each year in the pursuit of this important means of relaxation.

This year's theme is, "America needs Outdoor Recreation—Act Now to Provide For the Future."

Today, with higher incomes, shorter work weeks, and better highways, present recreation areas have become available to millions more people.

This in turn, has caused serious problems of overcrowding during important seasons.

Planning for the future assumes paramount importance when one considers that our nation's population will double by the year 2000.

Demand for outdoor recreation areas will, during this same span of time, triple in use.

Recreation areas close to metropolitan centers will be the most difficult to establish.

Competing uses for the land—housing developments, superhighways, and industry—threaten to prevent the establishment of these important recreation areas.

The time for action is now! Many cities across the land have shown foresight in acquiring lands for outdoor recreation.

A number of states have passed bond issues or provided special outdoor recreation funds to make certain that their citizens will have places for outdoor recreation.

The out-of-doors is a part of our American tradition. The challenge is to make sure that the outdoor heritage will be available to all, Chairman Hubbard says.

The National Wildlife, and its over 52 state affiliates, urge all citizens to join the crusade.

Governor Frank Morrison of Nebraska, has issued a proclamation urging all Nebraskans to observe National Wildlife Week.

Morrison said, this is a time when all citizens should inform themselves as to the need for outdoor recreation for healthy, strong, and happy Americans.

Agreement To Manage Game Area Reached

A general plan, clearing the way for managing fish and wildlife resources on about 9,498 acres of federal lands and waters at Merritt Reservoir, near Ainsworth, has been signed by M. O. Steen, Game Commission director, and Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall.

The area will be administered for trout, waterfowl, and prairie grouse by the Commission. Actual transfer of administration and management will be the subject of an agreement between the Commission, the Bureau of Reclamation, and the Interior Department.

Merritt Reservoir was built by the Bureau of Reclamation on the Snake River, a tributary of the Niobrara. All except three relatively small parcels of land will be made available to the state.

General plans on water-development projects are provided for by the Fish and wildlife habitat at federal water-development projects.

Portions of a project area suitable for fish and wildlife management purposes may be recommended for administration by either the state or the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service's Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife. In the case of Merritt, the Game Commission would administer the bulk of the land.

The Honda Sports 50's price is only half the story. It's a gas sipper: 200 mpg. Flashy but sturdy: over 50 mph from 4-stroke 50cc OHV engine. Other virtues: 4-speed transmission, manual clutch, cam-type brakes. Sheer fun to own.

Aussie Devlin In Lead

St. Petersburg, Fla. (UPI) — Australian Bruce Devlin stretched his lead in the $25,000 St. Petersburg Open Saturday in a third round featuring a pair of holes-in-one.

Devlin shot a three-under-par 69 on a windy day when most of the scores were closer to par 72. It gave him a 54-hole total of 202, five strokes ahead of his nearest rival going into Sunday's final round.

Joe Cambell and Dick Howell had the holes-in-one. Both hit five-iron shots on the 190-yard seventh hole that bounded into the cup.

PGA officials could not recall the time when two aces were recorded on the same hole in the same round of a tournament. They were the third and fourth recorded in 10 PGA tournaments this year.

Neither did the competitors much good. Howell came in with a 70 for a 212 total. Campbell had a 71 for 209.

Devlin had his good moments and his bad. His game suddenly went sour on the front nine when he bogied No. 8 and No. 9.

"I thought I had let it slip a bit," he said at the end of the round. But he birdied the 10th and had little trouble thereafter.

'Hamlet' on One Stage, Broadway Musical on Another

STAFF COLORPHOTO BY BOB GORHAM AND WILLIS VAN SICKLE

"Telephone Hour" is a scene from Kosmet Klub's "Bye Bye Birdie" at Pershing Auditorium next Saturday night.

NU Kosmet Klub Plans Lavish Production of 'Bye Bye Birdie'

In producing "Bye Bye Birdie," which is a parody of the rise of Elvis Presley and the teenagers who were his fans, the University of Nebraska Kosmet Klub at least monetarily is parodying most American amateur theatrical productions—collegiate and otherwise.

Kosmet Klub, whose productions date back to 1912, is investing over $12,000 in its production of the Broadway musical-comedy "Bye Bye Birdie."

Tams and Whitmark Inc. of New York, which supplies scripts and scores of Broadway plays, reports that this year's Kosmet Klub show ranks in the top 5% of all amateur productions in the United States as far as money spent.

Jim Hansen, a University senior and treasurer of Kosmet Klub, supplied this breakdown of costs: $4,000 for sets, $1,500 for programs, $1,500 for orchestra, $6,000 for costumes, scripts, musical score, salaries, and rental Pershing Auditorium.

"Bye Bye Birdie" was a hit on Broadway in 1961, and in 1963 was made into a movie starring Dick Van Dyke.

The Kosmet Klub production is slated for 8 p.m. Saturday.

The musical is splattered with scenes of screaming girls fluttering at the sight and falling to the ground in ecstacy at the touch of their gyrating songster — Conrad Birdie played by freshman Dave Jouvenaunt of Columbus.

Mrs Richard (Sally) Hove of Lincoln, who has directed Kosmet Klub productions since "Annie Get Your Gun" in 1957, describes "Bridie" as a show easily grasped.

Adding a professional touch is Associate Prof. Charles Howard, who came to the University this fall to teach theater production. A set designer, Howard has worked with the Broadway designer who did the sets for the New York production of "Birdie."

Howard said Kosmet Klub workers spent all of the semester break building sets which include seven backdrops 20 feet high spanning the stage, a two-story house, and a 500-pound jungle-gym.

There are 72 members of the "Birdie" cast.

Because past shows have made money, John Zeilinger, Klub president, said that some of the profits have been placed in a scholarship fund in memory of Steve Cass, a former KK member. Cass, from Ravenna, died in 1962 in an automobile accident.

Shakespeare Festival

Opening a festival observing the 400th anniversary of William Shakespeare's birth is a University of Nebraska Theater production of "Hamlet." Leading roles will be played by (from left) Thomas F. Crawley as Hamlet, John Michael Guinty as King Claudius and Pat Patterson as Queen Gertrude.

New York (AP)—Twenty-one new members have been added to the roster of Actors Studio, the largest group ever admitted at one time.

Among established players joining are Celeste Holm, Betsy Palmer, Tina Louise.

NU's 'Hamlet' Gets Two-Day Extension

The University of Nebraska Theater's production of "Hamlet" has been extended for two additional performances as the result of unusual ticket demand.

The Shakespearean drama opens Wednesday at Howell Memorial Theater 12th and R, and continues through the following Monday. Curtain time each evening is 8 p.m.

Dr. William Morgan, director, said Sunday and Monday performances were added, with the possibility of extending the run still another night.

In Top Roles

The role of Hamlet will be played by Thomas Crawley of Central Falls, R.I., a University graduate student. Other cast members include John Guinty of Grand Island as King Claudius; Pat Patterson of Fairmont as Queen Gertrude; Sandra Watkins of Lincoln as Ophelia; Gary Gue of Schuyler as Laertes; Robert Hall of Lincoln as Polonius, and Andy Becker of Scottsbluff as the ghost of Hamlet's father.

"Hamlet" officially opens the "Shakespeare on the Plains" festival at the University, a concerted effort by a number of departments to commemorate the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth.

Dr. Dallas Williams, professor of speech and dramatic art, and Dr. Robert Knoll, professor of English, are co-chairman of the festival. They are planning a series of lectures, poetry and drama readings, and musical and television performances.

Lecture Friday

The first of these lectures will be given by one of the leading American scholars of Shakespearean and Elizabethan literature, Prof. Madeleine Doran of the University of Wisconsin.

She will discuss "The Language of Hamlet" at 10:30 a.m. Friday in Howell Memorial Theater. The program is open to the public.

The 'King'

Roy Acuff, "King of Country Music," and his Smoky Mountain Boys and Girls will headline the Grand Ole Opry performance at the Auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday. Ray 'Crazy Arms" Price and Pee Wee King of "Tennessee Waltz" fame will also be on the program.

Goldwyn Films Going to TV

Hollywood (AP) — Samuel Goldwyn, foxy giant of the movie world, has decided at the age of 80 to enter the television field.

Goldwyn announced he has formed an organization to distribute his movies to television. He also said he plans to go into production of films especially for television.

The Backstage Man

Unseen, He Shouldn't Be Unsung

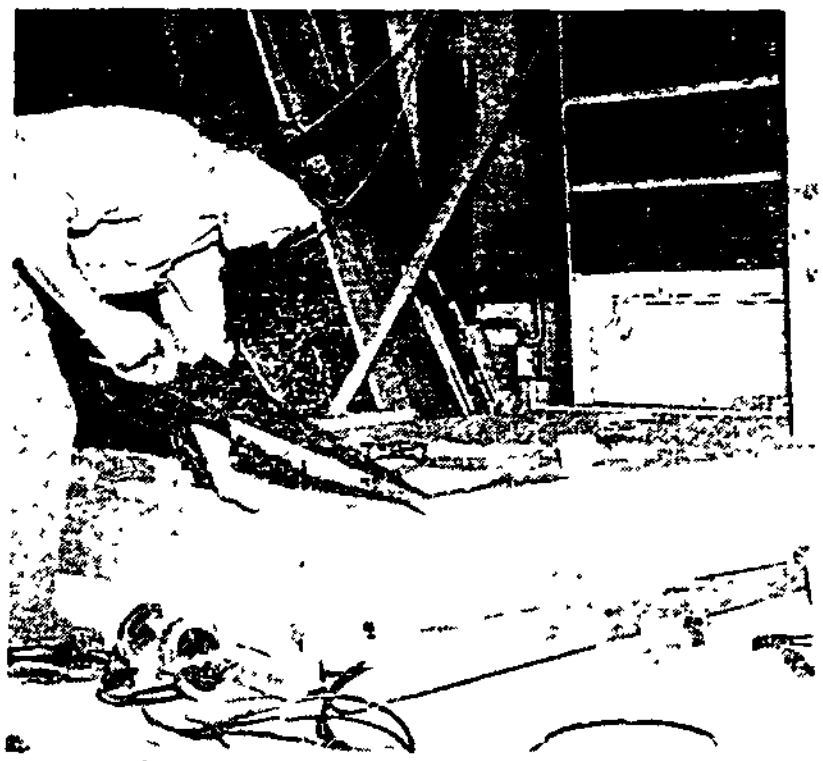
Playgoers will find their program notes turn a bright spotlight on performers — and they may well deserve it, but there is a backstage crew that also merits attention.

For instance, the current "Critic's Choice" at the Community Playhouse might well have been played on a bare stage without the efforts of August Dreier.

An associate professor of agronomy at the University of Nebraska, "Gus" enjoys bowling and other sports, but the theater had previously been his wife, Marceil's, hobby. When she played a major role in the first Playhouse production of the season, he got personally involved in construction work at the theater. It wasn't long before he was on everybody's list.

"If Gus says he'll take care of something, it's as good as done." Director Roland Reed says gratefully. "In an organization staffed entirely by volunteers, that kind of help is the backbone of the whole operation."

Gus not only does the job to everyone's satisfaction, he does it well enough to please himself. And he is a hard man to please. A section of wall that is up and in place but not quite the way he thinks it should be—may come down for a little readjustment so that it is exactly right.



Gus Dreier at work . . . hard to satisfy.

Doors that open and close as crisply as though they were a part of a model home are an innovation to the Playhouse. Rickety old components that are used in nearly every show, platforms and sets of steps, for example, have been braced and reinforced to they are steady and level.

Curtain calls would be in order for a really star quality performance, Playhouse observers contend.

Girl Wins $350 For Show Idea

Bonnie Thompson, receptionist for University of Nebraska's KUON-TV, finds it pays to think.

An idea for a story involving a student council discussion which she submitted to the Patty Duke Show came back with a contract for $350. She also will receive screen credit when the show is presented at an undesignated future time.

A 1963 graduate of an Illinois college, she holds a degree in speech and social science and was program director for a radio station while in college.

She was engaged in graduate study at the University of Nebraska last semester, and has been on the KUON-TV staff since November.

Stamp Design Features World's Fair Unisphere

Designs for a New York World's Fair commemorative stamp and a commemorative embossed five-cent envelope have been unveiled.

The stamp and the envelope will be placed on sale for the first time the day the fair opens April 22.

The stamp and envelope feature the Unisphere which towers over the World's Fair grounds at Flushing Meadows.

The stamp — a horizontal green on white — shows the main mall of the fair, with the Unisphere to the left.

The envelope in maroon is a stylized representation of the Unisphere.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations on the envelopes should send their request to "Embossed Envelope, Postmaster, New York World's Fair, Flushing, Long Island, New York 11380," enclosing six cents per item desired.

First day cover requests should be addressed to "First Day Covers," and sent to the same address.

KUON-TV Wider Audience Hope Buffeted by Checks

The sequence of events involved in bringing KUON (Channel 12) telecasts to a much wider audience by Jan. 1, 1965, is long and full of checkpoints.

But Jan. 1, or earlier, remains the target date for Jack McBride and Bill Ramsey, general manager and chief engineer respectively of the Nebraska Educational Television network.

KUON is the first of seven network stations scheduled to reach operational maturity.

The battle over tower location (near Mead) and height (now 889 feet) virtually ended, what's importantly next is federal approval for the KUON transmitter move from Lincoln and federal funds.

Hopefully, McBride told the Nebraska Educational Television Commission last week, the federal agencies involved will hand down their approvals and dollars around the first of May.

Bids Possible

That would make it possible for bids to be asked, opened and the contract awarded in July.

Ramsey estimated six months of construction time would be required.

Commission members desperately want to present the 1965 Legislature with tangible results springing from 1963 appropriations. Channel 12 serving Omaha, Lincoln and much of the eastern Nebraska population region would be such a piece of evidence.

Preliminary equipment specifications already are being checked.

And when the Commission meets next, at Alliance April 3, plans drawn by the University of Nebraska architectural department for a transmitter building, are to be presented.

No Cost

This architectural work is not costing the Commission a penny, McBride emphasized.

McBride

A secondary benefit is that the transmitter building design may be used again for additional network stations sites in central, northern and western Nebraska.

Lexington Channel 3, with a transmitter west of Holdrege, clearly will not be operational until 1965.

An effort by KMTV, Omaha, to move its tower near Millard has blocked immediate forward steps on behalf of the Lexington station.

A Federal Communications Commission regulation requires stations using the same channel have at least 190 miles of air separation between towers.

A KMTV move west from Omaha would violate the minimum separation zone.

And the ETV station can't be shifted further west because of a Channel 3 outlet in Sterling, Colo.

Will Dorothy Really Show?

By Associated Press

CBS has signed Dorothy Loudon, a regular on the Garry Moore show this season, to develop a comedy series for the 1965-66 season.

This doesn't mean she'll be on the network.

CBS signed Jerry Van Dyke a year or so ago for a 1964-65 series, but it has not been heard about lately.

Europe Debates Color TV

Chicago Daily News Special

London — Color television is now due to make its bow in Europe within the next year or two.

But whether this happens —and which of the three principal systems will be used — depends largely on a country that doesn't have a color system of its own to offer, namely the Soviet Union.

Representatives of the leading nations that have TV hope to reach a decision on whether the European nations should adopt the system used in the United States, another one developed in France about three years ago or a still newer German system.

European telecasters have learned one lesson from the past.

The trouble caused by their adoption of several different black and white systems has taught them the need for uniformity.

It is hoped that a unanimous decision may be reached within a few more months.

Ability to reach a majority decision rests largely on the attitude of the Russian and satellite delegates because it is obvious that both the Germans and the French will favor their own systems.

Probably because they have nothing to lose or gain the Russians have assumed what is described as a reasonable and neutral attitude.

But what decision they will finally take is another matter.

High School Stages Have Busy Weekend

Traditional events are scheduled on the stages of Lincoln's three public high schools next weekend.

Joy Night at Lincoln High and Nite of Knights at Southeast are variety programs, while Northeast will have an all-school play.

Joy Night's theme is a circus, commemorating the fact that at one time the 22nd and J school site was a circus ground.

Dave Beckmann will be ringmaster for a program that includes tumbling, baton twirling, singing, dancing and clowns. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

On request of LHS band director Orville Voss, Prof. Robert Beadell of the University of Nebraska provided arrangements for an 18-piece stage band that will provide the music for Joy Night. Formerly Joy Night music was recorded or piano only.

Twenty-one acts are scheduled for Nite of Knights at the Southeast auditorium, 37th and Van Dorn. With beatle haircuts, Ron Pfeifer and Rich Hoerner will be masters of ceremonies for a 3:30 matinee Thursday and repeat performances at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Curtain time for the Northeast play, "You Can't Take It With You," is at 7:30 p.m., with performances Thursday and Saturday at the school auditorium, 63rd and Baldwin.

Included in the cast for the comedy are Judy Stansbury, Carole Heileman, John Carter and Bob Spelts.

Julie Harris Joined By Briton in 'Alban'

Dick Bogarde, English motion picture star, will make his U.S. television debut Wednesday in a dramatic role in "Little Moon of Alban" "Hall of Fame" color telecast (NBC-TV, 6:30-8 p.m. cst). Bogarde will play opposite Julie Harris in the role of Kenneth Boyd, a critically wounded British soldier.

Miss Harris will play the role of Brigid Mary, a nursing sister, in the new production of the James Costigan drama. The original presentation on "Hall of Fame" in 1958 won 12 major TV citations.

Bogarde, a favorite in English films for 10 years, drew critical applause for his performance in the new motion picture "The Servant" soon to be released. A former scenic designer and commercial artist, Bogarde began his acting career during World War II. His most recent triumph in the role of a "gentleman's gentleman" in "The Servant" — the film which Great Britain will enter in the Venice Film Festival—finds him in a malevolent role, a departure for the handsome actor who is more often found as a romantic lead.

"Little Moon of Alban" is the story of a deeply religious girl's struggles to regain her faith after it is shaken by the deaths of her father, brother and fiance in the fighting with the English. During an assignment to a hospital for English wounded, she meets an enemy officer whose bitterness is equal to her own. Her challenge to her belief in the face of tragedy and her own insecure grasp on faith provide the theme for the poignant drama.

Miss Harris ... in "Little Moon of Alban."

Fuss Explained

By Associated Press

David Brinkley of NBC, explaining the reason for the enormous fuss over the New Hampshire primary, suggested it was partly because it was the first one in the election year and also because "it's a dull season of the year between football and baseball and besides it's fun to see millionaires stomping through the snow being folks."

Political Moxie Follows Formula

Convention. By Fletcher Knebel and Charles W. Bailey II; Harper & Row.

Hail Knebel and Bailey, boys who've found The Formula. May their capital gains—and those of all other working newspapermen—wax prodigiously.

Oh yes, The Formula:

Project the time a decade hence, with no major technological change in environment.

Choose a political setting.

Create an admirable, attractive hero with proper blends of courage, looks, brains and integrity.

Now, have the fates conspire. Major setbacks follow hard on preliminary losses. The situation grows damn near hopeless.

Then—up with the cavalry charge music here—a dramatic reversal hauls the battered reader through the finish gate, demonstrating again that if virtue can't be its own reward, it must be appeased in fictional circumstances of saleable character.

This was the skeletal outline for "Seven Days in May." Its popular bones show through again in "Convention."

Considering its release timing, a few months before the 1964 party gatherings, its skillful composition and its obvious political moxie, "Convention" ought to hit more home runs than will the New York Mets over the next 25 years.

— Dick Herman

Mrs. Wilson At Helm

When the Cheering Stopped. By Gene Smith; Morrow.

The book before us is about the woman who, for almost a year and a half, virtually functioned as President of this nation. She was, of course, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, and the story of her performance as the bedridden President's alter ego is told by Gene Smith with a degree of documentation never before possible.

It is a hair-raising chronicle, with a moral directly applicable today. Wilson lay on his back, semi-paralyzed by a cerebral thrombosis. His second wife, Edith Bolling Wilson, would neither allow anyone to approach him nor permit him to transfer his official responsibilities to Vice-President Thomas Riley Marshall.

The full cost of this behavior to the nation has yet to be fully assessed, but already Mr. Smith is able to prove to the hilt that our history was vitally affected by the action of the woman in the White House.

The problem of a disabled President is still very much with us. Who decides on this disability, as required by the Constitution?

Seen in perspective, the entire episode reads like a scene from a far-fetched thriller. But it was real and it was earnest, and, as reconstructed for us by Gene Smith, it makes a very cautionary tale indeed. —JB

On Reading

There must be short reading as well as bulky reading. We have our work to do, our livings to earn, and therefore we must, amid the tensions and the hurry of a normally busy life, take some of our books as we take some of our meals, in snacks.

BOOKS

B17s Fly Again on Wings of Mirth

Everything But the Flak. By Martin Caidin; Duell, Sloan and Pearce.

This may be the first book ever written about some of the preparations for making a movie that was based on another book.

When it was decided to put John Hersey's novel "The War Lover" on film, locating some of the major props was a problem. It was a story about a B17 crew based in England in World War II, so of course some real live Flying Fortresses were a must.

Caidin's story is about the trials of a fun-loving gang of fliers who took on the job of finding three B17s, putting them in top condition and delivering them in England where the movie was shot.

For those of us who flew in the Forts 20 years ago the yarn is spellbinding. Some of Caidin's descriptions of the Big Gas Birds in flight leave us misty-eyed. Those who never heard a Wright-Cyclone backfire will be only slightly less entranced.

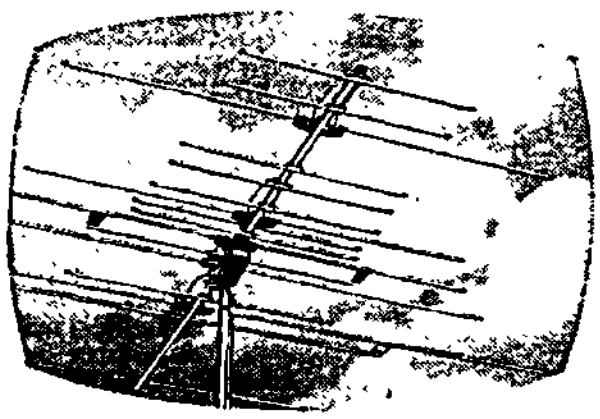
You don't need glasses...



You need a new WINEGARD COLORTRON ANTENNA

You need a more powerful TV antenna to clear up that picture. One that takes more of the signal from the airwaves, and amplifies it before it reaches your set. When your set receives a strong, clean signal from the antenna, your picture becomes sharp, clear, bright... more enjoyable.

Model for model, Winegard's new electronic Colortrons are the world's most powerful antennas. Distant stations come in clearer and sharper. Snow and interference are reduced or eliminated.

For color or black & white, you can't own a finer antenna for best reception. Priced from $64.90. Antenna without electronic amplifier $24.95 up.

"Heavens Above"

The hilarity is satirical in this candid comedy starring a mistaken appointment, Peter Sellers, as The Rev. John Smallwood.

A new vicar arrives in a garbage truck, appoints a West Indian his warden, opens his home to a disreputable family and performs other "eccentricities."

He is a distinct thorn in the side of most of his parishioners. Adult.

"Comedy of Terrors"

It's always foul weather when old fiends get together in a small New England city in the 1890s.

Boris Karloff and Vincent Price run a funeral business which is dying on its feet and there's constant dirty work as new customers are "done in."

Peter Lorre plays a ghoulish sort of fellow and Basil Rathbone is seen as a man who just won't die easily. Mature.

'Jones' Picked

Hollywood (UPI) — The Directors Guild of America selected the movie "Tom Jones," directed by Tony Richardson, as the outstanding directorial achievement of 1963.

The guild also honored George Schafer as the TV director of the year for his work on "Pygmalion" on the Hall of Fame.

All Greek To Them

New York (UPI)—An acting company is being formed to perform modern and ancient Hellenic dramas here in regular weekend repertory. The Saturday-only players are to include some who have trained in Athens.

The project is being directed by Adamantios Lemos, Greek actor-producer.

English-language translations via earphone are to be provided, but Lemos declares: "Although the words are Greek, the dramatic and entertainment impact of the plays presented is universal in understanding and appreciation."

A Yale Man Gives Advice

New Haven, Conn. (UPI) — Broadway might cure some of its recurrent box office ills by placing more emphasis on theater classics and revivals, says a member of Yale University's drama faculty.

Frank McMullan, associate director of play production, said there is too much emphasis on seeking the "new, unique and sensational."

Asserts McMullan: "The business of bridging the gap between past and present, is a great one, too often neglected by directors and producers today."

"A Tiger Walks"

Tigers are brave. So are girls

One of each matches wits in this exciting Disney chase story starring Pamela Franklin as the girl, Brian Keith and Vera Miles in the top adult roles, and a 400-lb Bengal as a striped tower of strength, speed and terror.

The tiger discovers he has been left unattended in a truck and gingerly steps out —giving a small town's citizens the thrill of their lifetime.

A National Guard mortar attack fails to stop the beast —and a little girl shows her courage. General.
